GRADUATING CLASS : 1932

VIRGINIA MAY ANDREWS

13 Eldridge Avenue, East Greenwich, R. I.

Academic Diploma Undecided

Modest, capable and friendly are the adjectives best suited to our "Ciddy." Some of us have had the privilege of knowing and working with her since our happy Freshmen days. No one in our class is more popular than "Ciddy," for her pleasant smile and evident willingness to do her share has placed her high in the opinions of everyone. If success depends upon hard work and efficiency, a brilliant future is anticipated for "Ciddy," as someone's attractive secretary. Best of luck to you, "Ciddy," we shall miss you when you leave us.

Class Vice-President (1), Hallowe'en Ball Committee (1), Glee Club (3), Crimson Board—Typist (4).

George Arnold Card

146 First Avenue, East Greenwich, R. I.

Academic Diploma Undecided

Georgie has been with us during our entire stay here, and his loss will be keenly felt. George doesn't say much, but we're sure that a great deal lies under that outer covering of taciturnity. Always interested in the class and its doings, George has made his presence very evident to us in many helpful ways. The Class of '32 wishes you the best of luck, George.

Herman Geller

31 Ryan Street, New Bedford, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma University of Alabama

It certainly was a lucky day for the East Greenwich Academy when Herman Geller came to us from New Bedford High School. Although he has been with us but one short year, "Herm's" friendly smile and obliging manner has won a warm place in the hearts of us all. As for athletics—who can forget Geller's excellent performances on the gridiron and basketball court? We all envy the college which is fortunate enough to enroll "Herm" next year.

Football (4), Basketball (4), Glee Club—President (4), Tennis (4), Crimson Board—Athletics (4), Baseball (4).

Theodora Gleason

72 Rector Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Classical Diploma Pembroke

Theodora is one of those few fortunates who is able to top the honor roll and still find time for other activities. Besides being our Valedictorian, "Teddy" managed the girls' basketball team in a most efficient manner. It is difficult to imagine what would happen to our class meetings if "Teddy" were not there to give helpful suggestions and to bring order out of chaos. Theodora is also one of the nightingales of our class, having proved herself worthy of this title by her fine performances in the various operettas. "Teddy" is one person who will always remain a delightful memory to us.

Glee Club (1) (2) (3) (4), Hallowe'en Ball Committee (1) (2), Senior Prom Committee (3), Debating Team (3), Junior Dance Committee (3), A. A. Manager (3), Manager Girls' Basketball (4), "Dragon" Staff (4), Crimson Board—Alumni (4), Valedictorian.

David Horowitz

227 Warrington Street, Providence, Rhode Island

Academic Diploma Georgetown University

This brilliant young man came to us from Providence Classical in his sophomore year, which we have had no cause to regret. To most of us he needs no introduction for his fame in football and baseball has made him well known as well as popular among his fellow students. It has long been Dave's ambition to be a criminal lawyer but by the looks of the "ads" he has brought in, maybe he had better take up Salesmanship. Dave's work as the business manager of the Crimson has been surpassed by none. Georgetown University will welcome him next year.

Baseball (2) (3) (4), Football (3) (4), Debating Society (3), Glee Club—Vice-President (4), Crimson Board—Business Manager (4), Ring Committee (4).

Doris Barbara Hosking

261 Globe Street, Fall River, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma Undecided

Fall River sent Doris to us in her Freshman year. In the four years which she has been with us she has proved herself a most valuable member of our class. We have come to regard her happy smile and cheery word as a daily occurrence. As yet Doris has not let us in on the secret as to what type of career she intends to follow, but wherever she goes or whatever she does we hope that Doris has the success and happiness which she deserves, and that, my dear readers, is a great, great deal.

Glee Club (1) (2) (3) (4), Hallowe'en Committee (1), Junior Dance Committee (3), Class Secretary (4), A. A. Manager (4).

Joseph Kanner

331 Elmgrove Avenue, Providence, R. I.

Academic Diploma New York University

This is Joe—the answer to a maiden's prayer. But for Joe's witty remarks and brilliant answers to amazingly difficult questions, English IV would have appeared rather dull at times. For a while we wondered whether Joe was going to be a day student or a boarder, but for a car—oh well! It has long been a puzzling question to us what profession Joe will follow. We should like to suggest that he be a lawyer, as his persuasive, argumentative nature has already well-equipped him for that position. Best o' luck, Joe old man!

Track (3), Debating Society (3), Glee Club (4), A. A. Manager (4), Crimson Board—Advertising (4).

Ethel Pauline Keehn

9 Spectacle Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island

Academic Diploma Undecided

We are indebted to Gould Academy of Maine for sending Ethel to us. Always smiling, always happy, always friendly, that's our Ethel. Although Ethel has been with us but one short year her place will not be readily filled. While at Gould, Ethel captained the Basketball squad for two successive years but much to our dismay she was unable to play on our squad. And, boys, Ethel is some keen dancer! We bid farewell to you, Ethel, with best wishes from the entire class of '32.

Gould Academy:

Basketball (2) (3)—Captain (3), Junior Play (3), Easter Play (2), Secretary Student Council (2), Secretary Y. W. C. A. (3), Specialty Acts (1) (2) (3).

David Leen

305 Hawthorn Street, New Bedford, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma University of Alabama

Attention, readers! Allow us to introduce to you this good-natured, happy-go-lucky, extremely likable chap who is none other than Dave Leen. Coming to us at the beginning of this year, Dave entered school activities with a whole-hearted vigor. To see Dave play football and basketball is certainly a treat to the athletically inclined. Dave's pleasant personality has made him one of the most popular members of our class, and we all join in wishing him Godspeed wherever he may go.

Football (4), Basketball (4), Glee Club (4), Crimson Board—Athletics (4).

Mary Eliza Nichols

19 King Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Academic Diploma Undecided

Look twice at the picture of Mary Nichols. She has been a delightful asset to our class, entering into its activities from the very beginning of her Freshman year. Track is the sport in which Mary excels, especially in the meets with Warwick High School. Mary also turned in some highly commendable work on the Senior Prom Committee last year. We feel that the worst part of graduation is the fact that we shall be deprived of daily seeing people like Mary.

Track (2) (3), Senior Prom Committee (3), Class Vice-President (3).

Evelyn Edith Oates

30 Main Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Classical Diploma — R. I. State College

Who is this attractive looking miss? Why, don't you know? That's Miss Oates. Evie, with her infectious smile, heads our popularity list. Being the youngest member in our class has no drawbacks for Ev. Usually she is seen dashing madly for the girls' dressing room for a forgotten book about three seconds before the last bell. Evie's athletic prowess is unquestionable. Basketball is her favorite, having played three successive years at side-center. To climax her basketball career Evie was elected captain of the squad. E. G. A. will lose much of its vivaciousness and pep when R. I. State claims Evelyn next fall.

Basketball (1) (2) (3) (4)—Captain (4), Class Assistant Treasurer (1), Class Vice-President (2) (4), Soccer (2), Track (2) (3), Class Secretary (3), Tennis (3) (4), Ring Committee (4), Crimson Board—Personals (4).

Adella Ann Olson

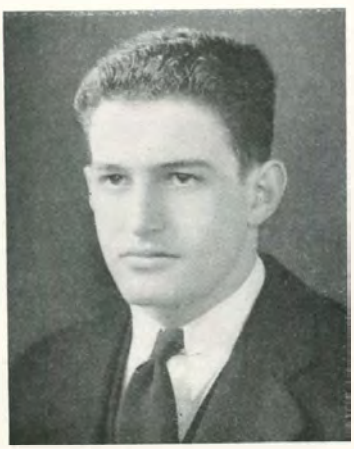

15 Irving Street, Worcester, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma — Ohio Wesleyan

This peppy little miss hails from the big city of Worcester, Massachusetts. For four years she has been among us, her ready wit and laughing good-nature becoming a necessary part of our daily routine. As a basketball player Del excels, having been high-scorer for the past two years. It is probable that Ohio Wesleyan will welcome our Del next year, where we are sure she will make good. We're with you, Del!

Basketball (2) (3) (4), Glee Club (3), Debating Society (3).

Benton Harold Rosen

63 Gallatin Street, Providence, R. I.

Scientific Diploma — R. I. State College

"For he's a jolly good fellow" can be rightfully said of Bent Rosen. His sense of humor seems never-ending, and Bent can take as well as give a joke. But he's an athlete as well as a humorist, as shown by his brilliant career in that line. Bent captained both the football and basketball teams this year in excellent fashion. What Bent doesn't know about Physics, Chem, Solid, Trig and the like couldn't fill up very much space, we're sure. Rosen plans to enter Rhode Island State College in the fall, whence we shall watch his progress with great interest.

Football (3) (4)—Captain (4), Basketball (3) (4)—Captain (4), Baseball Manager (4) Business Manager of "Dragon" (4), Class Treasurer (3), Crimson Board—Humor (4).

Howard David Silverman

187 Main Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Classical Diploma Brown University

Hail to our President, Editor and Friend! "Howie" has been an active member of our class for four years, three of which he has capably filled the position of class president. Aside from his executive ability he also possesses the outstanding ability to head the high honor list at will. Basketball and tennis are the sports wherein Howie shines. We all join in congratulating Howie on his extra fine work as editor-in-chief of the "Crimson." Brown is the lucky college which will have Howie in its enrollment next fall.

Football (3), Basketball (3) (4), Tennis (3) (4), Mgr. Football (4), Alumni Ball Committee (4), Editor of "Dragon" (4), Crimson Board—Editor-in-Chief (4), Salutatorian.

Winifred Cecelia Symons

19 King Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Classical Diploma R. I. College of Education

Sesame! The door opens and here we see Winnie, the quietest girl in the class. Winnie excels in Latin, since she intends to be a teacher of that language in the future. Winnie also excels in Gym. The breath-taking stunts she performs on the rings and parallel bars just come natural to her. If everyone in the Senior Class has done as much work as Winifred has during her four years here, then they may have a just claim to his "Sheepskin." R. I. College of Education will gain a valuable member when Winnie enters next fall. May the best of everything be yours, Winifred!

Soccer (2), Track (2) (3), Senior Prom Committee (3), Crimson Board—Photography (4).

Murray Maurice Tallman

513 Rockdale Avenue, New Bedford, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma Boston School of Podiatry

People say that it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good, but it sure was a good wind that blew Murray Tallman in our direction. He is the personification of "Pep" itself. He dances divinely and sings jus' perfect in the approved "Cab" Calloway fashion. Murray also strums a "mean uke." Aside from his musical abilities, Tallman is quite the clever cartoonist, his handiwork appearing on numerous banjo heads and book covers around school. Murray's being with us but for one year has not been nearly enough, and we all wish we were to see more of him.

Football (4), Crimson Board—Humor, Art (4).

Edward Freeman Thompson

611 Walnut Street, Fall River, Massachusetts

Academic Diploma Undecided

Next in line is the ever-present Edward Thompson. Eddie is another four-year veteran hailing from Fall River. He has become so much a part of our class and its activities that it is difficult to imagine what the coming years will be like without fellows like "Eddie" around. As yet Edward has not confided in us as to where he plans to attend college, but we are sure that he will prove a huge success wherever he goes.

Basketball (3), Senior Prom Committee (3), Glee Club (4).

Clementina Villalaz

Los Santos, Republica de Panama

Two-Year Business Certificate Undecided

Just two years ago Clementina came to E. G. A. from Los Santos, Republic de Panama. In these two years she has proven to us that our language can be mastered if one is willing to work diligently and hard, because that is what Clemmy did. Her half pessimistic, half hopeful "No?" at the end of all her questions affords much amusement in Eastman. She is known to some people as a quiet little person, but we who know her better can vouch for the fact that any time any fun, noise or frolic is going on, little Clemen is always there. We've enjoyed her companionship these two short years and wish her success in all she undertakes.

Maria Carolina Weeden

Chitré, Republica de Panama

Two-Year Business Certificate Undecided

Carolina Weeden, who came from Chitré, Republic de Panama, is the "Good Samaritan" of Eastman Hall. How many quarrels has "Carol" patched up? How many "sorrowers" has she comforted? How many pictures has she taken without films? How many friends has she made? "Countless," is the answer. Carol is full of life, fun and ambition and has proven her scholastic standing by her ability to talk English, not mentioning her commercial abilities. She sails for dear old Panama this summer and we hope she'll not forget her innumerable friends left behind at E. G. A. All the luck in the world to you, Carol.

Diana O'dary Weeden

Chitré, Republica de Panama

Two-year Business Certificate Undecided

Diana is the other member of the Weeden family whom we have been overjoyed to have as a school companion these two years. We fear that in the naming of Diana, "PEP" was erroneously left out. This happy-go-lucky young Miss is always "raring to go," always exulting over some joke played on one of her friends, and always laughing and happy. However, the serious and ambitious side of her make-up is shown by the great progress she has made in all her studies. Diana, you have our sincere wishes for a pleasant voyage back home and a bright future.

Mary Blodwen Williams

10 Church Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Academic Diploma Katherine Gibbs Business School

Who's this fair, copper-haired maiden? Why, need you ask? That's Mary Williams, the fashion plate of our class. Mary is always very smartly dressed in the height of style. A rather quiet miss, but we're quite sure that class meetings would accomplish a great deal more than they have if Mary's example were followed. Throughout her four years Mary has done more than her share in everything. Business is Mary's line, and we all feel sure that some day she will be a success as some one's efficient secretary.

Soccer (2), Class Secretary (2), Basketball (1) (2) (3), Senior Prom Committee (3), Crimson Board—Advertising (4).

James Edward Yorston

468 Main Street, East Greenwich, R. I.

Academic Diploma R. I. School of Pharmacy

We again welcome our pal, "Jimmie" Yorston. After three years at Warwick High he has at last returned to the fold. The reason for this we do not know—perhaps he realized that good old E. G. A. isn't so bad after all. "Jim" has proved himself a valuable asset to the school, especially as a football and basketball player. Lots of luck, "Jim." R. I. School of Pharmacy is lucky this fall.

Football (4), Basketball (4), Baseball (4).

SENIOR HISTORY

ONE RADIANT FALL morn, four years ago, there entered upon the threshold of high school life, a group of bewildered young boys and girls, prepared to meet and conquer every obstacle that high school learning presents.

When once established, they found themselves to be the class of 1932 of the East Greenwich Academy. After they had become familiar with their surroundings and acquainted with their classmates, class officers were chosen as follows:

ROBERT E. NORDBERG ..... President
VIRGINIA ANDREWS ..... Vice-President
EDWARD WARD ..... Treasurer
EVELYN OATES ..... Assistant Treasurer
ANNALEE FLANDERS ..... Secretary
MISS VIOLETTE KETTELLE, MR. P. HUBERT BONNER ..... Advisors

When the Annual Hallowe'en Ball took place in October, the Freshmen were assigned the most important task, the refreshments. Considering the amount of the same that remained, they decided that their part in the affair was most successful.

New class members, new standards to meet, new and finer events looming ahead, new friends,—in short, the start of their Sophomore year at the East Greenwich Academy. In due time considerations were made for class officers, and finally the Sophomores elected:

HOWARD SILVERMAN ..... President
EVELYN OATES ..... Vice-President
MALCOLM RAWLINSON ..... Treasurer
MARY WILLIAMS ..... Secretary
MISS GAIL PATTERSON, MR. EDWARD D. INTAS ..... Advisors

While the Sophomores did not sponsor any social activities themselves, they staunchly supported all events given by the other classes. However, a food sale was given, and the Sophomores generously allowed the public to purchase their many delicacies.

JUNIOR HISTORY

As we are about to enter our last year at the East Greenwich Academy, we Juniors pause to look back over three never-to-be-forgotten years. Although we were mischievous and irresponsible as Freshmen, we bravely fought our way through a sea of exams and an ocean of home-work, always seeking to increase our store-house of knowledge. We had wisely chosen the following as our class officers:

William Horgan	President	Lucy D'Attore	Secretary
Ruth Johnson	Vice-President	Ivan Smith	Treasurer

By the time we had become sophisticated enough to be Sophomores, we were well on our way up the ladder of success. Although our members had dwindled in number, they had alarmingly increased in stature.

As a result of an important class meeting, the following officers were elected:

Albert Halsband	President	Lucy D'Attore	Secretary
Winifred King	Vice-President	William Horgan	Treasurer

The following September we returned to cast aside the name of Sophs and to assume the title of Juniors. We organized quickly and selected the following officers:

Albert Halsband	President	Winifred King	Secretary
Lucy D'Attore	Vice-President	Marshall Stokoe	Treasurer

Thus far in our career at East Greenwich Academy we had not sponsored any social events. However, as Juniors, we quickly made up for lost time. We gave two candy sales and one food sale during the year, but decided to find some quicker means of making money. As a result of much debating, we decided to try a Hallowe'en Ball, which was supported loyally by the entire student body, besides many alumni. We made enough money to cover expenses with a small surplus. Encouraged by this success, the Juniors, determined to have one crowning event before the close of the school year, sponsored a Junior Prom. On April 29th, the Academy gymnasium was a place of gay festivity, attractive decorations, refreshments, a fine orchestra, and nearly fifty couples completed a scene of perfect contentment. The Junior Class has spent a most happy year at East Greenwich Academy, and eagerly look forward to their fourth and last one here.

Lower Row: Norma James, Walter Swanson, Helen James, Mr. Intas, Miss Babcock, Perry Shor, Rose Waterman.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

SINCE WE CONTROL influential positions in this illustrious class of Sophomores, we shall proceed in our own manner to bring before you as honestly and fairly as possible the high, low, good, bad, strong and weak points of our class during this year of 1931-1932.

In the fall of 1931 we came to East Greenwich Academy, bringing with us, to continue in the great struggle for knowledge, thirty of the most talented personages the world will ever know.

We are now Sophomores, having been promoted to the second rung in the great ladder of Education.

In order to assemble things for the year's work, we held a class meeting, electing:

PERRY SHOR	President	FRANK GILL	Treasurer
HELEN JAMES	Vice-President	NORMA JAMES	Secretary

Miss Madalin Babcock came to us in the beginning of the year, and we immediately chose her for our class advisor. She has been very helpful to us throughout the year in the many problems that have confronted us. This year we have attended the upper classmen's dances and socials, as we have been unable to conduct any of our own. Candy sales were numerous throughout the year, and our girls have proved their cooking as well as scholastic ability.

During this year we have been very proud of our athletes. In basketball, Perry Shor excelled, while Arthur Ericson was elected manager of the basketball team and, in addition, is famous for his left field catching in baseball. Other baseball stars from our class are Perry Shor and Alve Oberg.

On the girls' basketball team we boast of our clever forwards, Hope Lindberg and Viola Carcieri, with Doris Algren at center. Other players are Jeanne Underwood, Helen Olson and Rose Waterman.

Many Sophomores were represented in the Glee Clubs. Norma and Helen James were elected Vice-President and Librarian respectively of the Girls' Glee Club, while Arthur Ericson and Perry Shor are members of the Boys' Glee Club.

With vacation coming, we look forward to another year at East Greenwich Academy, but never forgetting a delightful second year, gaining new friends, new knowledge, with everyone fired with the glory and enthusiasm of youth. What memories are stored away to be recalled with pleasure! May the future years of the class of 1934 be as happy as its history in 1932.

POST GRADUATES

TWO YEAR BUSINESS

OTHER CLASSES

IN MENTIONING the Post-Graduates, we must pause for a moment in deference to this remarkable body. The P. G.'s have in their small but versatile group, athletes, scholars, singers and artists. School activities are never complete in any form without their quota of Post-Graduates, who make it their business to support all that goes on within the walls of East Greenwich Academy. In the picture shown on the opposite page, we have from left to right:

The maxim "It's Quality, Not Quantity, that Counts" may be most appropriately applied to the group of girls who are to be graduated this year with Two Year Business Certificates. Every one of these girls have appeared on our quarterly honor rolls at least once, with some consistently making the grade. They are all sincere, hard workers, and their earnest efforts will doubtlessly be rewarded in the near future. On the page opposite we have from left to right:

Bottom Row: LENA CARCIERI, MRS. WILLIAMS, DIANA WEEDEN.

We have Freshmen, as Freshmen go, but, strange to say, have never had cause to regret it. The installation of a new Junior High course in the James H. Eldredge School accounts for the lack of numbers in the group, but, as in most instances in the East Greenwich Academy, quality is decidedly present. Our Freshmen have been heard of during the school year in one way or another, and we all feel sure that they will do honor to the school and to themselves in future years. We have on the opposite page the following from left to right:

Top Row: Edwin Littlefield, Dexter Haven, Stewart Chace, Harry Siegel, Arthur May, Alfred Hardwicke.
Middle Row: Elizabeth Sawyer, Priscilla Hodge, Minnette Franklin, Philip Dow, Mrs. Stewart, Mazie Forman.

JUNIOR SCHOOL

THE JUNIOR SCHOOL is the smallest unit but the most important factor in the entire Academy—in its own estimation.

The boys and girls are contented and happy all the day long—excepting during school hours—and even then if the instructors slacken reins for a moment.

This department is rather select, too, not always condescending to associate with the High School students. For years past they have had their own exclusive acreage which they appropriated, originally, for baseball, football, golf and all such manly sports. Now they are grieving over the fact that East Greenwich is expanding and threatens to engulf this delightful playground in a new development.

The Junior boys are also exclusive in their home life, having a dormitory for their very own use. The large, light, sunshiny bedrooms are conducive to sweet and healthful sleep—rather too sweet, long and healthful to meet the approval of their Royal Highnesses.

Their assembly room is a place for all kinds of quiet games and happy exchange of ideas. And oh, HOW they can chatter, indeed,—"all talkers and no listeners." The two pleasant classrooms are in Olney Hall, also, where practically all the activities of this group are carried on, and as a rule, Juniors only are admitted. The boys invite the girls from the Eastman, move aside the portable desks, and with an instructor at the piano, they stage a real party. The girls, not to be outdone, prepare a lot of sweet refreshments and return the compliment without delay. But modern youth craves excitement, and the year '31-'32 had been moving too staidly, too smoothly, too systematically. So it seems to have been decreed that "the fireworks be put on." Accordingly, on April 24th, when content, quietude and Sabbath calm reigned supreme, a wicked fire broke through the roof and could easily have consumed all personal belongings as far as the Olney

ALUMNI 1880-1931

MAKE WAY FOR THE ALUMNI! Yes, here they come, with bands of glory playing and banners of achievement floating on the June breeze.

First of all we see the Class of 1880, marching a little slowly perhaps, but still with heads up.

1880 . . . Jennie Thomas is now living in Providence after many years of teaching in East Greenwich. Besides, we happen to know of a delightful little poem she has written.

And here is George Loomis, whose face and voice are familiar to all in East Greenwich through the fact that he has been town clerk for so many years.

Herbert Smith, the first in our line of ministers, is retired, and lives in Little Silver, N. J.

1881 . . . Sarah Aylesworth is now Mrs. Moses Shippee, the beloved Town Councilwoman of East Greenwich. We shall see later that her daughter is one of our Alumnae also.

Another well-known figure in East Greenwich is Ella Aldrich, the Mrs. Chapman of the library, a terrifying figure to the sticky-fingered younger generation, but liked by their elders.

1882 . . . On another June day, fifty years ago, the Class of '82 received their diplomas. Special honor to them for their half century!

Dwight S. Whittemore, a physician, makes his home in Brockton, Massachusetts.

Especial thanks are due Mrs. Frank S. Allen of Hartford (Celia A. Rattray) for the information she has given us about other Alumni.

1883 . . . Lyman G. Horton—now Lyman G. Horton, D.D.— will be remembered as principal of the Academy for several years. We have heard the roof gave him a little trouble—but we won't go into that. He lives in Fairhaven, Massachusetts, now.

Frank L. Bliss, now of Monson, Massachusetts, is in the insurance business.

1884 . . . Mattie L. Starr married Dr. A. H. Wood, and lives in Providence, R. I.

Mary Bray, a missionary to Chile, married Rev. Edward F. Sampson, who has since died. She now lives in Pittsford, New York.

1885 . . . Nettie Carpenter, Mrs. Haven, lives in East Greenwich at the present time, and has three children, all of whom graduated from E. G. A.

1887 . . . John D. Miner owns Miner's dry goods store, well known to all who live in East Greenwich. Besides, he is one of our school trustees.

Emma Reynolds Knight of Willimantic, Connecticut, has a daughter, Marjorie Knight, who graduated just twenty years after herself, in 1907.

1888 . . . Well, here we come to George Blakeslee. We know that he graduated from Wesleyan and taught at the Academy; that is straight. After that, however, is a blur of words—dates, places, names, degrees, accomplishments. We manage to learn that he has obtained a "Dr." before his name, and is Professor of History and International Relations at Clark University, in Worcester, Massachusetts.

We were pleasantly surprised when the present Baptist minister in East Greenwich,

Rev. C. Barnard Chapman, came to town and informed us that his mother was Sarah Belle Coffin of '88. She and her husband, Rev. Hamilton E. Chapman, now live in Boston, Massachusetts.

1889 . . . Arthur Talmadge, Wesleyan '93, is principal of the Forest Park Junior High School in Springfield.

Robert C. Parker is judge of the District Court of Western Hampden in Massachusetts. His home is in Westfield.

1890 . . . Another all-E. G. A. family is that of John S. Allen, whose wife, formerly Mabel Burlingame, '96, and whose daughter are both among our Alumni.

Howard V. Allen holds, among other responsible positions in East Greenwich and vicinity, that of Manager of the East Greenwich Branch of the Union Trust Company.

1891 . . . Here we have another judge—Elmer J. Rathbun, Associate Justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court. After leaving E. G. A. he earned his A.B. at Brown and L.L.B. at Boston University.

Lo and behold! the Class of '91 produces two whose names appear in "Who's Who." The second is Dr. Charles O. Judkins, pastor at Glens Falls, New York, since 1901, and lecturer in the defense of the modern critical constructive view of the Bible. He attended Wesleyan and Boston University and is a trustee of the former institution.

1892 . . . For many years Mabel Palmer, who graduated in music, has been well known as piano and organ teacher, music supervisor, and musician in the town of East Greenwich.

Again, in the case of Dr. Albert Blakeslee, we simply cannot "see the woods for the trees." We manage to gather the facts that he graduated from Wesleyan, and that he is now ranked as a botanist. The latest of his many books is called "Trees in Winter."

1893 . . . In this class we find Grace Allen, Mrs. Riley, whose daughter attended E. G. A. later.

We find Benjamin T. Livingston, who lives in Sharon Hill, Pennsylvania, a professor in Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. He sends a good word for E. G. A.

1895 . . . Walter Browning, at present one of the owners of William G. Browning's Sons' store in East Greenwich, is among the town's influential citizens. His wife was Abbie Tabor, E. G. A. '95.

1896 . . . Mabelle Dorcas Tucker, Mrs. C. C. Gleason of East Greenwich has the distinction of being one representative of the third generation of her family to attend E. G. A., while her daughter, now in school here makes the fourth.

Mrs. Harriet Peirce Reynolds' daughter, Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, taught at E. G. A. in 1928-29. Mrs. Reynolds is now living in Wickford, R. I.

1897 . . . Harold Madison is curator of the Museum of Natural History in Cleveland. He married Florence Ball, of the same class.

Emma Austin Hale is now a housewife in Unionville, Connecticut.

1898 . . . Adventure, change, characterize the life of Carl Cutler. A trip around the world before the mast—law—business—finally writing, tell the skeleton of his story. Most of his present fame comes from "Greyhounds of the Sea," the tale of the American clipper ship, while his history of the Mallory family, who were important in the New England shipping industry, is his latest work. West Mystic, Connecticut, is his home.

1899 . . . Jennie Howland, now Mrs. Thomas P. Nichols, is prominent in community work in Westerly, Rhode Island.

Mrs. Clara Carpenter Bowen lives in Fall River, Massachusetts.

J. Waldo Carpenter, a salesman, lives in East Greenwich.

1900 . . . Lorena Wilbur, who was graduated in 1901 also, married Walter B. Kingsley of Allenton, R. I.

Jesse W. S. Lillibridge, salutatorian, conducts a real estate business and a dairy farm in East Greenwich.

1901 . . . Irene Howland Nicoll is a prominent contralto singer in San Francisco.

E. Gertrude Arnold, for many years art supervisor in the East Greenwich schools, now holds the position of art supervisor and manual training teacher in North Kingstown.

1905 . . . This class produced mothers of two future valedictorians.

The first is Mrs. Ruth Wheelock Brown, who has had two daughters who attended E. G. A. Miss Frances Brown was Valedictorian in 1929.

The second is Mrs. Sarah Crompton Whittle, whose son was Valedictorian in 1930.

1906 . . . Marguerite Noyes teaches at the James H. Eldredge School in East Greenwich.

1907 . . . Myrtice Tucker, Mrs. Lindley I. Dean, lives at Pigeon Cove, Massachusetts.

Althine Borden, now Mrs. Frank P. Crandon of Acushnet, Mass., has three daughters who have been students at the Academy.

1908 . . . Our third judge is Wayne Whitman, judge of the Fourth District Court in Rhode Island.

Well, here is the popular Robert Williams appearing as president of Ohio Northern University, at Ada, Ohio! Moreover, his is one of this continuous succession of E. G. A. romances, as he married Mabel Caroline Howard, a student here.

Marion Shippee, daughter of Sarah Aylesworth Shippee, E. G. A. '81, is living in East Greenwich.

1909 . . . J. William Corr, who married Katherine Louise Galvin, '08, serves on the East Greenwich school committee.

1911 . . . Harold Cranston Miner, who graduated from Brown University and Tufts Medical School, is now practicing in Providence, R. I.

Julia Stacey Gould has made her mark in the music world. Miss Gould, assistant to William Whitney of Boston, has studios in Boston, Providence, Kingston, and East Greenwich as well as being our popular vocal teacher at the Academy.

1912 . . . Mary Isabel Briggs, graduate of Brown University, and later teacher at the Academy, is now Mrs. Palmer Miner of Stonington, Conn.

1916 . . . Albert Gaisford and Inez Riley of this class are married and living at Oakland Beach, R. I., where Rev. Mr. Gaisford is pastor.

1917 . . . All who remember Marion Selee Pickles please say, "Aye." Deafening! Well, our Marion Pickles, now known as Marion Selee, having graduated from Boston University and taught in various places is now going on operatic tours and what not, with favorable comments from the best critics.

1918 . . . Marjorie Silcox Thissell is living in Cambridge, Mass.

Bertrand Shurtleff, who came to us from Adamsville, is not only a high school teacher in East Providence but publishes poems.

1919 . . . Xenophon Vurgaropulos is a physician and surgeon of Lowell, Mass.

1920 . . . We find that Albert W. Ayles of Dexter, New York, is district manager for the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co.

1921 . . . Ruth Lahan, our accomplished singer, is now married and connected with the Knox School for Girls at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Robert B. Scott is sales engineer for the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corp., Knoxville, Tenn.

1922 . . . Elizabeth Haven, valedictorian, whose mother, also, is an Alumna, after teaching school in East Greenwich, where she still lives, married Leonard Weindel.

Elmer Earnshaw, salutatorian, is well known to East Greenwich residents through his being engaged in the drug business.

1923 . . . Kenneth Norton, we hear, has a good position on an oil tanker between Galveston and New York.

Mary Scott, after graduating from R. I. State College, came to the Academy as dietitian. Now, after she has been teaching at Kingston for a year, her loss is mourned by many here.

Norman Curry is manager of the Piggly Wiggly in East Greenwich.

Otis Burt, owner of a hay, grain and feed business at Greenport, L. I., is the father of three children, including a pair of twins.

We now find Paul Brown studying at B. U. for his master's degree. Next year he expects to resume teaching at Bucksport Seminary, Bucksport, Maine, where he is athletic director.

1924 . . . Paul Yannon has certainly turned out to be a musician! Everyone in East Greenwich who has heard him play the piano—and many have—will agree to that.

Bernard Podrat at present teaches in the James H. Eldredge School at East Greenwich.

We hear that Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliam Newbold (Mrs. Newbold was Mildred Asp) of Southold, Long Island, have a fine family.

Willard Lenz, a commercial artist in Providence, married Ruth Burnham, also '24.

Violette Kettelle, salutatorian, the "Kitty" of the three past Academy years, after graduating from Brown, taught here for the aforementioned years, and now teaches at the James H. Eldredge School.

David Adair, famous as an athlete, coaches at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois.

1925 . . . Frances Hill, now Mrs. Jones, of Worcester, informs us that she keeps house and does craft work, such as batiks, hangings, and jewelry, for an artists' exhibit.

Hollis Fairchild and Harriet Haven are married and living on the Cape. Hollis is a ship's radio operator.

Ralph Farnham, besides teaching in the Glenville High School, Chicago, coaches track and football.

Another of our teachers, Raffaella D'Attore, teaches in the Eldredge School.

James J. Bacos, of Lowell, reports himself as a registered pharmacist and pharmaceutical chemist.

1926 . . . On and on come the school teachers. John Chadwick, also, has headquarters at the Eldredge School.

Bennie Silverman reports "store manager of Silverman's Department Store, East Greenwich, R. I."

Sadye Fogel is employed with the Commissioners of Inland Fisheries, Providence, R. I.

We have heard that Robert Appleton, receiving clerk at the Roosevelt Hotel, New York, has aspirations toward fame. Time will tell.

Ruth Proctor holds the position of editorial auditor for the Providence Journal Company.

Virginia Allen, daughter of John S. and Mabel Burlingame Allen, both among our Alumni, is employed by the Hospital Trust Company in Providence.

1927 . . . Roy Card, who was recently married, is employed by the United States Rubber Company in Providence.

We have been informed that Merritt Welch, the first of '27 to be married, is the father of a daughter born last November.

Marguerite McGraw teaches grade four in the Eldredge School.

1928 . . . Who should be office secretary at E. G. A. but Ruth Brown?

1929 . . . We find Dora Waterman working as bookkeeper at the Majestic Hardware Co., West Warwick.

Louise Algren holds a secretarial position at the Southern Rhode Island Farm Bureau at East Greenwich.

Frances Brown, valedictorian, is attending Pembroke where she is prominent in athletics.

1930 . . . William Whittle, valedictorian and son of Sarah Crompton Whittle, '05, with his cousin, Walter Walker, salutatorian, attends Brown.

Ruth Silverman is enjoying herself at R. I. State College, Kingston.

Edna Lindberg, also, is employed at the State House.

To Marion Whitworth, a student nurse at the Homeopathic Hospital, belongs the distinction of being the first to answer the letter sent to all Alumni.

Other members of the Class of '31 who are at the Homeopathic Hospital are Mildred Algren, Bernice Chase, Myrtle Boren, and Rhoda Williams.

Lurana Andrews works in the H. V. Allen Estate Agency.

1931 . . . Alice Regan is a stenographer in the office of Booth Bros. Oil Service Co. in East Greenwich.

Edna Johnson is another representative of E. G. A. at Homeopathic Hospital.

And Bee Bent, '31's first bride, is living in Greenville, N. C. Her name is now Mrs. Roy C. Flanagan, Jr. Bee was attending a Fashion Academy in New York City where she became acquainted with her husband.

Last year's editor-in-chief, Wesley Osborne, is studying at Boston University.

Malcolm Rawlinson is at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, while Rafael Guzman, Israel Brayton, Edward Ward, and George Potter are taking post graduate work here at E. G. A.

Irene Johnson is employed as a bookkeeper and Margaret Haire is at home.

In closing, we wish to thank all Alumni who have made this Alumni number of the E. G. A. CRIMSON possible, both by their generous contributions and by information they have sent us. Especially would we thank Dr. F. D. Blakeslee, remembered by so many with the greatest affection and esteem, for the news he has given.

They have passed by, now, our Alumni. All honor to them; All honor to their school and ours — E. G. A.!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Miss Theodora Gleason, assisted by Miss Doris Hosking and Miss Lucy D'Attore, has undergone great difficulties in accumulating the following data on the Alumni of E. G. A.

Top Row: Irving Kenyon, Herman Geller, David Horowitz, James Yorston, Joseph Ernstoff, Leonard Anderson, Howard Silverman.

FOOTBALL

AT THE OPENING of the season the number and quality of candidates seemed to promise a team of average strength, but the failure of the co-operation of the original number of candidates to continue in observing training rules and completing the season, made necessary the undesirable shifting of men from their natural playing positions to positions for which they were not fitted. At mid-season the number of players available was just enough to make a team. Daily practice lacked the necessary competition among the men.

Consequently our football season was unsuccessful. Due to the lack of a scoring punch at critical moments, we suffered defeats. However, the games were closely contested and lost by small scores.

The Rhode Island State Freshmen game showed the real power of the East Greenwich eleven when the Academy boys out-played their opponents throughout the whole game, to lose on a forward pass in the last minute of play.

In the game with Stonington High School at Stonington, Connecticut, the Academy boys played a wonderful game against odds. Due to injuries, substitutes were used frequently. Fighting hard, we were defeated by the close score of 6-0.

Of course, the game with our rivals, Warwick High School, was the spotlight of the season. Warwick, rated one of the best elevens in the state, found East Greenwich a real tough proposition. A blocked punt in the very beginning of the game gave Warwick an early 6-0 lead, and a short end run late in the third period placed the score at 12-0. After many thrilling plays and hard battling, the game ended with this score.

NOTE: Due to members breaking training rules, only the following men received their football letters. Captain Benton Rosen, quarterback; Joseph Jacques, end; Herman Geller, guard; David Leen, guard; Managers William Horgan and Howard Silverman.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

COACH WILLIAMS' first call for basketball brought out twenty-five candidates at the Swift Memorial Gymnasium. From the five veterans of last year's squad, Bent Rosen was soon elected captain.

After a few days of preliminary practice, the squad was cut. A few weeks of intensive practice developed a rather smooth-working combination which was altered a few times during the season due to the arrival of new material. The new ruling of the Athletic Association that a player can fail only one subject every two weeks kept many of the regulars out of the game.

On December 11, the East Greenwich quintet won its first game by the score of 29-22 over the Alumni. In the second game, with West Warwick, we were defeated by the close margin of 16-12. The regular combination was broken up due to the ineligibility of a few players.

The game with Rhode Island College of Education in Providence showed the Academy five at its best. Fast passing, accurate shooting, and a five man defense enabled our boys to win by a score of 30-15.

The most outstanding game of the season was with our traditional rivals, Warwick, on our home floor. The regular combination of Rosen and Geller, guards; Shor, center; and Leen and Davide, forwards; started off at a fast pace to lead at the end of the first quarter 6-2. The pace set proved too fast, and Warwick led at the first half, 13-12. The game was what any spectator could wish for. It was close throughout with many thrills. The lead continuously changed hands until the last few minutes, when the East Greenwich Academy five, greatly aided by the spectacular one-hand shooting of Roland "Bennie" Davide, a former Warwick High athlete, put us into the lead, which we held to the end. The final score was 32-26. During the season we won five games and lost eight.

The following men receive their letters: Captain Benton Rosen, guard; Roland Davide, forward; Perry Shor, center; Herman Geller, guard; David Leen, forward; Howard Silverman, forward; Lawrence Bassett, guard; Leonard Solomon, guard; James Yorston, center; Charles Siegel, guard; Managers William Horgan and Arthur Ericson.

Top Row: Yolanda Maddalena, Dorothy Haddock, Helen Olson, Miss Houston, Marguerite Regan, Elizabeth Manchester, Rose Waterman.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

WHEN THE SHARP winter air was arousing the athletic prowess that lies dormant in our girls, Coach Mary Houston made her first call for candidates for the girls' basketball sextet. Six veterans and nearly fifteen other aspirants appeared in the gymnasium for the first practice, and the 1932 basketball season was on.

The opening game was a loss to the Alumni by the narrow margin of 22-19. In the last half the Academy sextet valiantly essayed to overtake the huge lead which the Alumni team had accumulated, but with victory just within grasp the final whistle put an end to their efforts.

The game with Bryant-Stratton proved to be an overwhelming defeat for our girls, due mainly to the extreme slipperiness of the floor.

Warwick High School was scheduled next, and the most exciting and best played game of the year resulted. Every point was hotly contested, and half time found the score tie at 14-14. Although outplaying their opponents in the last half, particularly in the last quarter, East Greenwich was on the short end of a 29-26 score.

Although meeting little success in their return game with Warwick and Bryant-Stratton and their two games with West Warwick, the hard, clean play and the fine brand of sportsmanship displayed by the East Greenwich Academy girls made their games very worth while witnessing.

This brief account cannot be closed without mentioning the various girls who played real fine basketball for East Greenwich Academy this past season:

Captain Evelyn Oates at side-center was outstanding in every game, playing her position brilliantly. We feel sure that if an All-State Girls' Team existed, Miss Oates would be the evident choice for side-center.

Adella Olson was our high-scorer, with Hope Lindberg and Viola Carcieri both claiming close second honors.

Doris Algren played well at center and guard, while Elia Peretta and Lena Carcieri played a consistent game at the guard position.

Miss Mary Houston and Herman Geller, the coaches, deserve credit for their sincere efforts and extreme patience during the 1932 season. Theodora Gleason must be mentioned for her earnest work as manager.

With wishes of good luck to the girls' basketball teams of the future, the East Greenwich Academy sextet of 1932 passes into oblivion.

Top Row: Mr. Rawson, Arthur Ericson, Alve Oberg, James Yorston, Leonard Anderson, Charles Siegel, Benton Rosen.

BASEBALL

THE BASEBALL candidates for the East Greenwich Academy nine of 1932 looked the most promising in many years. Palermo, Shor, Horowitz, Solomon, and Ericson from last year's team were all available.

Under the supervision of Mr. Fred Rawson and coaching of Roland Davide, the training of the squad thus far indicates a very successful season.

The first game was played with Bryant & Stratton on our home field. Bryant & Stratton brought down the strongest team in its history, having two All-State pitchers, who saw action. The game went to eleven innings, and with the score 3-3, had to be called on account of darkness. Davide featured with his pitching, and Palermo's timely homer in the eleventh inning were the highlights of the game.

The second game was played at Moses Brown Academy, Providence. The East Greenwich Academy nine was easily the better team, winning handily in seven innings by the score of 6-2. The great hitting of the team and the spectacular pitching of Davide were responsible for the victory.

Pitcher—ROLAND DAVIDE—His four years of experience, and wonderful ability as a pitcher and batter was the mainstay of the team.
Catcher—LAWRENCE BASSETT—The other end of a perfect battery.

Infielders—
HOROWITZ—When he connects—
PALERMO—What an arm!
SOLOMON—He stops 'em!
DOW—They seldom get by him.

Outfielders—
SHOR—Very dependable. He gets his high ones.
ERICSON—Little, but always under them.
YORSTON—Those lanky legs cover ground.
SIEGEL—Watch him next year.

ACTIVITIES

A SCHOOL YEAR is not complete unless it contains those little affairs, those pleasant gatherings of schoolmates, those "soirées" which make thoughts of life at the East Greenwich Academy warm and pleasant ones.

"There was a sound of revelry by night."

The night—Friday, September 24, 1931. The place—The East Greenwich Academy Gymnasium. The reason—The Alumni Ball sponsored by the faculty with the true spirit of comradeship that only the Academy can create. Alumni of the very early classes were present; the student body and friends were adressed by Alumni of various classes. The event proved to be a real success and it was the right start for a chummy school year.

Bubbling over with school spirit, the Senior Class edited a very successful school paper, "The Dragon." The honor of editor-in-chief was given to Howard Silverman.

The ghosts and goblins urged the Junior Class to once more call the student body together and celebrate Hallowe'en. Gay costumes and happy voices filled the gymnasium. After the Grand March the prize for the prettiest costume was given to Miss Lucy D'Attore, while the prizes for the funniest costumes were received by the Misses Theodora Gleason and Doris Hosking.

Dancing lasted until the late hour of 11:00 P. M.

By this time the Athletic Association decided to gain a footing in the splendid work already done by the other departments of the school, so "Corporal Eagen" and a "Show Boat" minstrel were presented in a joint programme. Rolf Olson as the corporal, and Adolph Reich as Izzie, his pal, were the centers of attraction for the large audiences. As usual, we had another success.

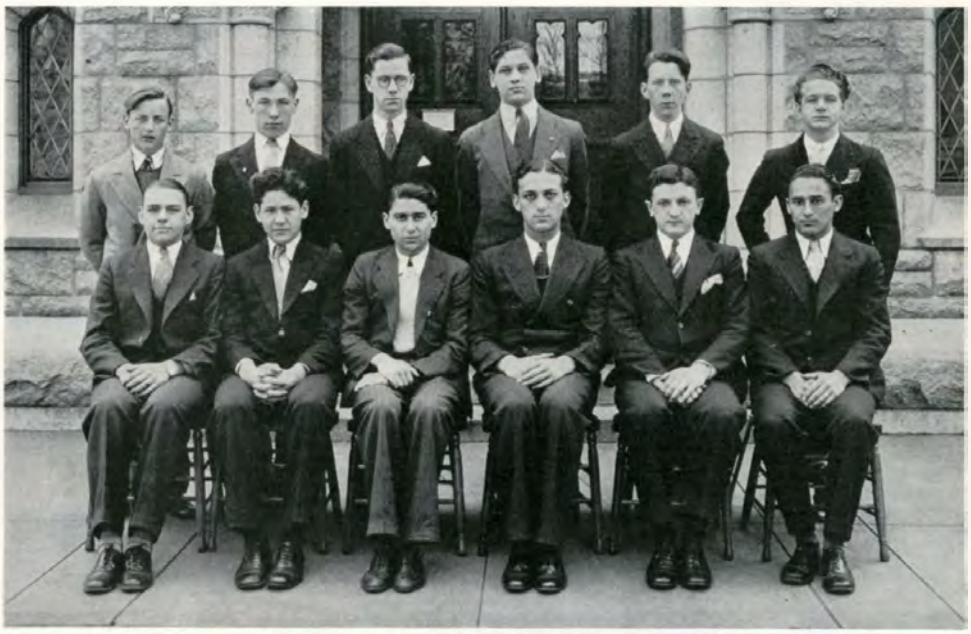

During many days and evenings, men's voices, blended in harmony, floated across the campus. The Boys' Glee Club certainly deserves mention in our column. They proved themselves very capable of good singing, especially at the recital of Miss Hattie Sweet, which we were all sure to attend.

The lull of the school year came, as usual, with the conclusion of the Easter vacation. Once more the Junior Class took it upon itself to wake up the school pep through the medium of the Junior Prom. Although the efforts of the class were not greatly rewarded by the presence of the majority of the school body, the Prom remains a memory of a very happy evening to those who attended. The Lintlop Acrobatic Dancers and the little Misses Ruth Gardner and Barbara Lineham entertained. Here's to the new Junior Class, with a hope that they will carry on the Prom next year with more of a response by the student body.

As the CRIMSON goes to press, we are looking forward eagerly to the Senior Play. The play, entitled "Doris Comes to Town," has a cast of eight. This production is to be given on May 26. And in June we anticipate the greatest affair of the year, THE SENIOR BALL, to be held in the East Greenwich Academy gymnasium on June 11. This affair is greatly looked forward to by all. So ends a most pleasant year at East Greenwich Academy, filled with many delightful memories and happenings that will always remain with us in the years to come.

COMMENTS

WE FEEL CALLED UPON to warn Mr. Benton (feet) Rosen to beware of Murray Tallman. Murray is studying to become a podiatrist, and in his exalted moments is apt to leave Rosen without a leg to stand on. . . . A persistent rumor has it that our self-elected Lothario, Mr. Herman Geller, is being sued by one of our Main Street citizens to the amount of eighteen meals, seven suppers and a davenport. . . . It is a sad fact that Miss Adella Olsen seems to lose all her boy friends in a remarkably short time. Why this is we cannot imagine; surely it is not through lack of vocal powers. . . . Mr. John McQuillen, so the rumor has it, has become a confirmed Barbarian. . . . A fair warning is hereby given to Miss Elizabeth Stumm to desist from her cradle snatching efforts, in view of the furor aroused throughout the country over the Lindbergh case. . . . Mr. William Horgan will continue saying Grace morning, noon and night. . . . We take great pleasure in announcing the forthcoming marriage of Mr. Edward Thompson and Mr. Frank Burdick, after a whirlwind courtship. . . . It is suggested that the Rules of this Academy be abolished, as an unnecessarily irksome formality to Mr. Walter Swanson. . . . During the Moses Brown game, Mr. Perry Shor was struck on the head; we regret to say that the swelling has increased. . . . The comparative advantages of religious influence are clearly demonstrated by Count Nicholas Denissoff, late of Russia, during "exam" time. . . . That bold, bad, albeit modest man, Mr. Joseph Jacques, admitted recently, in a frenzy of remorse, that if he told us how many broken hearts have been laid at his door, it would give us all a pain. . . . An unconfirmed report has it that Mr. George Potter owes his livid, though strangely beautiful complexion to having listened to one of Mr. George Card's "risque" stories. . . . We have often wondered which sweet young thing is the trustee of Mr. Sidney Horenstein's heart; either he is heartless, or he has established a corporation. . . . Figure this one out: is Miss Patia Crowell trying to develop a southern accent, or to overcome a lisp? . . . We notice, with the greatest pleasure, that Mr. Howard Silverman is returning to Normal (or is it Helen?) . . . We have worried ourselves to the verge of the grave about Mr. William Johnson: Is he the incurably vicious type who insists on holding hands, or does he admire her for her serene mind? Help us out, Winnie, we're all in. . . . While sitting in study hall, a thought struck Mr. Charles Siegel; the doctor confirmed the suspicion that while it was a great shock, it may not prove fatal. . . . Mr. Rafael Guzman passed away quietly in his handsome summer home (the third Baltimore and Ohio truck from the right as you enter the R. R. Station): He left his entire fortune to the W. C. T. U.

EASTMAN

ON A HILL overlooking the waters of Narragansett Bay stands that ivy-clad building known to many as Eastman Dormitory, where four instructors, the dietitian, and nineteen lively and fun-loving girls make their abode. Upon entrance, one immediately notices the large double parlor, with a red-brick fireplace at one end, lending a keen sense of comfort to the room. The huge mirror at the other end is a spot of not infrequent visitation.

Miss Giles, our quiet and dignified dean, is one of the two residents on the first floor. Miss Giles is well versed in Latin, and has even bestowed upon her pets some of the names taken from "The Iliad" and other such lively Greek stories. Strange as it may seem, one of them is named "Kelly."

Miss Mary Houston, otherwise "Bobbie," is the other resident of the first floor. She is Girls' Basketball Coach as well as being teacher of piano and all musical subjects. "Bobbie" wakes up in the morning because "That's the Human Thing to Do."

Upon hearing occasional "Oh's" and "Ah's," we ascend to the second floor, where we discover Priscilla "Prissy" Hodge making fudge for her five junior girls. What a lively bunch they are! Mazie, Minette, Tommy, Alison and Frances comprise this group.

Miss Kendrick, our popular dietitian, is a recent graduate of Rhode Island State College, and has her room at the end of the hall. A snappy little roadster often appears in front of Eastman, and we're hoping against hope that some day we'll find out who it is that is showing such an interest in our Miss Kendrick.

Grace Lockwood's Art Galleries are also on this floor. We don't know why this choice of rooms, unless it is to be nearer the telephone when "Baltimore is calling."

Now we go up another flight to the third floor, to the long corridor where dignity, quiet and solemnity "rules with an iron bar."

Betty Manchester occupies the room around the corner. Betty is a Freshman, and contributes her share to the fun and noise of Eastman.

Next in order is Room 25. It seems to be a sort of club-room, but upon inquiry you'll find that it belongs to Dell Olson, a dignified Senior, and Carol Weeden, one of the trio from Panama. Dell had a campaign for a middle name not long ago and "Aurora" was unanimously selected (by all

WINSOR

Rafael Guzman, '31, P. G.

Artist, musician and caballero, all combined into one, is Rafael Guzman from the sunny island of Santo Domingo. Rafael graduated with the class of 1931 and continued his education at the East Greenwich Academy in the newly formed Junior College. His extraordinary posters and art work in the 1931 and 1932 Crimsons have been most helpful. We wish him the greatest success in his chosen profession, engineering, but should like to hear the name Guzman mentioned in the same breath with Rembrandt and Millet.

George Potter, P. G.

Salute Corporal Potter of the Rhode Island National Guard! George uses his Tuesday free nights to attend drills. He hails from Barcelona, Spain, the land of bull fights and fair senoritas. If you wish to write a letter in Spanish, a description of the latest thing in 18-inch guns, or perhaps an idea for an English theme—ask George. (Warning—don't ask him to sing!)

Lawrence Bassett, P. G.

"There's no place like good old Cape Cod," says Larry Bassett, a carrot-topped individual. "Buff" has proven himself an ideal student, for he has consistently made the Honor Roll, besides playing capably in football, basketball, and baseball. We shall never forget Larry's love scene in "The Spark Plugs."

Sidney Horenstein, P. G.

Sid is among the group who are in our new Junior College division. This likable chap readily made a host of friends, having successful results with the opposite sex. He can make remarkable impersonations of famous gangsters, and we think he should specialize in writing biographies of great criminals.

Nicholas Denissoff, P. G.

To "Nick," New York City is paradise as well as home; however, he has managed to subsist in the "sticks" most conveniently. The "Count" is constantly despairing over the passing of the Czars in the land of his birth, and can discourse for hours on the faults of the Soviet Republic. Keep guard over that hat, Nick!

Herman Geller, '32

New Bedford High lost a sterling athlete in this boy. "Herm" played superbly at tackle in football, and the guard post in basketball. His quiet bearing and good humor have won a place in the hearts of us all. We wonder why "Herm" never goes home over week-ends?

David Horowitz, '32

"Woah!!!" Don't be alarmed! It is only "Dave" yelling at his roommate, "Sid." However, his powerful voice comes in handy in the cheering section at basketball games, or in Glee Club concerts. "Dave" has earned three letters in baseball and two in football, and has always maintained a fine scholastic standing. One of the dorm's finest.

David Leen, '32

Meet Mr. Walter Winchell, II. "Dave" knows all the latest movies and Broadway gossip, and can recite à la Winchell. Just try to argue with him over a baseball score! We expect to hear "Dave" Leen's rapid, fine voice over the radio soon, giving Mr. Floyd Gibbons some competition. He has also used except Dell). Dell is the dormitory athlete, and expects to go in for Physical Education.

Carol's usual inquiry on Friday noon concerns the loss of a free night. We won't reveal the usual answer, but she must have a conscience to bother her like that. We've certainly enjoyed the two years' companionship with her and are sorry to have her return to Panama this summer. Adios, Carol!

Next in order comes Miss Walloe, keeper of the miniature menagerie. If you happen to hear, "Oh, where, oh, where has my little dog gone?" you'll know that her pet dog "Phaedo" has been lost, strayed or stolen.

Room 27, the domicile of Doris Hosking, is shared with a pretty little feathered creature who entertains the dormitory during study hours. We enjoy hearing Doris sing, and are glad that she plans to make some religious institution her destination. Good luck, Doris.

"Dot" Bowser, in Room 29, is Diana's dancing partner. She's a very busy young lady who assists Miss Brown in the office during most of her free time. She also has to take all the blame if we don't receive any mail. Poor "Dot!"—and yet she smiles!

In Room 30, lives Marion Mayhew. This is Marion's second year at East Greenwich Academy, and we hope to have her with us again in 1933.

Chatham sends us Patia Crowell, a faithful student who has made great progress in her work. We wonder why "Pat" runs from the dining room to hidden quarters saying, "Oh! no, no. I'd rather not. Some other time, please. You know I'm always 'It!' "

Miss Babcock believes in going "higher and higher," and to gaze upon her fair countenance we must go up one more flight of stairs. She is another recent graduate of Rhode Island State College, and her advice is always available.

Bernice Payne is a late-comer to East Greenwich Academy, but in this short time has proven to us that she can sing and play the piano. We hope she'll make the best of her talent.

In Room 35 dwells Diana Weeden, the second of the Panama trio. Diana can be heard from all parts of the house. "Come on, turn on the radio. Let's dance, kids!" We'll be sorry to see Diana leave us, but with parting we wish her all the success in the world.

Clementina Villalaz, the quiet little miss from Panama, lives in the next room. Clemmy's room is probably the neatest in the dormitory. Of course we don't know, but can it be possible that she's practicing "good-housekeeping" in preparation for her return to Panama after Commencement? Much happiness, Clemmy.

his spare time in athletics, playing well in football, and was a fine forward in basketball.

Murray Tallman, '32

Tallman is the third of that trio of Leen, Geller and Tallman that hail from New Bedford, Mass. Murray can sing, dance, finger a mean "uke," get occasional nineties, play football, and—well, what more do you want from a fellow? Tallman has made himself a real part of the Winsor, and we wish him the best of luck in the "corn" business.

Benton Rosen, '32

The one and only, unsurpassed, mighty "Bent" Rosen. "Bent" is one of the characters of the Winsor, and is known far and wide for his athletic and scholastic prowess. Rosen captained the football and basketball teams this year, and, not satisfied with that, knocks Chem, Solid and Trig for a row. We'll be watching your progress at State next year, "Bent"!

Edward Thompson, '32

In Room 11, we come upon "Eddie" Thompson, the fair-headed youth from Fall River. Up till three years ago, "Ed" proved himself quite a cut-up, but upon attaining the wisdom which comes with young manhood, he has become one of the finest chaps in the dorm. Good luck, "Eddie."

Marshall Stokoe, '33

"Marsh" came to us from the island of Nantucket last September, and readily became a notable figure about the campus. Every affair during the year has had his whole-hearted support, and as an assistant manager of baseball, he has proven himself an efficient "chore-boy." Quite naturally, he has received goodly attention from Eastman Hall "cross the way."

William Horgan, '33

"Bill" Horgan, with his genial smile, is a familiar figure in the old Winsor dorm. "Mush" has managed several of our athletic teams splendidly. What would our Boys' Glee Club do without the assistance of "Bill's" mellow voice?

William Johnson, '33

If you have nothing in particular to do, or have lost a free night, drop into Room 9, and listen to "Bill's" midget radio. You will feel at ease immediately upon receiving his cheery smile and genuine hospitality. The title of our most industrious boy should go to "Billy" Johnson.

John McQuillen, '33

Who is that well-built, good-looking chap who talks with a southern accent? Why, 'tis John McQuillen, our head-waiter par excellence. If you wish to talk about the latest book or on the subject of ultra beautiful femmes, just look up "Mac."

Alve Oberg, '34

To the regret of none of us, Alve Oberg came to East Greenwich Academy from Cranston High. Though appearing rather quiet, Alve is a thoroughly likable chap, and has proven his worth in many ways. As baseball is now his main attraction; Oberg has succeeded in making the squad.

Perry Shor, '34

Perry has completed his seventh year at the Academy, and is beginning to feel quite at home. He is also at home on the basketball floor, baseball diamond, or tennis court. However, Perry is another of our student-athletes, always maintaining good grades.

Carlton Park, '34

Thaddeus, the narrator of many weird, ghostly, and unbelievable stories—truth is stranger than fiction (?)—is an essential part of the dorm. He is another of the corps of "cigarette-bummers"—so, veteran smokers — beware!! It is inevitable that Park should become a writer for True Story Magazine.

Walter Swanson, '34

Boats! boats! boats!—and more boats is Walter's chief topic of conversation. Aside from owning a few craft himself, he is an ardent student of the science of navigation. With his splendid physique, he should also prove himself a fine athlete. We hope to see him out for the teams next year.

Is it possible that those so very green Freshmen of a short two years ago are now tall, dignified Juniors? But yes,—the class of 1932 had started their third year at the East Greenwich Academy. Music, lights, decorations, punch, gayety,—can't you guess?—the Annual Junior Dance given at the Academy gymnasium, and a most enjoyable evening for all concerned.

Class officers?—oh, yes:

Howard Silverman	President	Evelyn Oates	Secretary
Mary Nichols	Vice-President	Miss Gail Patterson, Mr. Edward D. Intas	Advisors
Benton Rosen	Treasurer

The class of '32's third year was concluded with the excitement and difficulty of sponsoring the Senior Prom. The beautiful decorations, the floor, the refreshments, and the extreme success that the evening most certainly was, all were proof of just what the class of 1932 was capable.

The graduating class this year is the class of 1932. Its members are not a little astonished when they realize that they themselves now answer to the title of Seniors. The years at E. G. A. have been happy, pleasant ones, filled with many warm memories; and, strange to say, the Seniors commence their last year here more than a little regretful that the High School period of their lives is now nearing completion.

The important positions of Senior class officers were decided upon with little difficulty. Howard Silverman was elected class president for the third successive year; Miss Evelyn Oates was again chosen for vice-president; David Horowitz assumed the position of treasurer; while Miss Doris Hosking enacted the part of class secretary. Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker Williams were unanimously chosen for class advisors.

During their Senior year, the class of 1932 has whole-heartedly supported the Alumni Ball, the Hallowe'en Ball, and the Annual Junior Dance. Their own Senior Prom promises to be the finest ever given in Academy history. The entire school is eagerly looking forward to this event, which is to be on the evening of June 11th. At the present time preparations are being made for the Senior Play. According to the reports made by Mr. Williams, an extra fine production is anticipated. Again, the success of the Dragon, the school's monthly publication, is due entirely to members of the Senior Class.

Their Senior year will soon recede into history. They wistfully look back at the happy days spent during their four years together. They think of those who have joined their ranks, only to leave them. They meditate on their pleasant years of good fellowship, of the many fine friends they have acquired, of the thrills of the graduation to come, and so,—it is inevitable, they must part. Godspeed to you all, members of East Greenwich Academy's class of 1932!

boys were concerned, as they carefully adhered to their strict teachings of "safety first." But high school teachers and students, the townspeople, and the fire laddies saved their personal effects. Dr. LeBaron gave shelter in the other dormitories and classrooms in the administration building. And so "in the twinkling of an eye," as it were, the whole Junior School was graduated into the High School. Within a few hours they were pursuing the even tenor of their way, anticipating a newly renovated dormitory for the September opening. And so, say I, here's a hearty hail to this live-wire department! May it live long and prosper and GROW, GROW, GROW in numbers, stature, KNOWLEDGE and fame.

Merlyn Towne lives down at the end of the hall. Since Christmas Merlyn has been sort of a "Goldilocks." She is the better half of one of the Eastman couples. The other one is just across the hall from her. Betty Stum, who hails from Hartford, has somewhat of an interest in a person called "Andy," whose ruddy complexion deepens when the subject is mentioned.

In closing, may we add that the dear old "elevator" used to amuse bored and mischief-seeking Eastmanites, will be left in perfect condition for our successors. "May the ropes hold you better than they did us."

WINSOR

Joseph Jacques, '34

There appeared last September a shy newcomer from Pawtucket, R. I. Jacques' stay here must have been highly beneficial, for he has done remarkably well with both sexes. He has participated in football and basketball, and we expect big doings from him next year.

Charles Siegel, '35

Meet the little ball of fire and aggressiveness! "Charlie" made the football and basketball squads in his Freshman year through zeal and dogged determination. We can safely predict a brilliant future for him. By the way, Siegel is a member of the class of 1931 of our Junior School.

HUMOR

"We learn wisdom from failure much more than from success. We often discover what will do by finding out what will not do; and probably he who never made a mistake never made a discovery."

* * *

Even the filling station operators on national highways are worried by I. W. W. activities—motorists who stop only for Information, Wind and Water.

Think for yourself. A ready-made opinion, like a hat somebody else puts on your head, never feels just right.

* * *

By the time you have sense enough to realize that the old folks really know what they are talking about, you have kids who think you don't know what you're talking about.

* * *

One of the hardest things to realize is that people can be different from ourselves and yet not be inferior.

* * *

A cynic remarks that the fellow who coined the term "marriage altar" must have been an Englishman who dropped his h's.

* * *

The freshmen who had struggled desperately with his examination papers added this postscript to the last page: "Dear Professor: If you sell any of my answers to the funny papers, I expect you to split fifty-fifty with me."

* * *

Dentist—Never mind getting out your purse. You can pay me after the tooth is extracted.

Nick—I know that. I'm just going to count my money before you give me the gas.

Learning that George Bernard Shaw was reputed to be getting a shilling a word for his articles, an Oxford wag sent him a shilling with this request: "Please send me one of your words." The reply was prompt and characteristic: "Thanks."

* * *

Probably the reason the Scotch took to golf instead of cricket or baseball, is because the fewer times a golf ball is hit the longer it lasts.

* * *

There is no real failure until you fail to keep on trying.

* * *

There is no telling how long Methuselah might have lived if he had had his appendix, teeth and tonsils out, used the right brand of toothpaste, and smoked coughless cigarettes.

* * *

When you have nothing to do, do it at once, and then get busy.

Habit gets a fellow. Many a father who worked his way through college is now working his boy's way through.

Some people are so impulsive, that they don't wait till April 1 to make fools of themselves.

ANOTHER O. HENRY STORY

When the excellence of O. Henry's short stories had established quite a reputation for the author, a publisher induced him to enter into a contract to supply a story every week. But, as usually happens with a genius, the muse was often refractory, and a projected story simply would not get itself written on time. After being disappointed two weeks in succession, the wrathful editor wrote this note:

"My dear O. Henry: If I do not receive that story from you by noon tomorrow, I'm going to put on my heaviest-soled shoes, come down to your rooms, and kick you downstairs. I always keep my promises."

Whereupon, O. Henry wrote this characteristic reply:

"Dear Sir: I, too, would always keep my promises if I could fulfill them with my feet."

A bitter contest raged. Men raved . . . they swore . . . they acted like animals. Bitter words flowed in a jargon of abuse, epithets were slung wildly and broadcast to complaining neighbors. Docile students were transformed into a horde of vituperative savages. Insane mutterings disturbed an otherwise peaceful dorm. What was this strange menace that had so violently upset the tranquillity of Winsor Dorm?

Just as the World War started from an humble beginning (that of pitching a bomb at an archduke), so did this commence. As a fruity reward of long search by Prof. Rawson for a substitute for a radio; a boiler factory—pardon us, the word is "PHONOGRAPH" — was installed and has never stalled since the moment when the first volt was allowed to permeate its raucous interior.

Perry Shor (upon seeing Miss Algren powdering her nose in the gym): You shouldn't play basketball with calisthenics on your face.

* * *

Miss Walloe had been telling her American History class the story of the discovery of America by Columbus and ended with: "And this happened 400 years ago."

Voice from the rear: "What a memory you've got."

Mrs. Williams: "What is the interest on a thousand dollars at two percent?. Bassett, pay attention!"

Bassett: "For two percent I ain't interested."

Visitor to Harwich: "Who's the most enterprising young man in this village?"

Bassett: "Now, lookit here, stranger, you'd better ask that question to somebody else in these parts—I never was much of a feller for talking about myself."

Coach Williams: "Hey, Seigal, did you take a shower?"

Seigal: "Why, no. Is there one missing?"

* * *

Dr. LeBaron: "This makes the fifth time I have punished you this week. What have you to say?"

Bent Rosen: "I'm glad it's Friday, sir."

* * *

Mr. Rawson (speaking on the phone): "You say that Lenny Solomon has a bad cold and will not be able to attend school today. Who is this speaking?"

Voice (hoarsely): "My father."

Dave Leen: "Miss Kendrick, I can't go to school today."

Miss Kendrick: "Why?"

Dave: "I don't feel well."

Miss Kendrick: "Where don't you feel well?"

Dave: "In school."

Shor: "If you eat any more cake, you'll burst."

Swanson: "Well, pass the cake and get outa the way!"

Student: "These pictures I've got make me look like an Algerian ape."

Prof. Williams: "You should have thought of that before you had them taken."

* * *

Miss Walloe: "How may wars has the U. S. had?"

Davide: "Five."

Miss Walloe: "Enumerate them."

Davide: "One, two, three, four, five."

* * *

Mac (waiting on table): "Where is the paper plate that I gave you with your pie?"

Tallman: "Gee whiz! I thought that was the bottom crust."

Erickson: "Your car is R. F. D."

Fred Clarke: "What's that?"

Erickson: "Rescued from the dump."

* * *

Potter: "What are you drawing?"

Guzman: "A horse and wagon."

Potter: "I see the horse but not the wagon."

Guzman: "Oh, the horse has to draw that!"

EDITORIAL

AFTER THE ROMAN ARMY had used the "phalanx" in a most successful fashion during some hundreds of years of almost constant warfare, a change in war tactics was most certainly not advisable.

However, in spite of all contrary opinion and sentiment, a change, nay, a complete innovation was made which resulted in the complete effacing of the aforementioned "phalanx."

The courageous instigators of the change, for courageous they must have been, were handsomely rewarded for their efforts with that elusive conclusion—success. Assuredly Father Jupiter must have smiled benignly upon them and their praiseworthy action.

These people, desperate, abandoned the common for the different. The act of introducing the individual, the novel, the unusual, has been duplicated time and time again during the centuries that have followed the abolishment of the ancient Roman "phalanx"; and we, the Editors of the East Greenwich Academy CRIMSON have, with this publication of that book, simply added our names to that long, long list of "innovators."

The CRIMSON has been edited with varying success since 1923 through 1931, with the year of 1924 the one exception. Every CRIMSON, from the 1925 issue to the present year, has been very much on the same style, with each class modeling its book on the preceding year's. We do not criticize them—we cannot. The past classes deserve much commendation for having left explicit records of the events which transpired during their stays at the East Greenwich Academy.

However, real twentieth century blood races through our veins. It thrills the senses; it animates the languid; it causes Youth to go forth and accomplish, to achieve the unusual, to attain the unattained. Readers, we, the graduating class of 1932 have turned twentieth century modernists, futurists. We are the youth of today!

If you like our book, we are delighted. If you have aversion to it, we are still delighted. In knowing that we have accomplished the unusual, we are delighted. And so, ainsi soit-il.
