ASSISTANTS

HELEN ANDERSON — FREDERICK LENZ

RUTH SILVERMAN — JAMES WALTERS

ELSIE JONES — PERCY HULBERT

WALTER WALKER

ROY AUSTIN CARD

Gentlemen, step aside please, and let the members of the fairer sex gaze upon this good-looking youth with that schoolboy complexion and hair that doesn't need permanent waving. His looks aren't the only thing which we should speak about however, because he has helped E. G. A. to victory in both football and basketball. There are many more things we could say about you, Roy, but alas, we have already used the space alloted to you. Anyway we wish you luck, old boy, in everything you try.

ALLEN RAYMOND DURGIN

Allen entered E. G. A. when the illustrious Class of '27 came into existence. Quiet, unassuming and thoroughly likeable he has plugged along with us for four happy years. Durgin intends to enter the ministry and who knows, perhaps when he becomes a noted clergyman he will remember dear E. G. A. and return as others have done before him to favor us with one of his famous sermons.

HOPE EDDY

Hope is one of the members of our Class who has been with us for four years. She is studious and the honor roll would appear incomplete without her name on it. Hope was very quiet during the first three years but she has made up for it this year and we realize what a fine friend she is. She is never caught napping and is always ready with a quick witty answer. Pembroke will be honored with Hope's presence in September and we know if the Pembrokers have any sense they will regard her as a valuable friend.

AMIE GILBERT ELDREDGE

Amie entered E. G. A. with us, but at the end of her Sophomore year she left and became a student at Los Angeles High School. Perhaps she missed us here at E. G. A. Well, anyway back she came to graduate with our Class. We're glad that Amie did come back because the Class didn't seem the same without her. She has the distinction of being the only girl in the school who has her own car to run around in. We all noticed the class ring you wore when you came back, Amie, and hope that you don't miss him too much. Well, here's to you, Amie, and the success you'll get in everything you try.

ELSIE JUDITH ERICSON

Elsie is one of those fair Swedish lassies. Besides being late or absent consistently she is captain of the girls' basketball team. Her thoughts center about Kingston College. We wonder who has the magnetic personality. Acting, music and athletics are generally understood to be her chief subjects while the business course is only a side line.

GRACE BEATRICE GARDINER

The Class of '27 has the honor of having in its enrollment Grace Gardiner. In her we have the embodiment of mathematical skill. She thinks that when she does a thing she must do it well. As a result her marks in mathematics resemble prices at bargain sales—98's and 99's. This does not indicate by any means that she is as austere as one would imagine. She is always ready for a good time and we're sure that she'll always be successful.

ARTHUR LeROY HINCKLEY

Art must have the blood of a vagabond in his veins. He wants to go to a college in Oregon next fall and intends to bum his way. Many think of him as a hard working boy who does not have any inclination for athletics. He has, however, had his romances. Haven't you, Art? See him blush. "Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee," Art, but thank heavens, not our feet. They're tired enough already.

HAZEL LINNEA JOHNSON

Next comes the girl with the ever ready smile. Hazel is a quiet and likeable girl who is always willing to aid a good cause. She has taken a business course and we feel assured that she will be a success in the business world. Good Luck! Hazel.

GORDON LEONARD JOHNSON

Four years ago a quiet youth entered our illustrious vine-clad walls. This was no other than Leonard who quickly attached himself to the honor roll to which he has clung ever since. He is not only a good student but also an accomplished blusher. What a brilliant life he has before him! We wonder what he will become—minister, lawyer, doctor or what? When he has attained the ladder of success let us hope that he will not forget the days spent at E. G. A.

LILLIAN MARIE JOHNSON

Gaze upon the cheerful countenance of Lillian. She is one of the twins in our Class of whom E. G. A. is so proud. She hasn't taken any active part in athletics in school but is one of the star swimmers of the town. We don't know what Lillian's future plans are, but we feel assured she will be successful in whatever she attempts.

CHARLES HARRY LADD

We are indebted to Ladd for breaking up the monotony of the classes once in a while with his intended foolishness. Remember last year in English III when he asked Hope Eddy if she knew how to sneeze? Charlie, you don't seem to be greatly attracted to the girls but strange rumors have been about concerning last summer. We hope that we did not give the impression that Ladd is not a good scholar because he is, you know, and it is very seldom, if ever, that his name does not appear on the honor roll. Cheerio, Charles.

DAMIAO GOMES LUZ

Who have we here but the almost indescribable Damiao Luz. He's one of those guys ya know who is a fine athlete, classy dresser, drives his own car and dances divinely on the light fantastic toe. Have any of you noticed that Damiao has become quite fond of Warren this last year? It's a great deal closer to Providence than E. G. A. is. Catch on? It is when we think of parting with such fellows as Luz that graduation becomes a sad time. Farewell, Damiao, the Class of '27 will commemorate you not as a scholar but as an athlete, an all round good fellow, and an unfailing remedy for the blues.

HERBERT LEO McGRAW

Herbie has been our class president for three years and also one of our most active workers at all times. He is always willing to do his share of work and has been a star on the football team. Herbert is sure to be successful and prove to be one of the finest men who has graduated from E. G. A. We all wish him success in his future work, dairying.

MARGUERITE MARY McGRAW

Miggie is the most popular girl in our Class. She has distinguished herself as an actress and is always ready to lend a helping hand and has a smile for everyone. With such a personality she ought to be very successful.

She is pretty to walk with,
And witty to talk with,
And pleasant to think on.

JOSE ABEL MANTILLA

Mantilla came to us two years ago from Venezuela and on his arrival promptly gave us the impression that he was some shiek. We know now that we misjudged him. Besides spending some time on his studies Abel may be seen serving a wicked ball on the tennis court. He is our only student from Venezuela and if the rest are like him we are sorry that we have not more of them here.

ALICE ELIZABETH MINER

Now we come to the girl who is both pretty and smart. If you don't believe it just glance at her picture. Any teacher will tell you that she is a fine scholar. She isn't a grind, either. Alice finds time to giggle, go out for basketball, play tennis and attend games. She and Grace have become very devoted to one another and we are wondering how they will get along without each other after graduation. Wheaton will hear Alice's giggle next year and we hope that she will make as good records there as she has at E. G. A. Au Revoir, Alice.

AARON WILLIAM MITCHELL

Mitchell, our representative from Block Island, seems to resemble the inhabitants of the azure deep surrounding his native land. He is quiet and is not seen a great deal. It is in this way that he shows his kinship to the dwellers of the silent waters. He is very likeable and good looking. We are sure, Aaron, that you would be quite a heart-breaker if you used your personal qualities to advantage.

ROLF OLSON

Jupiter, the greatest of the Gods, ordered Appollo to come before him. "In the fair hamlet of East Greenwich I have promised that there will be born, one favored of the Gods. Go and bestow upon him your beauty and the qualities for which you are famed." This babe now almost grown to manhood is Oly Olson. Surely the prophecy of the Gods has been fulfilled. Good looking, witty, and musical Oly is admired by everyone. As Class treasurer he has been very successful and as the hero of the Senior play, you'll have to ask the girls.

ISADORE ERNEST PODRAT

This is Isadore, our Class cartoonist. He is always in great demand for making posters and cartoons. All these tasks he accepts good-naturedly. Isadore also plays the violin very well. When anyone wants to go to a game Isadore is always ready with his machine. Isadore's intentions for the future are somewhat vague, but we feel sure that some day he will be a great cartoonist.

EDWIN LLOYD RYAN

Each year Cape Cod and Newfoundland keep us well supplied with fishermen. Four years ago Ryan came from Newfoundland and he has been with us ever since. He intends to become a minister. Ryan is always ready to help some worthy cause and never refuses to do anything because it will give him extra work. He may truly be termed an ideal classmate.

COURTLANDT LEMMON SAWYER

Of course everyone knows Sawyer alias Tarzan. Do you remember the hand gripping contests and the checker games with B. Podrat? Renovating Fords seems to be another specialty of Sawyer's. Nearly every day you can see him with a different one. He doesn't mind as long as they hold together. He comes to our seat of culture every day or nearly every day from that backwoods region near Providence. He is one of these fellows who is mechanically inclined, perhaps to the detriment of his studies. When he leaves it will be E. G. A.'s loss for no one else could ever be quite like him.

RALPH FREMONT SEAVER

Introducing Ralph Seaver, by far the best speaker in the school. In rhetoricals while others are filled with fear he stands before us as cool as a cucumber and with that wonderful voice he holds our attention. Ralph has shown much ability as editor-in-chief of that bimonthly paper, "The Clarion." He has been with us but one year and our only regret is that he didn't join our class before.

MERRITT MANNING WELCH

It is not known whether Welch will be a souvenir collector or a decorator. His room is wonderful to behold. So many people have admired the pictures tacked on his walls that he has thought of charging admission to his room. This vast collection has done service in four rooms this year. Covering walls seems to furnish him great pleasure. Welch is on the basketball squad and also in the cast of the senior play. He certainly will be missed by all because he has won his way into the hearts of his classmates.

LAWRENCE HIRAM WOOD, JR.

Wood has only been with us a year but during that time he has become very popular. This is due to his good nature. We suppose that he will open a barber shop because he always likes to visit them or perhaps he will invent a waving device. If he does this we hope that it will produce a wave which will be as good as the one in his own hair. Wood's hair is certainly the envy of everyone.

History of the Class of 1927

THE Class of 1927 entered the "vine-clad walls of E. G. A." in September, 1923. The officers elected for this year were as follows: Robert Bates, President; Robert Appleton, Vice-President; Ethel Klammer, Treasurer; Marguerite McGraw, Secretary. Mr. Perry was chosen as adviser. A truck ride to Point Judith Country Club was enjoyed in early October. Freshman routine continued without any excitement until May. The Freshmen then attended their last social affair of the year.

Our Sophomore year commenced September 8, 1924. Mrs. True and Mr. Johnston were elected Class Advisers. The following officers were elected: Herbert McGraw, President; Alice Miner, Vice-President; Ethel Klammer, Treasurer; Marguerite McGraw, Secretary. Ethel Klammer left before the end of the school year and was succeeded by Elsie Ericson. Mr. Marley was elected adviser after Mr. Johnston had resigned from the school. A ride to Narragansett Pier was held after the mid-year examinations. "Scaramouche" was given at the Star Theater. Messrs. Olson, Card, Luz and McGraw entertained the audience with two funny sketches. This was the last affair of the Sophomore year.

At the beginning of our Junior year Mr. and Mrs. Schulmaier were elected as Advisers. The officers this year were: Herbert McGraw, President; Alice Miner, Vice-President; Rolf Olson, Treasurer; Marguerite McGraw, Secretary. A very successful social was held in the gymnasium October 9, and a truck ride was taken in March. A Food Sale was held April 21, and a moving picture was given in May. The last week of our Junior year was one of continuous work and fun. We were sincerely thanked by the Class of '26 for our good work in decorating for them.

We commenced our Senior year with a class meeting September 17, 1926. The Class Advisers elected were Miss Falconer and Mr. Davis. The cabinet was left unchanged. Roy Card was chosen to write E. G. A. notes for the Pendulum. Messrs. Ryan and Durgin and Misses Eldredge and Gardiner were elected as a ring committee. The Messrs. Ryan, Durgin and McGraw united with the advisers to form a play committee. October 2, a truck ride was held. A Food Sale was held on October 7, and an auction on October 15. We were very much obliged to the people who entered into the fun with so much zeal. A moving picture was given at the Greenwich Theater December 10. The returns were not very favorable due to the lack of advertisement and ticket selling. The Brown Glee Club gave an entertainment for us January 11.

Mr. Davis and Leonard Johnson called the Crimson Board together and they are doing some fine work. Plans for Commencement Week are well under way. We hope that this class, although rather quiet, will be remembered in after days.

M. M. M.

OOOOOO

L. Johnson:—"I'd face death for you."
Hazel Kirstead:—"Why did you run from that dog?"
L. Johnson:—"It wasn't dead."

OOOOOO

G. Jones:—"You look like two cents."
B. Jones:—"I don't see any dollar signs on you either."

OOOOOO

Ladd:—"What is Limburger Cheese composed of?"
Clevestrom:—"It isn't composed, it is decomposed."

OOOOOO

Mrs. Schulmaier:—"Do you believe in clubs for women?"
Mr. Schulmaier:—"Certainly, if they're not too heavy."

OOOOOO

Olson (speaking of Alice):—"She screamed for help, so I gave her another helping."

OOOOOO

Herbert McGraw:—"May I kiss you?"
Elsie Jones:—"No."
Herbert:—"Then I hope all your children will be wallflowers."

OOOOOO

Harry Clevestrom:—"Do you think Priestly would make a good fireman?"
Twombly:—"No, he never changes his hose."

OOOOOO

Allen:—"Don't you think my girl has a neck like a swan?"
H. McGraw:—"I don't know, I never necked a swan."

History of the Class of 1928

THE Class of 1928 was organized with Harry R. Lewis, Jr. as President and Helen Anderson as Vice-President. Ruth Brown was our Secretary and Daniel Freitas was made Treasurer. Miss Pentecost was chosen Class Adviser. The outstanding event of the year was a trip to the Albee Theatre where we saw the picture "Romola" from the book by George Eliot. After the picture, we went to the Dreyfus Hotel for dinner.

The Class was organized the next year with Miss Hume and Mr. Newbegin as Advisers. The Class officers were as follows:—Paul Pierce, President; Elsie Jones, Vice-President; Lillian Pharnes, Secretary; Howard Ericson, Treasurer.

There were more activities during the second year at the Academy than there had been in our first year. The Class began its year by giving a social for the school in the gymnasium. In March the Class made another trip to Providence to see the musical comedy, "No, No, Nanette." Later a picture was successfully given in the Star Theatre.

The next reorganization of the Class of 1928 took place September 20, 1926. Paul Pierce and Howard Ericson were reelected to their respective offices, while Helen Anderson was elected Vice-President and Dorothy Fry was made Secretary. For new Advisers, we selected Miss McClure and Mr. Farwell.

A Food Sale, held in Bickford's restaurant on an afternoon late in October, resulted in the loss of two pies. Otherwise it was entirely successful.

The Class sponsored the presentation of the motion picture "Laddie" on the twelfth of November at the new Greenwich Theatre.

The Class worked hard to make this affair a success and were well rewarded for their labors. Nothing more of a striking nature occurred until after mid-year examinations. Early in the second semester, the members of the Class with their friends enjoyed a ride to Narragansett Pier.

The Class feels a great debt of gratitude to their Advisers, Miss McClure and Mr. Farwell for the genuine help they have given.

History of the Class of 1929

TWO years ago we entered the "vine-clad walls of E. G. A." These first days were certainly confusing but soon we became accustomed to the ways of the school. At our first Class meeting we elected the following officers: Harold Shogren, President; Mary Swain, Vice-President; Dorothy Appleton, Secretary; Frederick Lenz, Treasurer. Miss Pentecost and Mr. Woodworth were chosen as our Advisers.

During this year we had a social and a picnic. These were both very successful.

Our Class has been somewhat broken up this year by the loss of several students. When we entered the school we had thirty-two students but now we only have eighteen. We now have the distinction of having the smallest class in the school.

Our officers this year were: Hudson Eldredge, President; Francis Brown, Vice-President; Dorothy Appleton, Secretary; Frederick Lenz, Treasurer. Mrs. Schulmaier and Mr. Woodworth were chosen as Advisers. During the year Dotty Appleton left school and Caroline Lincoln was elected Secretary. Later Hudson Eldredge also left and Fred Lenz was chosen President and Elizabeth Eldredge, Treasurer.

This year six of our Classmates were on the honor roll for the first semester. Francis Brown and Caroline Lincoln were on the first team in basketball and Etta Fogel, Dorothy Salisbury and Elizabeth Eldredge were on the second team. Fred Lenz and Lloyd King went out for baseball this spring.

On December 4, 1926, we went on a ride to Saunderstown. The Freshmen were invited and everyone had a wonderful time.

February 18, 1927, we joined with the Freshmen and gave a social in the gymnasium. This was also a marked success. The most picturesque event of the evening was the dancing of a minuet by four of the girls. Fred Lenz also played several selections on the guitar. This spring we hope to have many more good times. We sincerely hope that our Classmates will return again to E. G. A. after having a very enjoyable vacation.

History of the Class of 1930

The Freshman Class held its first meeting with the help of a Senior and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| President | HAROLD SHOGREN |
| Vice-President | EDNA LINDBERG |
| Secretary | RUTH SILVERMAN |
| Treasurer | NORMAN LINDGREN |
| Class Advisers | MRS. RUTH BROWN AND MR. CHARLES NEWBEGIN |

The first affair of interest was the observance of Freshman Freak Day as planned and conducted by the Seniors. Edna Lindberg and Barbara Lenz took the prizes for freaky make-ups.

The first real enjoyable affair for the Freshmen was the Sophomore-Freshman ride. The two classes journeyed to Saunderstown where a good time was thoroughly enjoyed.

Returning to school from the Christmas vacation, we felt fit for good hard work and likewise felt thoroughly at home in our new surroundings. Our first meeting for the new calendar year was held on January 4th.

On February 19th it fell to our lot to stage a social in the gymnasium which we did to the thorough satisfaction of all concerned. The entertainment features were furnished by the Misses Lenz, G. Jones, Lincoln, E. Eldridge, F. Brown and the Messrs. Lenz, L. King, Lindgren, and Shogren.

The annual girls' gymnasium exhibition was held on the twelfth of April with the girls of the Freshman Class participating.

This brief account of the Freshman Class describes substantially the career of the Class in its first stages of Academy experience. The year has been successful and enjoyable and the Class wishes to extend its gratitude to its Advisers and to other members of the Faculty for timely assistance during the year.

RUTH E. SILVERMAN, Secretary.

ATHLETICS

THE football season of 1926 opened with every natural circumstance against us. The strength of last year's team had been graduated. Moreover, a new coach was obliged to make his debut into our athletic programme with a squad of untrained material in the face of an unbalanced and vigorous schedule. Peculiarly, the most formidable team appearing on our schedule was the first on the list, and it can truthfully be said that in spite of undeveloped condition of the team, no better exhibition of fighting football was put up by our boys than that displayed in the LaSalle game. It was a classic.

The first Warwick game was developing into a thriller when it was protested; a most unsatisfactory conclusion to a contest promising some spectacular thrills.

From the standpoint of clean playing and good sportsmanship as well as statistics, the season was reasonably successful. Strong teams were played; yet none was able to score heavily, nor was there any game in which the Academy did not cross the opponent's goal line.

The strength of our scoring machine was concentrated in Howard Allen who had the habit of intercepting forward passes and springing surprise touchdowns. The line was somewhat erratic but at times furnished a stonewall resistance. Too much credit cannot be given to Raffles whose brilliant tackling at right end brought many a sigh of relief to the Academy rooters.

The last game with Warwick was a first grade exhibition. We were outmatched, but we fought to the last second and none will ever forget the beautiful sixty yard run of Kenneth Doane from the reception of a well-executed forward pass.

The scores piled up by the baseball team of 1926 resemble the results of football games more than those of baseball games. We had a heavy-hitting aggregation which slaughtered the first three opposing teams for a total of sixty-nine runs.

As the season progressed the opposing teams seemed to present a stiffened defense, and finally one team, Cumberland, succeeded in handing us a beating.

The coaching of Mr. Perry was the most important factor in getting such results from the material which he had. Each man was made to understand his position in a scientific way, and the hitting and base-running was done according to the best brand of "inside" baseball.

Gill and Baker divided the honors as slab-artists, the former getting the better breaks ultimately. Nichols and Lenz poled out some effective hits at times when hits meant many runs.

What awaits us another year is entirely in the hands of the Fates, since all the veterans but one were graduated at the end of the 1926 season.

As we write, we learn with assurance that the new material at first sight looks very good. The two Doanes comes with baseball records of merit and Howard Allen likewise has a reputation. Clevestrom remains from the 1926 season and others whose talent has lain dormant seem to show promise.

RARELY does a small school possess more basketball genius than we found in our midst when Coach Farwell called out the squad after Thanksgiving, 1926. Luz, Allen, the Doanes, Nichols and Appleton had all been seasoned. To these were added some hard working aspirants in the persons of Card, Averill, Bringue, Podrat, and Welch. The team played fast and creditably, yet the breaks of the game seemed to go the other way. There were two impediments in the way of the potential development of the team. One was the failure of individual players to practice regularly. The second was an unnecessary indifference to the new rules. Fouling was frequent and costly, resulting in too many disqualifications.

Perhaps the high points of the season were the two defeats of the Warwick team and the brace of victories over the Rainbows of East Greenwich.

Luz was generally a strong scoring factor. The Doanes were fast on their feet and worked together well. Appleton and Welch played steady and, at times, brilliant defensive games. Allen showed greatest familiarity in handling the ball.

GIRLS 1927 SEXTET

MISS ELSIE ERICSON . . . . . Captain
MISS MARJORIE MCCLURE . . . . . Manager
MR. HOWARD P. DAVIS . . . . . Coach

THE TEAM

ELSIE ERICSON . . . . . Guard
CAROLYN LINCOLN . . . . . Guard
BARBARA LENZ . . . . . Center
FRANCES BROWN . . . . . Side-center
BARBARA JONES . . . . . Forward

The brilliant team of 1926 had practically been wiped out by graduation. Only one veteran remained to infuse into the new material the fighting spirit of the former year. Elsie Ericson was the responsible veteran and captain.

Of course the prospects were not good until the new team had received its initial fiery baptism at the hands of the Alumnae in a practice game. After that the Coach knew that he had some gilt-edge material. The final results were proof.

The first three games were easy victories; the Academy girls showing intelligence, speed and stamina. The second game with South Kingstown proved to be a stubborn problem, but we emerged with the trophy. Then came the two games with the far-famed Warwick team.

The first of these games was played in the new Warwick High gymnasium on a Friday night. It was a brilliant exhibition of Basketball from any standpoint. The Academy girls displayed superior speed and mechanical smoothness. The Warwick girls presented an Ace in the person of their noted forward, Miss Compston. She with her superior height played in a different plane than was possible to ordinary creatures, and though her shooting achievements were considerably checked by the phenomenal endeavors of Miss Lincoln, nevertheless she was able to put the game on ice for Warwick. The final score was E. G. A., 35—Warwick, 46.

The second Warwick game was a slowed up repetition of the first one. Both teams were fatigued.

In the four games which remained the Academy girls showed signs of slight staleness and strain. Easy victories were scored in the return games with Trade School and Colt Memorial High School, followed by two close games with North Kingstown, one of which was a miserable deadlock. The final game was won by a margin of one point.

In a final practice game, the Academy showed its relatively improved strength by handing the Alumnae a good square defeat.

The squad were so loyal to their work that a good second team was developed which secured a trio of games with the team from the neighborhood cottage. All three games were won by the Academy girls.

The individual honors of the first team were evenly divided. It was a team of six fast clean intelligent players. None but the State Champions could beat them.

Winsor Notes

AS one surmounts Academy hill from the Updike, a beautiful work of architecture is seen upon the landscape. It is the Winsor Dormitory. That window on the second floor with the light in it is the watch tower for unsuspecting youths who are off campus. This dormitory is a favorite among the boys in spite of the clouds which frequently cast their shadows over it.

We will now introduce our readers to the splendid types of manhood dwelling therein.

Meet the coach, Claude F. Farwell, as we enter room one. He has done his best in spite of adversity to turn out successful teams. He is an authority on Evolution and has a new method for preserving hats forever.

Next, let us introduce "Garibaldi," alias Abel Mantilla. He has tried so hard to bear out his name, that he has been given all night in which to comb his hair. The predominating smell in this room is of turpentine.

In the next room, Lloyd King introduces himself. He is a good musician but the dormitory has to give him free shaves. His room is full of pillows and pictures.

Now I will introduce Mr. Twombly, whose room is full of incense and other people's articles. If he could not go home week-ends he would have heart failure.

Do you hear that noise? In room six Bringue is playing the violin and banjo while Mitchell is singing soprano. Joseph is a "Hound" in Chemistry but Mitchell did not agree with Chem. so took a dive out into the world.

Walk quietly into this room, because here lies King II, the Dead Man, among his bow ties and flapper shirts. While he is around all the other boys have to take second choice.

Let us introduce App. and Welch. We cannot stay long as they have one of their special free nights. This is the quietest room of the dorm. At any time during the study hour students may be seen quietly studying there.

We will now rise in the elevator to the upper and more heavenly regions. In room nine you will meet a personal pupil of Earle Liederman. He makes so much noise walking that the coach can't study.

In room ten you will meet a quiet chap who doesn't say much because he is studying so hard. Averill is one of the Cape Codders who helps to elevate the standard of the school.

Meet Albert in room eleven. He is a colorful boy with an affinity for red heads but he detests black heads. If anyone wants to hear some good singing (?) let him stick cotton in his ears and listen to Priestley.

In room twelve the born shiek of the dormitory is met. John Potter has never been the same since his roommate left him to face the world alone.

Charles Newbegin spends very little time in his room. He runs about the halls until early morning only to rise shortly and resume his running. But if anyone needs a friend or some help all he has to do is to let Charlie know.

In room fourteen you will meet the father of the dormitory. For all that sometimes he can leave his children and associate with his equals.

The occupant of room fifteen is not in (he rarely is). What he doesn't know about detention is not worth knowing. Ken. Doane rose from the lower regions of Cape Cod which alone proves his worth.

It is not safe to enter room sixteen. The monthly argument between Ricker and Daniels as to whose turn it is to sweep the floor is in session. Ricker, an addict of Sevetol, reminds us of an angel who wants to keep his mouth shut. Daniels is a silent member of the partnership.

Durgin, the ringer of the school chimes, meets us at the door of room seventeen. Even if he does arouse us early in the morning we don't mind it from a friendly chap like Durgin.

In the next room—sing while you enter—resides James Walters, our own baby. For all that, we would be satisfied if we had his mentality and his ear for music.

Lastly, let us meet our representative from Korea, of whom we are justly proud. He stands high in his studies and in the esteem of the dormitory men.

What more could one desire than to be among and observe these healthy and intelligent representatives of the young manhood of America. We are confident that all of them will make a mark in the world and that the Academy will be justly proud of them.

A. A. Averill, Jr.
K. L. Doane.

OOOOOO

Doctor Cooper:—"Don't try to deny it, I saw you coming out of that cabaret."

Ryan:—"Well, Doctor, you wouldn't want me to stay in there, would you?"

OOOOOO

Teacher:—"Spell ferment and give a sentence containing it."

Beetle:—"F-e-r-m-e-n-t.—To work. I would rather die than ferment in Miss Hume's room."

OOOOOO

Farwell:—"Forty minutes, Beetle."

Beetle:—"Oh! Gee."

Farwell:—"Forty minutes more."

OOOOOO

Welch:—"Do you play the piano by ear or note?"

Farwell:—"I get it down and play it by brute strength."

Olney Notes

OPPOSITE the south side of the campus is the north. On this north side, many, many years ago was built a mansion, which for lack of a better name was christened "Olney." (No champagne was used.) This building has influenced many lives, and we often are told of governors, mayors, and men of influence who once walked the halls of the Olney, tearing out hair in handfuls, pondering over Caesar, or math, or other easy subjects. (Maybe that is what Sam has done.) There are a few governors here this year, and possibly one president. Yes, we certainly hold out great hopes for "Bugs." Next, we must consider "Percy," but at one glance, we all know he will never amount to more than a pipe dream (15c a can). Well, read on, gentle reader, and you will learn more about the occupants of our dormitory.

The first three rooms on the left as you enter the door facing the campus, are occupied by the Rev. and Mrs. Schulmaier. Mr. Schulmaier has lately been bothered by an excess of dandruff. We suggest "Herpicide" before it is too late.

Across the hall in room four is our beloved Sam Crockett. He is the author of "What is Life Without Love." Sam is searching for a wife. Good looking girls will please send references, pictures, and also self-addressed, stamped envelopes to E. G. A., care of Sam Crockett. Someone told Sam one day that he could get a haircut with his hat on.

After leaving Sam's abode and walking up the stairs you reach the second floor. At the end of the corridor in room eight you find the inimitable Percy Hulbert, of Hulbert & Hulbert, Inc. Percy brings us our daily news from the post office. Percy hails from Hockanum, Conn., where men are men and the women are rough.

Across the corridor in room seven is a chap known as Cesar O. Prada, a rather quiet fellow who hails from Peru. He has been with us only one-half of the year, but he can distinguish a "Bonita Senorita" without any trouble, especially one with a black hat.

In room nine which is just before eight, is the place where Merrill Doane snores. Merrill has shades on his windows but he never uses them. Merrill is one of the most popular fellows in school and a good basketball player.

Across the hall from Merrill is the humble cell where Clevestrom (Swede) studies (?). This handsome fellow is a shiek in every sense of the word. When he is so disposed, he condescends to serve us our meals—but we believe that we are the "waiters." Harry (Swede) occupies the rank of commissioned officer in the smokers' brigade and his sweet voice can often be heard saying, "Let's go out and have a whack."

At the other end of the corridor in room eleven is the only one in captivity, known as Bugs. He is a mixture of Jumping Jack, graphophone, and a wonderful example of perpetual motion. If anything goes wrong, poor Bugs is sure to get the blame.

Falling across the hall we find the indomitable Prof. Woodworth. He is a chap who knows his onions when it comes to sciences (and also women). That "Nash" has done some stepping this year.

One must walk up another flight of stairs to get to the third floor, as the elevator is dislocated and the operator has been sick for two years. On reaching the third floor the first room on the left is occupied by a minister, Ralph Seaver, alias "Baby Face," who is the only student minister in our dorm—one is enough. Seaver has acquired fame as a poet. He has written several satirical verses and is also writing a class poem. Possibly the future American Literature students of E. G. A. will study about Seaver. He hails from Onset, Mass., where fish are citizens.

Cashman, his roommate, is a cross between a mud turtle and a hop toad. He is a good skate, however, and one always finds him smiling despite the fact he flunked English.

Falling across the hall you will find Tom Mercurio. Tom has been with us only one semester, but he is already a favorite with the boys in our house, because of his quiet unassuming way. He is trying to capture the shortstop berth on the team this spring.

The center room, sixteen by number, is occupied by Pablo Velasquez, (Mocho) who hails from Panama. His greatest faults were wine, women, and song, so he stopped singing. Now he is going to church almost regularly. Pablo enters M. I. T. in the fall. Good luck! Mocho. You will need it.

Last but not least is Daniel Freitas in room eighteen. Here in reality is a shiek who breathes of the Orient. He was rooming with "Swede," but "Swede" could not stand the odor of hair tonic and perfume so they separated. Frietas recently ruined his reputation (also Hulbert's) when he went to the "Old Howard" in Boston. The following morning neither felt like attending church. This ought to be a lesson to the other boys who get the temptation to enter an establishment of doubtful reputation.

There is an end to everything, and this is the end of this story, and soon our school year shall end. Most of us go and take ourselves to divers parts of the world, probably never to meet again, but we shall always have those tender memories of our school days here. Our trials and our joys; our days "on campus" will soon be forgotten, and only the "good times" will remain in our memories.

HARRY G. CLEVESTROM.

Eastman Notes

UPON entering the door of the finest building on the campus one discovers the attractive and cosy Eastman parlors where the few inhabitants have had many jolly times together around its fireplace. Occupying the northeast corner on the first floor our preceptress, Miss MacBrayne, has her abode. This is where the official business of the Eastman is carried on. When one is summoned to the regions below, she goes promptly but with fear and trembling to the palatial office until she looks into the sparkling eyes and roguish smile of the preceptress and hears her say, "Naughty, naughty, Smithie."

The only other occupant of this floor is Mrs. Thompson, whose business it is to keep the digestive organs of every one working properly. Her little treats have always made us happy.

As one goes up the stairs one sees a long hall with many doors. One is unconsciously drawn to the farther end of this hall by the misty glow of pink which throws its enchantment and draws one to the room occupied by Miss Hume. The lady's motto is that "Quietness is the greatest virtue in the world."

In room nineteen resides demure Grace Gardiner, a real student, with her large dreamy eyes and innocent smile. We hope she will not follow in the footsteps of "Arabella" as she appeared in "The Wrong Mr. Wright." For four years Grace has been a member of our happy family. We shall surely miss her when she departs for a higher institution.

The next halt is a cat gallery. Every Sunday afternoon one sees Clara Westcott sitting prettily on her bed cutting pictures of cats from the paper. If anyone finds a stray cat just send it C. O. D. to Block Island and Clara will be your humble servant forever afterwards.

Hippity hop! Land sakes alive! Look out, Flossie, those stairs are dangerous. We wonder where Miss Crowell is going to take these daily exercises when she leaves the "vine-clad walls of E. G. A." She is already practising

"I Want To Be Happy," and the "Snake Dance." We wonder if she intends to go on the stage or become a movie star. Which is it, Flossie?

Next one comes to the sunny room occupied by Miss Pentecost who has been for years the family physician and nurse of the Eastman. Of course we realize that this year the young ladies residing in this building have been unusually healthy and athletic and perhaps it is for this reason that Dr. Pentecost has resigned her position for more pressing duties. It looks suspicious, Miss Pentecost.

Now one arrives at the place known as the "Den" where one is likely to hear penetrating through the blue air unearthly noises but one is told not to fear as the twins live here. They are jolly good fellows. We are proud of their work on our basketball team this year and of the loyalty and love which they show for E. G. A. May Gladys and Barbara, who have already been with us four years, remain four more as we are all sure that the Eastman could not survive without them.

One then ascends another flight of stairs and enters the peaceful atmosphere of the third floor. Before arriving there funny giggles are heard which come from the southwest room where the Misses Crandon and Adalian have lived together for the last half of this year. As one must already have surmised, these young ladies are the quietest in the dormitory. The latest songs and giggles may be heard at all times of the day. We are sure that some day E. G. A. will hear of these two celebrities with their remarkable vocal chords and will be proud to say, "Yes, I knew them at E. G. A."

We regret that Miss McClure, who has occupied the northeast corner for so long, has left our family. We never realized how fine a golf player she was until we saw her practising on a little mouse that had no business touring in her boudoir.

As we approach the east side of this floor we meet our new girl, Betty Hicks. Although Betty joined our circle late in the year, she has won her place in our hearts. We have already discovered that she has much ability but has had very little chance to use it as the "Eastm nites"—meaning the girls—are such fast and lengthy talkers.

Farther down the corridor lives our quiet and studious Hope Eddy. For four years this has been her resting place. This yea[illegible]e have all discovered that underneath the surface is much hidden humor and often her unexpected wit has caused the rafters to groan. May her college days be full of sunshine and pep.

Our last inmate on this floor is Miss Falconer who has joined our ranks this year. God certainly touched her hair with gold when He made her, and this reflects through her soul. She has therefore found it necessary to keep a bear in her room in order to protect herself.

Through the long weary months sunshine has been imported this winter on the fourth floor of the Eastman through the jolly personage of Mrs. MacBrayne, the preceptress's mother. She has nestled so closely into the hearts of the girls that she is now called "Our Nanna" and is a necessary part of our household. Her fun and wit will long be remembered.

D. GLADYS JONES.

OOOOOO

Wood:—"What would you give to have such adorable hair as mine?"
Barnes:—"I don't know, what did you give?"

OOOOOO

Prof. Farwell in chemistry:—"Where does steel wool come from?"
Hope Eddy:—"Off the sheep on the Iron Mountains, of course."

Le Cercle Francais

| President . . . . . | MISS MARGUERITE MCGRAW |
| Secretary and Treasurer . . . | CHARLES LADD |
| Chairman, Entertainment Committee | MISS FALCONER |

Le Cercle Francais is a new organization at East Greenwich Academy. It was created through the efforts and at the suggestion of Miss Joanna Falconer, the instructor in the French department. The original members were the students of French 3 class.

Le Cercle meets once each month. The first meetings were royally entertained by the Misses McGraw, Eldredge, and Miner. At the January meeting it was voted to extend the privileges of membership to students of the French 2 class providing they attained averages of eighty or over.

In consequence of the increased membership, the fourth meeting was held at the St. Luke's Parish House. The Club has discovered that meetings and games can be successfully conducted "en francais"; probably owing to the forfeits required for violating the well-established rule. Mr. Bringue, though not a member of either of the French classes above designated, is one of the Club's most distinguished members. Through his knowledge of French, he has been very potent in making our meetings enjoyable.

To Miss Falconer, our adviser, we owe a deep debt of gratitude, for it is through her help and guidance that we have been able to form this French Club which has proved to be both instructive and entertaining. We hope it will be continued in the years to follow.

CHARLES H. LADD, Secretary.

Post-Graduates

With the ushering in of the 1926-27 school year there also entered the Academy an unusually large group of post-graduates. This class consisted of eight young men. At the first class meeting held by the Seniors, it was voted to extend an invitation to the post-graduates to join with the Seniors in the various activities of the Senior program. This invitation was gratefully accepted and the "P. G.'s" have participated with great pleasure in the various Senior activities.

The Principal-Elect

AS this edition of The Crimson goes to press, the announcement is made concerning the action of the Trustees of East Greenwich Academy by which Adlai T. Schulmaier becomes Principal of the Academy to succeed Dr. J. Francis Cooper. The new Principal, already an appreciated friend and leader of the student body, is well qualified by training and temperament for his new responsibilities.

Mr. Schulmaier first saw the light of day in Berwick, Me., in the year of Our Lord, 1893. He was graduated from Tilton School in 1919 and from Boston University School of Liberal Arts in the year 1923, at which time he received his Bachelor's degree. One year later, he took his Master's degree from the same institution and at the end of another year was graduated from the School of Theology.

The new Principal enlisted in the service of Uncle Sam at the outbreak of the war and served as Drill Sergeant and later Provost Sergeant at Souther Field Training Camp, Americus, Ga. Mr. Schulmaier's military service extended over a period of fifteen months during most of which time he had charge of the drilling and disciplining of "rookie" units.

During his two years at East Greenwich Academy Mr. Schulmaier has done admirable work as Field Agent, Registrar and Instructor in English Bible and German.

We feel justified in extending to the Principal-Elect and his wife, in behalf of the student body and friends of the Academy, a hearty welcome. The administration of the school passes from the strong hands of Dr. Cooper to the equally capable hands of Mr. Schulmaier.

The Academy Clarion

"THE Academy Clarion," published and printed in the school, has been a factor of interest since its first issue. The Editor, Ralph Seaver, and his Associate Editor, Percy Hulbert, planned and developed the idea of a school paper. The first number of the "Clarion" made its appearance at noon, February 1, 1927. This first issue was a paper of four pages, containing articles by the Editors and the Faculty. Write-ups of the various basketball games, jokes and quotations, completed the first volume. This periodical emitted from the Mimeograph Press every two weeks, and was welcomed enthusiastically by the entire student body. The second, and each of the following issues were enlarged to six pages, and sold for five cents the copy.

It was soon necessary to members of the Staff. An Art Editor and another Associate Editor were added to help improve the paper cartoons, very cleverly done by the Art Editor, increased the popularity of the periodical. It was not long before the "Clarion" was eagerly purchased by over two-thirds of the school.

The ever increasing amount of school work deemed it necessary to discontinue the "Clarion" for the current school year. The authors of this little paper have successfully carried out an idea that is far too valuable to be discarded. It is the sincere hope of the Editor of "The Academy Clarion," that it shall not have died, but that in a later year, it shall have a new birth, and be lifted to the same high plane that has characterized this publication since its beginning.

The Junior Department

THE Junior Department is devoted to the training of students under high school age. The work of the department this year covered the course of study of five different grades, from the first to the eighth. As there were, with the exception of the eighth grade, only two or three pupils in each of the other grades, it was possible to give much individual training to the pupils, according to their various needs.

Besides the regular work of the grades, special instruction has been given to students from foreign countries. Special care has been taken to give these students a working knowledge of English so that they may be able to grasp the context of the various subjects which they are pursuing in the High School.

The number of boarding students enrolled in this department was about the same as in other years but there was a decided increase over former years in the number of day students enrolled.

The boys became very much interested in athletic games this year and formed a basketball team. They played two games with a team from the town. Though they failed to gain a victory either time, the Junior boys did score on the other team. This was quite a credit to the Junior team as it had not had as much training as the other team. With the coming of spring, the boys have become very much interested in baseball. They have spent much time practicing, as they anticipate playing with the town team.

The boarding students of this department are under the care of a competent house mother, Mrs. McCormick, who has given great attention and thought, not only to their physical well-being but also to their moral and spiritual development. This year the house mother has had the assistance of one of the Senior students who took the boys hiking and supervised their games.

Social Events

Social Events

The new school year opened with a Faculty Reception at the Eastman, Friday evening, September 24, 1926. Members of the Senior Class acted as ushers and presented the students to the Faculty. The enchanting beauty of the Eastman was revealed to newcomers. With an orchestra for entertainment, and ice cream with cookies for refreshments, all had a very enjoyable evening. New students were made to feel the friendly spirit and knew that they were going to like the East Greenwich Academy.

The next event took place on October 2d. It was a Senior ride to the Firemen's Hall at Saunderstown. Everyone joined in playing games and trying to dance. The coldness of the night had no chilling effect on the spirits of the party and all expressed their satisfaction.

Again the Seniors, always the leaders, gave a social in the gymnasium. A grand march which opened the evening's affair, was followed by games. The Seniors had by this time shown the under-classmen how well they could entertain, especially with the refreshments.

It was a dark and chilly October night when many mysteriously clad figures could be seen crossing the campus and making their way toward the gymnasium. This was nothing less than the Hallowe'en Social. A committee composed of several students planned a "chamber of horrors." The hall was attractively decorated with orange and black. The students were led through blindfolded, one by one. As the only entrance to the gymnasium was through this chamber, all were forced to obey the commands of the leaders.

After all were assembled in the hall, the entertainment began by a grand march led by Dr. and Mrs. Cooper. When the march had ended, all unmasked. A short entertainment was furnished by several students, followed by the presentation of prizes. Refreshments were served and all joined in singing Alma Mater. Much credit is due to the several committees responsible for the planning of the entertainment for the evening.

The Junior Class decided to go on a ride to Narragansett Pier, at the Parish House, St. Peter's. A good orchestra having been engaged by chairman, "Joe" Bringue, dancing was enjoyed by everyone. Games and refreshments followed.

The committee in charge was composed of Paul Pierce, Joseph Bringue, Harry Clevestrom, Clara Westcott, Dora Abrams, Annie Thomas, Elsie Jones, and Lillian Halsband.

On February 22, 1927—Washington's Birthday—the Sophomore and Freshman Classes entertained the school group in the gymnasium. A very enjoyable evening was spent and the party was brought to a close by the singing of the Alma Mater.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

Class of 1926

Virginia B. Allen is attending Bryant & Stratton Business College in Providence.

Robert N. Appleton is taking a Post-Graduate course at the Academy. He has been a star in our athletics this year.

Leonard D. Baker is a student at Syracuse University.

Osborne Warren Bearse, Jr., is a freshman at Tufts Medical School this year.

Hope C. Becker is at her home in Middleboro.

Ethel F. Breard, Sadye Fogel and Ruth Proctor are students at Bryant & Stratton Business College.

George W. Brinson is studying at Oberlin College. He is successful in his studies.

Duncan B. Bryant is now at his home in Provincetown. We imagine that he is distributing E. G. A. polish over his native wilds.

John A. Chadwick is attending Colby College. We hear that he is doing very well here.

Alden C. Dudley is quite a success. He is learning the hardware business.

Irving M. Hart is working in a local store.

Bessie Kaufman is attending R. I. College of Education.

Ruth E. Kirstead is at home.

Stanley H. Lane is a freshman at R. I. State College.

Edith M. Lawson is working in an office in Providence. We're sure you'll be successful, Edith.

Philip Lenz is at R. I. State College where he has joined Theta Chi fraternity.

Anthony L. Piscatella was the star on the freshman football team at Rensselaer Polytechnical.

Narino C. Rivera has earned honors at M. I. T.

Benjamin J. Silverman is a business man now. He is helping his father in his shoe store.

William B. Smith is working hard at R. I. State College. Keep up the good work, Bill.

Edmund A. Steere is also a freshman at Rensselaer Polytechnical.

James E. Swan is a very industrious person. He is working during the day and going to school at night.

Raymond E. Tanner is a freshman at Brown University. He was a member of the Brown Band this year.

Ruth R. Vaughn entered R. I. College of Education last fall but she left soon after. We expect to hear of her marriage this June.

Benjamin M. Walpole is taking a Post-Graduate course at the Academy.

Ellen Welch is staying at home in Willimantic, Conn.

Mamie B. Wright is at home now.

Class of 1925

James J. Bacos is a sophomore at Tufts College this year.

David T. Adams and Conrad F. Dubray are both studying at New Hampshire State. They have both been successful in athletics.

Madeline M. Bengston is still working in Providence.

Salome M. Chase is still attending a Physical Culture School in Boston.

Marguerite L. Collette has finished her course at Bryant & Stratton Business College. She is now working for Mr. Knight.

Raffaella V. D'Attore is still attending R. I. College of Education. Who wouldn't like to have Rae for a teacher?

Ralph H. Farnham is a sophomore at Marietta College, Ohio. He went out for football and we hear that he was presented with a sweater with the college letter. Good work, Ralph.

Enrique Godreau is living in Boston.

Harriet Haven is married to Hollis Fairchild, a former E. G. A. student. We wish them happiness.

Grace M. Kettelle is working in East Greenwich.

Andres Martin is now at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

Leslie B. Nichols is working now but is going to college next fall.

Frank B. Money is attending Brown University. He is also a reporter for a Providence paper.

Bernard H. Podrat and William Rosenberg are both taking the Business Administration Course at Boston University.

Harold L. Scott is a sophomore at Brown University.

Gertrude M. Soule has become Gertrude Nichols now. Congratulations, Peaches.

Linda R. Steadman is a telephone operator in Block Island. How we envy those people in Block Island who are always able to hear Linda's sweet voice asking, "Number, please?"

Herman H. Voorneveld is at his home in Nantucket, Mass.

Lawrence B. Woodhead is a sailor in the hospital corps stationed at Chelsea.

Mabel Young is still working in Boston.

Class of 1924

David J. Adair is living in Cedarville, Ohio. He formerly went to Providence College.

Laura Albrecht is a bookkeeper at the East Greenwich Dairy.

Joseph Boren is working at the Greenwich Mills.

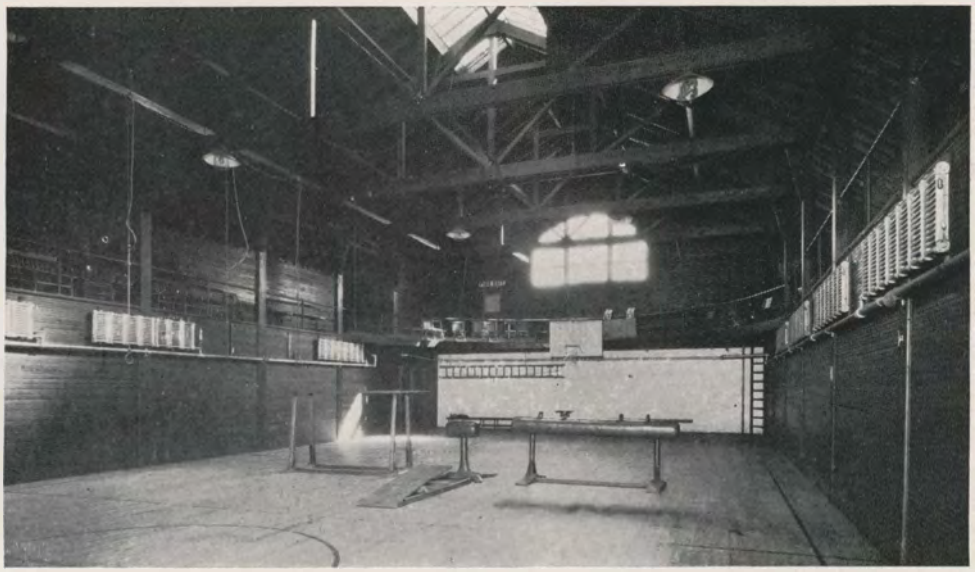

Ethel Boynton is married and is living in North Coventry. Good Luck! Ethel.

Hope Briggs is now Mrs. Arthur Rose. She has finished her course at the R. I. College of Education and is now teaching school.

Van Browne is still studying dentistry at Tufts Dental College.
Ruth O. Burnham is still studying in the New England Conservatory of Music. We know you'll be successful, Ruth.
John H. Carson is studying for the ministry at Lehigh University. Perhaps you'll be preaching in East Greenwich some day, John.
Willard B. Crawley is a junior at Brown University. You'll soon be building bridges, Bill.
Stephen S. D'Attore is a junior at Bates.
Marguerite C. Dennison is staying at home.
Gertrude M. Ericson will soon be a graduate nurse.
Marion E. Johnson is at home at present.
Blanche G. Kaufman is still secretary at the Main Street Garage. Shall we hear wedding bells soon, Blanche?
Violet E. Kettelle is a junior at Pembroke.
Eunice H. Laird is still attending Boston University.
Willard Lenz is studying at the Boston School of Practical Arts.
Gertrude Miller is at home. We hear rumors that she is to be married soon.
Mac Newbold is working hard in Southold, L. I.
Laura H. Peirce is still working at the Greenwich Mills.
John F. Pharnes is working in East Greenwich.
C. Elmer Shogren has a very good position at the Union Trust Company in East Greenwich.
Russell T. Shogren is working in a local store.
Cyril W. Sunderland has left R. I. State College and is at home.
Bertha L. Wright is another member of this class who is working at the Union Trust Company. We hear that she is wearing a diamond on her left third finger. Congratulations, Bertha.
Mabel N. Wright is still in the office at the Apponaug Bleachery.
Robert M. Talbot is a junior at R. I. State College.
Paul A. Yannon is working in a local store. He also finds time to practice on the piano.
Raymond W. Farnham is still at Marietta College.

Class of 1923

Santos P. Amadeo is now at the University of Michigan. He is still receiving high honors.
Paul J. Brown is at Cedarville College. He has received many athletic honors.
Oliver Butts is married and is living in Florida.
Ruth E. Clark has a position in Providence.
Torston J. Miller is attending Upsala College.
Irving O. Miner is a senior at Brown. Many honors have fallen his way.
Mary R. Scott is a senior at R. I. State College.
Francis W. Spear is at present working in the Outlet Store of Providence.

Welch:—"Don't know, sir, I've only been here two weeks."

○○○○○○

Ricker:—"What did he say to the principal when he was fired?"
Barnes:—"He congratulated the school on turning out such fine men."

○○○○○○

Wood (going into a sporting goods store):—"May I try on those hunting pants in the window?"
Clerk:—"Sorry, sir. Better do it in the dressing room."

○○○○○○

Sawyer:—"I'm off that girl. She insulted me."
Menzies:—"How?"
Sawyer:—"She asked me if I danced."
Menzies:—"What's insulting about that?"
Sawyer:—"I was dancing with her when she asked me."

Luz:—"Do you know Arthur Hinckley?"
Ladd:—"Yes, he's a bookkeeper."
Luz:—"You're right. He's had one of mine for years."

Pupil:—"Are you going to give us anything in the test that you can't do yourself?"
Teacher:—"Certainly not."
Pupil:—"That's fine." (Exit pupil.)

OOOOOO

Clara Westcott:—"What could be more sad than a man without a country?"
Miss Hume:—"A country without a man."

OOOOOO

Hulbert puts a dime in the collection box at church.—Usher has an attack of convulsions.

OOOOOO

Crockett's idea of perfection is Methusalah's age and Solomon's wives.

OOOOOO

Wood was born a bachelor and has made a business of it ever since.

OOOOOO

Miss Falconer:—"Only animals get mad."
Olson:—"Well, man is a form of animal, isn't he?"

OOOOOO

Card falls asleep in barber's chair.
Cooties forced to seek another hangout.

OOOOOO

Seaver:—"How does Daniels keep that straw hat on in windy weather?"
Cashman:—"Vacuum pressure, I guess."

OOOOOO

Time goes by in the heart
As the roses wither
Summer passes away
And the fall drifts hither,
Time goes by in the heart,
As the clouds in the sky,
There was a time when I loved you
But I have forgotten why.

OOOOOO

McGraw:—"What is the most popular flower?"
Olson:—"The Daisy."
McGraw:—"How's that?"
Olson:—"My boy, don't you remember what we have learned in English IV?"

OOOOOO

Prof. Schulmaier:—"There is an idle song I picked up somewhere which I whistle all the time. It goes like this. . . . .
Card:—" 'Gimme a Little Kiss.' Why, that's my work song."

OOOOOO

Woodworth:—"Daniels, what are you doing?"
Daniels:—"Nothing."
Woodworth:—"Well, don't do it."

OOOOOO

Walters:—"Say, Mr. Newbegin, what's that red tassel on Miss Hume's dress for?"
Newbegin:—"Catch me!"
