CLASSES

To our sister, best wishes
Otto W. Olson Jr.

"Junie"

OTTO OLSON, JR.

With pardonable pride we present our president. "Junie" is all those things that a class president should be: dependable, energetic, efficient, participating in extra curricular activities, and holding a position on the honor roll. Because of his executive ability and grand personality, we, his classmates, are very sure that he will achieve success.

Football 3, 4; Junior Play; Junior Prom Committee, Chairman; Athletic Association 3, 4; CRIMSON BOARD, Business Manager; Class President 4; Senior Play; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

"Fault" language. Good luck Dotty

DOROTHY ALBERGHANE

"Dotty" is versatile, dependable, argumentative, and one of our rising young actresses. Her questions that often stump the teachers make many classes enjoyable. We wish her the best of luck in whatever she attempts.

Gym Team 2, 3; Debating Club 2, 3, 4; Riding Club 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2; Operetta 2; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Art Club 2, 3; Junior Play; Junior Prom Committee; Senior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Herald Staff.

The same old thing.

Carolyn

CAROLYN ALMQUIST

Carolyn, in her three years at E.G.A., has established an enviable reputation for scholastic ability and has also made a host of friends. Her business talent has gained for her many responsible positions, including Editor-in-Chief of the CRIMSON.

Glee Club 2, 3; Music Club 2, Secretary; Operetta 2, 3; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Herald Staff; Junior Prom Committee; Junior Play; CRIMSON BOARD, Editor-in-Chief; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY, Highest Honors in Commercial Course.

Lots of luck in the future Eva

EVA AMBALOSI

As one of our basketball stars, Eva has proved herself to be a great asset to the team. Those that know her best can readily say that she enjoys a good time and a lot of noise. Best of luck, Eva.

Basketball 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 2, 3; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Herald Staff; CRIMSON BOARD.

To my Pal Tubby M. H.

JOHN ANDERSON

No introduction is needed for "Tubby." He is an all-round good fellow, majoring in sports. Never in a bad humor, "Tubby" is a real pal and sincere friend, and our class wouldn't be complete without him.

Football 2, 3, 4; Basketball 2, Assistant Manager 3, 4; Gym Team 2, Manager 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; Athletic Association 3, 4.

Best of luck.
Marion

MARION ANDERSON

A whiz at typing, Marion is production manager of the Herald. Capable, dependable, and hard-working are the adjectives to describe her. As a commercial student, Marion is sure to become someone's attractive secretary. And we know whose!

Glee Club 2, 3; Music Club 2; Junior Play; Herald Staff 3, 4; Production Manager; Junior Prom Committee; Senior Play; CRIMSON BOARD, Business Manager; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Best of Luck,
Gladys

GLADYS BAILEY

Gladys is noted for her quiet humor, poise, and sterling character. She never talks about herself, but we do know that she is a swell friend and a worthwhile companion.

To a fellow
class-mate
"Celina"

CELINA BEGIN

Celina is noted for her ability on the basketball floor and her acting talent. Although she doesn't talk very much, we admire her good-naturedness and zest for fun. We know she will find her niche in life.

Basketball 3, 4; Junior Play; Glee Club 3, 4; Gym Team 4; Cheer Leader; Public Speaking.

You are a good man Butch
good luck always.
Joe

PRESTON BENT

A striking football player, "Pres" has made himself indispensable to the team. A second Spencer Tracy and a hard worker, he has helped make all the Senior activities successful. We wish you the best of luck, Pres.

Football 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3; Music Club 2; Operetta 2, 3; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Track 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club 2, 3; Junior Play; Debating Club 2, Vice-President 4; Junior Prom Committee, Publicity Manager; Basketball 3, 4, Manager; Riding Club 4; Herald Staff 4; Senior Play.

The superlative of luck to the superlative of pals.

Bergy

DAVID BERGSTROM

What's that noise that sounds like an African War Dance? It's only "Bergy" practicing on his drums, which he does in any class, using desks, chairs or anything else available. When he isn't busy walking campus, he is always willing to lend the class a helping hand.

Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; Junior Play; Basketball 3, 4; Senior Play.

"Best wishes Mary"

MARY CARPENTER

In years to come, we will all be saying of Mary, "I knew her when . . ." She is to be another Florence Nightingale upon graduation from E.G.A. and a training school. Her pleasing personality makes her a true friend of everyone.

MARION CHEEVER

Marion just arrived from Texas last fall, but she has already left an indelible impression upon us with her cheerful smile and pleasant disposition. Her high scholastic standing will help her to be a great success.

Senior Play; Glee Club 4; Operetta 4; Athletic Association 4; Debating Club 4; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

To "Butch" or should I say "Pop" McIntyre

Marion or "Mrs McIntyre"

To a fellow Brainiac & Teacher's Pet

Jim Cranor

JAMES CRANOR

Jim came galloping from out of the west, and has proved to be one of the best. Although Jim only joined our class this year, he soon made many friends, and we have felt only too happy to have him with us. He is serious, industrious, yet he has a sense of humor and is a "swell guy."

Lots of luck and success always. Decky

DELIGHT CUTLER

"Decky" with her broad New England accent and innocent airs has won her way into the hearts of all those at E.G.A. With her charming personality, she's sure to succeed in any field.

Junior Play; Glee Club 3; Operetta 3; Junior Prom Committee; Athletic Association 3, 4; Public Speaking; Senior Play.

To a sweet kid — Good luck — Gloria

GLORIA D'ATTORE

Wherever there is a group of chattering girls, Gloria is sure to be found in it. Her good looks have also made her popular with the opposite sex. Her artistic ability has proved a great asset to our class since we first entered the Academy.

Basketball 3, 4; Junior Play; Glee Club 3, 4; Operetta 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; Chapel Choir 3, 4; Athletic Association 3, 4, Secretary; Senior Play; Public Speaking; CRIMSON BOARD.

Don't forget Virgil and Ovid (remember P. and T. and the hole in the wall!) Best of luck, Red — Bob

ROBERT DAVIS

"Sweetpea" is proof that a fellow can excel in studies and other things; Gym Team, dramatics, and basketball are a few of the activities in which he has participated. If anything needs to be done, we can always depend on "Sweetpea" to do it.

Operetta 1, 2, 3; Class Vice-President 1; Athletic Association 1, 2, 3, 4; Baseball 2, Assistant Manager; Gym Team 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; J. V. Basketball 4; Junior Play; Senior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Class Secretary 3, 4; Herald Staff 4; Cheer Leader; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY, Highest Honors in College Preparatory Course.

Best wishes for success, Bob — Margie

MARJORIE DAY

"Margie's" witty remarks, unlimited information, and subtle humor have made her many friends at E.G.A. Although she doesn't take part in many activities, she can always be called upon when help is needed.

"Lots of Success" Mary

MARY DeRESTIE

Mary is one of our best girl athletes, starring in basketball and on the gym team. Her ready smile and competent ways have made her many lasting friends at E.G.A. . . . and elsewhere. We are sure that her ability in business will get her far.

Basketball 3, 4; Gym Team 3, 4, Captain; Athletic Association 2, 3; Junior Prom Committee; Chapel Choir 4; CRIMSON BOARD; Herald Staff.

HERBERT DIX

Though quiet and reserved, when the occasion calls for it, "Herbie" also manages to have a good time and make friends with everyone. He's a football hero and a "handy man" for almost any job.

Class Secretary 2; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Football 3, 4; Baseball 3, Assistant Manager 4, Manager; Junior Prom Committee; Junior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Varsity Club.

Loads of luck to you "Swell" fellow + classmate
Frances

FRANCES DODGE

This tall, capable young miss possesses marked business ability, and will make a good secretary for any employer. Fannie's bright, agreeable, and friendly disposition certainly will be missed.

Gym Team 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 3; Junior Prom Committee; Chapel Choir 4; CRIMSON BOARD; Herald Staff.

All the best in the world
Amy

AMY EKSTROM

Amy has made her way quietly among us for three years, and has proved a loyal friend to those who know her. She is quiet and unassuming, yet always ready to enter into the fun and jollity of those about her.

Gym Team 2; Junior Play; Athletic Association 3.

Good Luck
Pauline

PAULINE ESSEX

Pauline's quiet personality has made her many friends, and her dependability and capability ought to bring her success in whatever she attempts.

CRIMSON BOARD.

Success & Happiness,
Tony

ANTHONY FERRANT

"Tony" is one of the most familiar and best-liked personages of E.G.A. If there's any fun or mischief going on, you can bet Tony's in the middle of it. Best of luck in whatever you undertake, Tony!

Gym Team 2, 3, 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Football 3, Manager, 4; Cheer Leader 3; Varsity Club 3, 4; Baseball 3, 4; Glee Club 3, 4; Operetta 3, 4; Junior Prom Committee; J. V. Basketball 3, 4; Senior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Herald Staff 4.

OLGA GIORNELLI

In her stay at E.G.A. Olga, by her quiet, unassuming personality, has won a great many true friends. Her abilities have made her an indispensable aid to the Senior Class.

Basketball 2, 3, 4, Captain; Gym Team 2, 3; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Herald Staff; Junior Prom Committee; Junior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Sports and Production Staff; Herald Staff; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

RODNEY HANKS

Rodney's qualities of dependability and efficiency are recognized and admired by the entire student body. His persistent efforts certainly will bring him success in whatever he attempts.

Happy Landings Rodney!!
Janice

JANICE HARRED

It isn't often that we find "brains and beauty" combined, but in Janice those traits are personified to a high degree. Besides this, she is a true friend and an addition to any social function.

Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 2, 3; Debating Club 2, 3, Treasurer; Basketball 3; Riding Club 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer; Herald Staff 3, 4; Art Club 3, Vice-President 4; Senior Play; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Lots of luck to a friend in Public Speaking!
Margie

MARGERY HARRINGTON

This petite miss has been our treasurer for four years, and has proved herself an all-round good friend as well as an excellent student. Her bright smile and sweet personality have gained for her a legion of friends and admirers.

I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Lots of luck
Rodney

RUSSELL KETTELLE

"Ben's" exploits on the gridiron, gym team, and baseball diamond have brought fame to himself and E.G.A. He has proved himself willing, loyal, and dependable, and leaves a place in the school hard to fill.

Football 2, 3, Captain, 4; Baseball 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 2, 3, 4, Captain; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4, President; Varsity Club 2; CRIMSON BOARD.

Best of luck,
Marie

MARIE LANGENFELD

Marie's jolly laugh and unfailing sense of humor have lightened many a dull class period. Her sunny disposition ought to aid her when she enters her chosen field, nursing.

Music Club 1, 2; Athletic Association 1, 2, 3, 4.

To a swell actor,
best of luck & happiness
Louise

LOUISE LOXTON

Louise is one of the more reserved members of the Senior Class, but, even so, one frequently hears her jolly laughter in the halls. She seems to be always happy and gay, and we are sure that she will be missed when she leaves E.G.A.

Basketball 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2; Operetta 2; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 4; Art Club 4.

To Hankie
Can't think of anything but you know what I mean
Evy

EVERETT LUNDBERG

Whether it be on the football gridiron or in the classroom, "Evy" is equally at home. His good sportsmanship and willingness to cooperate are qualities which will help him to go a long way in whatever career he pursues.

Class Vice-President 2, 3; Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 3, 4; Junior Play; Operetta 3, 4; Herald Staff; Junior Prom Committee; Football 4; Senior Play; Junior-Varsity Basketball; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

The best of everything to a perfect friend!
Ginny

VIRGINIA LUNDBERG

This tall brunette with her vivaciousness, ready wit, and flair for original writing, we have found to be another member of the class it would have been hard to get along without. "Ginny" deserves success in whatever endeavor she tries.

Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Music Club 2; Operetta 2, 3, 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Herald Staff 3, 4, Editor-in-Chief; Junior Prom Committee; Art Club 3, Secretary-Treasurer 4; Chapel Choir 3, 4; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

A swell fellow like you deserves a swell brake
I hope you get it
John
Pin

HAROLD MADDALENA

Harold has been a true friend and an all-round good fellow. His scientific ability ought to bring him success in his chosen field. All the luck in the world, Harold!

Football 2, 3, 4; Gym Team 2, 3, 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Debating 3, 4; Senior Play.

Best of Everything Always, Robert
Ethel

ETHEL MATHEWSON

Here is another of our outstanding "business" students. Ethel's capability and efficiency have made her successful in all her work. Her constant friendliness and good spirits are qualities we all appreciate.

Glee Club 2, 4; Athletic Association 3; Operetta 2, 4; Chapel Choir 4; Herald Staff; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Best of Luck
Jennie

JENNIE McKENNA

Jennie, although she appears to be rather quiet, is attractive and always has a twinkle in her eyes, showing she enjoys any bit of fun as much as anyone.

Rodney: The Operetta, Public S, and the "High C" were our mutual friends
Best Wishes
Bill

ANNIE JILLSON MINER

Whenever you hear a contagious laugh ending in a shriek you can be sure that it's "Jill." Her cheery good nature makes her a friend worth having, and her willingness to work makes her a valuable addition to the class.

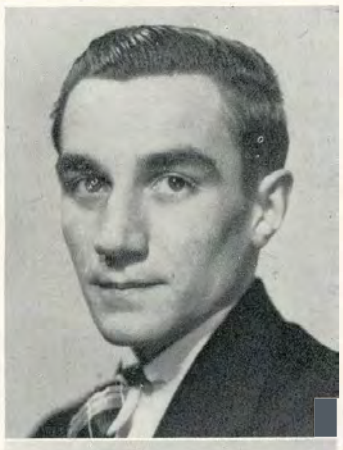

Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Operetta 2, 3, 4; Music Club 2; CRIMSON BOARD; Senior Play; Chapel Choir 4; Public Speaking.

Good Luck
Thelma

THELMA MORTON

Thelma is one of our most serious Seniors, but, nevertheless, she is a devoted friend and fine companion.

ELIGIO MOSCATELLI

"Mosky" is grave with those traits of dependability and sincerity that will help him to succeed. Showing a keen interest in sports, he is a staunch cheerer of our athletic teams.

R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

RICHARD NASH

Dick, a new arrival at E.G.A. this year from Mt. Hermon, has shown himself to be a lover of sports and fair play, and has gained many friends by his cheery good nature. Dick is always on the "in" where there's fun to be found; he has been a very jolly addition to our class and we wish him luck.

Football 4; Senior Play; Operetta 4; Chapel Choir 4; Herald Staff; Baseball 4; Athletic Association 4.

HARRY OLSON

Partly due to his training in Public Speaking and mainly due to natural ability, Harry is an accomplished speaker. We sincerely wish this likeable lad the best of everything.

Football 2, 3; Public Speaking 4; Athletic Association 4.

PHYLLIS PARKER

Always smartly dressed and usually in high spirits, Phyl has been one of our peppy cheer leaders. Phyl's interests have an athletic trend, for gym team, riding, and basketball are her main activities.

Gym Team 1, 2, 3, 4; Riding Club 2, 4; Glee Club 2; Operetta 2, 3; Cheer Leader 3, 4; Basketball.

To a swell friend "Mary" Good luck

MARGHERITA PERROTTA

Margherita always has a pleasant smile for everyone and her disposition is always cheerful. One of the quieter Seniors she has, nevertheless, made a place for herself in our class.

The Best of Wishes Rodney

Kate

KATHERINE PERRY

When the classroom is disturbed by whispering or note passing, the author is usually Kate. In spite of this, Kate is one of our Honor students and has a decided flair for writing. Kate is energetic and busy with riding, basketball, and other activities included in her schedule.

Basketball 2, 3, 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Debating Club 2, 3; Riding 3, 4, Vice-President; Art Club 2, 3; Herald Staff 2, 3; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Lots of luck, Bubala & don't forget your Mattie (!)

ROSALIND RAAB

That gray car that just whizzed by with the chic, attractive girl driving—oh, that's Roz. She's always just as well dressed and is really lots of fun. Clever, hospitable, and generous, Rozzie has certainly made a niche for herself at E.G.A.

Roz

Riding Club 3, Vice-President 4, President; Junior Play; Junior Prom Committee; Senior Play; CRIMSON BOARD; Herald Staff; Athletic Association.

Best Wishes and Loads of Success to a swell pal

Marion

MARION RICCIO

This attractive brown-eyed brunette will certainly make someone an efficient secretary. Although quiet at times, Marion is a merry companion and, all in all, a swell girl.

Good luck, Andy!

ANDREW SPENCER

Andy's smiling nature has won him as many friends as the baskets he has made, and due to his excellence in basketball, he well deserved the honor of being co-captain this year. We hope that this tall, handsome lad will continue to be as well liked and successful.

Basketball 2, 3, 4; Football 2; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4, Vice-President; Varsity Club 2, 3, 4; Baseball 3, 4; Class President 2, 3; Junior Prom Committee; Operetta.

Good luck, always! Barbara

BARBARA SPUNGIN

"Spun-gin" is outstanding for her originality and capacity for humorous sayings. Her inimitable style with her pen has produced many entertaining pieces.

Glee Club 2; Music Club 2; Riding Club 2; Athletic Association 2, 4; Herald Staff 2, 3, 4; Junior Play; Debating Club 3, 4; Senior Play; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

RUSSELL TAYLOR

Although Russ seems to be a rather quiet individual, those of us who know him well have quite a different opinion of him. He is always pleasant and a good sport in all the work he does. It will be hard to find anyone who can fill his place at E.G.A.

Baseball 4.

To my partner at class

THERESA TESSITORE

A smiling little brunette, "Tessy" is a willing worker and a loyal friend. Your classmates wish you happiness and success, Theresa.

CRIMSON BOARD.

Here's to good old Brown!
Marian

MARIAN TINGLEY

"Pretty as a picture"—that describes petite Marian with her blonde curls and merry blue eyes. She need never worry for lack of friends as she has a charming personality that invites friendship.

Glee Club 2, 3; Operetta 2, 3; Music Club 2; Athletic Association 2, 3, 4; Art Club 3, 4; Herald Staff; Senior Play; R. I. HONOR SOCIETY.

Sincerely
Muriel

MURIEL VAUGHN

Muriel could never be called a gloomy person for she can always find something to laugh at. May you always have this characteristic, Muriel.

Love and kisses +
Norma

NORMA WARREN

Amiable, adorable Norma has an enchanting personality. This vivacious lass shows great interest in riding and an unmistakable talent for art. In whatever career she chooses, we feel sure that Norma will be successful.

Riding Club 2, 3, 4; Art Club 3; Athletic Association 4.

LLOYD WEINER

"For he's a jolly good fellow . . ." How aptly that describes "Weinie," one of our most jovial and well-liked members. Outstanding in football, "Weinie" holds a definite place in E.G.A., although he has been here only a year.

Football 4; Basketball 4; Baseball 4; Athletic Association 4; Senior Play.

ALBERT DENICE

In his three years at E.G.A., Al has made himself a fixture on the football, basketball, and baseball teams, and his unpredictable actions have sent more than one class into an uproar. Popular both on and off the athletic field, Al is a worthy member of the class.

Football 2, 3, 4; Basketball 2, 3, Co-Captain, 4; Baseball 2, 3, 4; Gym Team Manager 3; Gym Team 4; Operetta 2, 3, 4; Herald Staff 4; Athletic Association 2, 3, Vice-President 4; Senior Play; Glee Club 2, 3, 4.

ARTHUR MASON

Art is a graduate of Lockwood High School. His genial disposition and cooperative spirit have gained him many friends in his year here, and he has shown himself to excel in a variety of activities. When "Sully" sets out to do a thing, you can depend on its being done thoroughly and well, and that is a quality few of us possess. Best of luck, Art—you're bound to succeed!

Football; Basketball; Gym Team; Baseball; Track; Senior Play; Operetta.

JAMES SPENCER

Pep's tall form has become a familiar landmark at E.G.A., and his exploits in baseball and basketball have made him well known throughout the state. This year Pep took up football with great success—scoring half the team's total of points! He has proved himself a staunch friend and worthy classmate, and he certainly deserves all the success he obtains.

Football; Basketball; Baseball.

Senior History

A most unusual experience befell me recently. Have you ever wished that you might re-live or foresee certain scenes? That unique phenomenon happened to me one warm spring day in one of my Senior classes. My first impressions were rather blurred as if only dimly recalled. The more recent events were, naturally, distinct and vivid.

As I became less and less attentive in class, I suddenly found myself, still in the same room, but with six excited, chattering boys and girls.

"Who are they?" I wondered. "And what are they doing?"

I began to pay strict attention and made out their cries to be:

President ..... FLORA BRIGGS
Vice-President ..... ROBERT DAVIS
Secretary-Treasurer ..... MARGERY HARRINGTON
Advisers ..... MISS GILES and MISS WILLIAMS

Then swiftly the scene shifted and there was more noise and confusion. The costumes worn by the Freshmen were very queer and such strange antics! It was nothing serious—only Seniors hectoring the Freshmen and Sophomores.

Another lightning-like change occurred. It was a spring day in Goddard Park, and gathered around one of the out-door fireplaces were the same six people having a joyous, carefree picnic.

Next I found myself at another class meeting, but this time the room was filled with students. I leaned forward eagerly to learn the results of the Sophomore election

President ..... ANDREW SPENCER
Vice-President ..... EVERETT LUNDBERG
Secretary ..... HERBERT DIX
Treasurer ..... MARGERY HARRINGTON
Advisers ..... MISS ASH and MR. LeLACHEUR

Almost immediately another vision came into focus. These same boys and girls were enduring with fortitude the trials and tribulations of Initiation Day.

Slowly . . . almost dreamily, the strains of an excellent orchestra came to me. In a setting of hearts with mottoes appropriate to St. Valentine's Day, many couples were happily dancing. Yet another dance scene appeared, but now the decorations were nautical. Portholes, anchors, and signal flags transformed the gym walls effectively. What an original idea, I mused as familiar faces glided by.

Suddenly and without warning I found myself in a strange setting—had my reminiscences taken on the hodge-podge of a nightmare? In astonishment I wondered what I was doing in the midst of the Saturday morning trade of a busy grocery store. I noticed that many of the people there were gathered in one corner. I shouldered my way into the midst of the crowd and peering over someone's shoulder I read, "Sophomore Food Sale."

A strange buzzing sound assailed my ears, and I found myself back in the ivy colored school building in a roomful of Juniors. They appeared to be very concerned over something, and quickly I realized that they were engaged in choosing class officers and advisers.

President ..... ANDREW SPENCER
Vice-President ..... EVERETT LUNDBERG
Secretary ..... ROBERT DAVIS
Treasurer ..... MARGERY HARRINGTON
Advisers ..... MISS COPPEN and MR. HAMMETT

Again the scene changed and for a minute I thought I was at a circus, for around me I saw elephants, camels, giraffes, and gay red and yellow streamers. "Could it be possible that there is popcorn, too?" I mused. There was popcorn. It must be a genuine circus—but then I saw the orchestra enter, and I suddenly realized it was the Juniors' first dance of the season.

One March evening I was seated in chapel waiting for the curtain to go up. I sat entranced through three one-act plays. "What excellent performances the students are giving," I thought as my emotions varied with "Sparkin'," a comedy, "Two Crooks and a Lady," a drama, and "Greasy Luck," a tragedy. I glanced down at my program and read that the plays were directed by Mr. Cummings and the characters were some of my Junior classmates: Barbara Spungin, Dorothy Alberghane, Gloria D'Attore, Robert Davis, Otto Olson, Celina Begin, Carolyn Almquist, Marion Anderson, Everett Lundberg, Herbert Dix, Preston Bent, Rodney Hanks, Rosalind Raab, and Olga Giornelli. I noticed that the essential back stage work was done by Francis Healy, Amy Ekstrom, Delight Cutler, Janice Harred, and Margery Harrington.

Swirling planets . . . shooting stars . . . silvery moonbeams . . . and over all a star sprinkled blue sky, and underneath a throng of dancing couples—all these constituted our farewell to the Seniors—the Junior Prom. In seeing it again I recaptured the scene in all its loveliness.

It was autumn once more—the fourth at E.G.A. for four of these six Freshmen who began the class of 1941. In the fantasy which was transpiring about me I was in a roomful of dignified Seniors who were assembled to choose officers. With intense interest I listened for the results:

President ..... OTTO OLSON
Vice-President ..... ANDREW SPENCER
Secretary ..... ROBERT DAVIS
Treasurer ..... MARGERY HARRINGTON
Advisers ..... MISS SMITH and MR. CUMMINGS

Why! we've had the same treasurer for four years; that's a record to be proud of.

Once that fall when I entered the Main Building I was astonished to see Seniors walking to class with no text books. Queerly garbed Sophomores were tagging along with arms full of books. Later I watched the traditional parade through Main Street, the flag rush, and the tug-o'-war, all of which signified Freshman-Sophomore Day.

Grotesque faces, witches and cats seemed to cast a charm of good cheer over the dancing couples at the annual Senior Hallowe'en Dance.

I seemed to be walking up to Chapel wondering why I had such a feeling of excitement and expectation. Why, of course, the Senior Play, "Growing Pains." With real understanding of each mood the characters were portrayed.

And then the glory of Ivy Day burst upon me, and the Ivy Day Queen reigned over the traditional planting of a tree and ivy by the class president. There was the reading of the Ivy Day poem, and later in the evening the Ivy Day dance.

"All aboard," came a cry and then the shout, "Heave to!" I realized we were actually having our Senior Boat Ride on the Briny Depths of Narragansett Bay.

Then scenes came in swift, rapid succession. I saw the Seniors enjoying themselves at their picnic, and class night exercises. Then on Commencement night there were gowned Seniors feeling rather sorrowful because of leaving E.G.A. There were the speeches by those who had led this class scholastically, Robert Davis and Carolyn Almquist.

In retrospect I viewed gym exhibitions, sports events, musical presentations, and school organizations. Among the participants were always members of this class and often they were the outstanding ones; for example, Russell Kettelle, Harold Maddalena, Andrew Spencer, John Anderson, Preston Bent, Jill Miner, Margery Harrington, Carolyn Almquist, Otto Olson, Robert Davis, Marion Anderson, Barbara Spungin.

Suddenly a sharp ring of a bell and a gentle hand shaking me, woke me from my reverie. As I left that class for the next, I thought how much the class of 1941 had contributed to Academy life and how much the members should and will give to a larger world.

Honor Society

From the class of 1941, sixteen were selected as candidates for membership in the Rhode Island Honor Society and were presented with honorary pins and membership certificates.

Eligibility rules demanded that these Seniors should have maintained a scholastic average of eighty-five per cent or above throughout four years of high school, shown themselves of worthy character, and displayed qualities of leadership and service.

Those having attained honor in this state-wide organization for high school Seniors are as follows:

Marion Anderson
Carolyn Almquist
Marion Cheever
Robert Davis
Olga Giornelli
Rodney Hanks
Janice Harred
Margery Harrington
Everett Lundberg
Virginia Lundberg
Ethel Mathewson
Eligio Moscatelli
Otto Olson

Dramatics

This year the Dramatics Department, although producing but one play, nevertheless concentrated on quality rather than quantity and emerged with highly satisfactory results.

The play presented by the Senior Class in December was GROWING PAINS by Aurania Rouverol, a "rollicking" three-act comedy of adolescent joys and miseries. The leading parts were taken by Marion Cheever, Rodney Hanks, Dorothy Alberghane, and Robert Davis. The supporting cast included the following students: Jill Miner, Barbara Spungin, Theresa Tessitore, Everett Lundberg, Otto Olson, Tony Ferranti, Harold Maddalena, Richard Nash, Albert Denice, Rosalind Raab, Margery Harrington, Gloria D'Attore, Janice Harred, Marian Tingley, and Olga Giornelli. The stage manager was Otto Olson, and assisting him backstage were Arthur Mason, Lloyd Weiner, Harold Maddalena, Marion Anderson, Katherine Perry, and Delight Cutler.

GROWING PAINS was a play especially suited to high school students, for it gave them an opportunity to portray roles which were simple and natural, and to act out emotions common to all growing adolescents. The play was chosen particularly for its naturalness, as well as for its large cast, for it is the aim of the Dramatics Department to include as many students as possible in its plays.

Each and every player did his best with his part, and the play was one of the most enjoyable ones with which the group had ever worked. The audience responded in perfect tempo with the play.

The success of this Senior Play may be attributed in a large sense to the untiring efforts and helpful guidance of Mr. Cummings. Under his tutelage, students unexperienced in dramatic endeavors were able to turn out a finished production.

Music Department

"All girls interested in joining the Girls' Glee Club report to chapel at three," Miss Williams announced one of the first Mondays in the school year. A large number of girls responded eagerly to this call as did many of the boys to a similar invitation a few days later.

At Christmas time the two Glee Clubs and the Chapel Choir united to present a pageant which had been written by Miss Williams, entitled "The Christmas Story." A special feature of this program was the soloist, Miss Myrtle Bolin.

Every Monday night throughout the year students and teachers who constituted the Chapel Choir met in the Eastman music studio for rehearsals. This group which sang on special occasions in Chapel added much to the service.

A school orchestra was organized by Miss Williams early in the fall, but they did not make a public appearance until the night of May ninth. It is scarcely necessary to explain why it appeared that night, for everyone now knows that that was the night when the fifth annual operetta was presented. The music of "The Forest Prince" was composed by Tschaikowski. Jill Miner and Andrew Spencer were excellent as the leading girl and boy, Princess Tatiana and Vaslav. Other members of the cast were: Arthur Mason, Rodney Hanks, Ethel Mathewson, Richard Nash, Lillian Clough, Everett Lundberg, Margery Harrington, and Theodore Stearns. The chorus of Cossacks and people from the Court was composed of the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs: Barbara Frederickson, Dorothy Leach, Elva Miller, Martha Morton, Audrey Smith, Theresa Tessitore, Winifred Weeden, Celina Begin, Marion Cheever, Frances Congdon, Mary DeRestie, Mildred Haswell, Louise Loxton, Elizabeth Kierstead, Ida Moscatelli, Avis Spencer, Betty Jane Warren, John Anderson, Robert Davis, Albert Denice, Tony Ferranti, George Leach, Robert Nichols, Kenneth Barden, David Bergstrom, and Herbert Dix.

The members of the orchestra were Gilbert Hempel, Milton Gebler, Edward

Winsor Dormitory

Ladies and Gentlemen!! Presenting the greatest show on earth—Winsor Dormitory in action!! Step right up and, by a personal inspection tour, get an uncensored view of the goings-on in the building housing the greatest collection of human beings ever assembled under one roof. All ready? Let's go!

First, we shall meet the four custodians of this dwelling-place, and our guides on this tour: Mr. Swanson, dean of boys, and one of the few men who can pacify the inmates; Mr. Cummings, the popular head of the English Department, and in case of bodily ills, I. A. S. H. (Imperial Administrator of Sal Hepatica); Mr. Eastman, strong-arm man, and head of the commercial department; and Mr. Carey, athletic director and general confidant of all the boys (Mr. LaFauci finished the year in Mr. Carey's place as Mr. Carey had to leave us on account of illness). With these introductions we begin our tour.

The first room we enter is that of William Jenison, a freshman, and one of our latest arrivals. Bill is one of the least violent of the inhabitants and is an authority on the subject of boats and motors. For some unknown attraction, Bill manages to go home to Providence almost every weekend!

A few feet further down the first floor hall, we find ourselves before a battered door, and opening it we see reclining amid his athletic pictures and trophies, Dick Nash, a senior and an intimate friend of the opposite sex. Dick is a man of many accomplishments—baseball, football, and glee club being a few—and his room is a mecca for the fun-loving boys of the dorm.

Having thus disposed of the first floor, we ascend the stairs, and discover in the first room we see, Allen Low, busily discussing the "chaotic conditions confronting us" and giving an imitation of Hugh Herbert. On being asked to say a few words, Al willingly replies that he is a Junior, one of our star tackles in football, and that he is planning to carry the U. S. Mail next year, having taken an apprentice course this year.

Second Row: C. Winsor, B. J. Warren, D. Sylvia, C. Reiss, M. Langenfeld, D. Cutler, P. Parker, A. Smith, M. Harrington.
Third Row: Miss Ash, Miss Coppen, Miss Smith, Miss Martel, Miss Williams, Miss Brookings.

Eastman Dormitory

A few days ago an old dorm chum of mine called on me and vividly recalled the comradeship of our last year in Eastman. We spoke reminiscently of long forgotten midnight parties, Saturday nights when we listened to the Hit Parade, and especially how we all used to gather in the first floor parlor as we came over from supper and work. That memory was, perhaps, the most poignant.

"Remember," said my friend, "how we'd sing sometimes while Audrey played some popular piece on the piano? Gee, but couldn't she play! She was so kind and sweet to everyone, people naturally became her friends."

"Or Decky," I responded, "would come in full of delight over some small event and amuse us with one of her experiences. Delight—what an innocent manner she had at times; she was either full of high spirits or was as serious as though she carried all the troubles of the world."

"Wonder if Elizabeth still plays as beautifully as she did then? She was real good natured and took all the teasing she got as a good sport. What a time she had with her lights—Bill had to come over nearly every day to fix them. Elizabeth was usually near Carolyn—'member her?"

"Oh, sure, she came from Block Island and was so very fond of 'history.' I can't imagine what the dorm would have been like without her dashing around keeping things merry."

"Barbara was another girl from second floor. I always thought she was very attractive with her black hair and quiet, poised manner. Barbie was 'Cole' all the time—even in summer. Wonder if she still is and what kind of 'Valentine' she gets now?"

Music Department

Perry, Donald Bruce, and Jordan Abrams. The pianists were Miss Anne Martel and Virginia Lundberg.

A distinctive part of the Music Department is the class in Music Appreciation. The most outstanding event in the class was a trip to Boston to see the Metropolitan Opera Company perform the opera "Madame Butterfly."

Early in the school year Miss Williams presided at a Musical Tea. At this function several students played selections on the piano. Two teas were given for mothers, and, at these teas, an attractive feature was the piano playing by some of the students.

The termination of the activities for the Music Department came Commencement night when the Glee Clubs sang. Throughout the entire year the influence of the Music Department has always been felt, for its outstanding attractions have found some appeal for nearly every student.

Winsor Dormitory

When we try to enter the next room we are almost knocked off our feet by a boy dashing out of the door. He explains that he was just going to run upstairs to see Mr. Swanson about a chemistry problem. We force him to sit down, and he confesses that he is Bruce Turner, "the pride of North Scituate." Bruce is a master electrician and is regarded as one of the feature attractions of the dormitory.

The next boy to gain our attention is Ted Stearns, a lad who looks like Charlie McCarthy, but who for some strange reason is called Rabbit. Ted is a Freshman and one of the few students the building can boast of. He is most popular on Mondays, since his parents usually bring him a goodly supply of fudge, cake, pop-corn, and whatnot every Sunday.

In the corner room is a grizzled veteran of three years, Preston Bent, familiarly known as "Joe." Even this long term of residence has not sufficed to calm down Pres, and it is said that sometimes at the sight of "Rabbit" or Bruce on his threshold he goes wild. Be that as it may, Pres is an all-round good fellow and is ready to take part in almost any activity, whether it be football, operetta, or debating.

Around the corner and across from Mr. Eastman's room, we find the abode of Dick Langenfeld, a second year man. Dick is discovered doing a "flyaway" from the electric light cord, practicing his gym routine on the horizontal bar. Dick's walls are covered with portraits of movie stars, but we suspect that he may be a fan of some local "star," for almost every night after supper he disappears downtown and returns to the dormitory reluctantly at seven-ten.

Climbing the last flight of stairs, we find staring us in the face a young man tossing a baseball in the air. We are told by our guides that this is Charlie Bryant, post-graduate, stellar basketball and baseball player, and after three years well on his way to becoming a permanent fixture of the dormitory. We learn more about this personable young man when he hands us an apple from a bag hidden in the deepest corner of his closet.

Suddenly we are disturbed by a shout of "Eureka!" and we dash into the next room to find Bobby Dorr shouting that at last he's found the solution to his problem of inventing a collapsible refrigerator. After he has obliged us with a musical selection of his own composition on the flute, we retire from his room, confident that America's future is safe in the hands of boys like him.

Suddenly we see a huge shadow looming in front of us as we journey on. We are assured that it is only "Long John" Case, the tallest boy in the dorm at six feet, two inches. Johnny is quite a man, being a fixture on the football gridiron and the basketball court, and also the ever-present manager of the gym team.

Next, we encounter a boy who, we are certain, if there was a vote taken for the handsomest boy among the inmates of the dorm, would win hands down. It's Al Soares, and his handsome face has won him a rather large female following, although Al insists that he wants nothing to do with the opposite sex. Besides his reputation for male pulchritude, Al has been acclaimed as the perfect gentleman.

We stop as we hear the melodious (?) notes of a trumpet playing "Sierra Sue" and, entering the next room, we find sprawling on the bed one hundred and eighty-five pounds of brains and brawn, otherwise known as Lloyd Weiner. Lloyd's good-naturedness and happy-go-lucky ways have made him a favorite with everyone.

Our next stop is the large room in the southwest corner lodging one of the stalwarts of the Junior class and an embryo Gene Krupa on the side, Bob Burkett. Bob, besides possessing the above attributes, is also one of our very proficient dish-washers—a fact which ought to make the girls sit up and take notice.

What's this unintelligible muttering emerging from the next room? "Calling CQ. Calling CQ. WIXCL calling CQ." We investigate and are relieved to learn that it is not a case for the psychopathic ward, but only Bud Price using his short-wave radio. Bud's prowess as a radio mechanic puts him in demand whenever a radio in either dormitory develops an ailment.

The last stop in this one-fare, all-inclusive trip about this dormitory is at the Davis-Dix room. Here we find two students who are always "on the ball," that is, of course, unless it should be a "bull session" that takes them away from their books. Here you can find Sweet-Pea (the Davis of the combination) most any time grovelling in a Latin book, fighting the battle with Vergil's lofty meters. Or Dix struggling with the weighty problems of physics—or, perhaps, merely gazing out onto the campus with a dreamy stare that says, "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns . . ." For three years these two boys have roomed together peaceably—or, at any rate, fairly peaceably! It's a good combination, for it is Sweet-Pea who rings the rising bell at six-forty-five, and then spends the next half hour trying to get Dix to rise.

Ladies and gentlemen, you have just been taken on a personally conducted tour through the portals of the one, the only, the original Winsor Dormitory, gaining an intimate glimpse into the private life of each of its inmates. We hope that this little trip has been interesting and that it has afforded an insight into the life and characteristics in habitat of the species of animal known as "homo sapiens, class dormitoria."

"And in the middle of the parlor Phyllis would be practicing modern dancing which she did with grace and animation. Phyl was the one who had tuna fish to share with us when we longed for a 'snack' after study hour. For four years she contributed to keeping things 'going' in the dorm."

CRASH! BANG! OUCH!

These sounds came from my kitchen. My friend looked as if she had seen a ghost and said, "Gracious, but for a minute I thought we were really back in the parlor and Betty-Jane was coming in! She didn't take French, but she knew what 'Dix' meant. I've always remembered Betty 'cuz she was such good fun and such a grand pal."

"Usually Marie was leaning on the piano, and usually she was giggling. Marie's happy nature made her popular with the girls. She wanted to be a nurse, and she certainly should have made an excellent one."

"Doris and Connie would come in, arm in arm. Dot had most Evy-thing in common with Connie, especially their fondness for Swedes! Dot was full of pep and vim—she really excelled in athletics."

"So did Connie," I said. "How I wish I had one of the apples she used to bring back from home right now. Connie made friends easily because of her grand personality and loveliness. The Sophs made a good choice when they chose her President of her class."

"Let's see, that's all the girls except Margie. Little, but, oh! She was noted for her efficiency in class affairs; you could hardly ever enter her room without finding her working for the class. And if you spent a Day'-vid her there was a certain topic she could discuss very well."

"While we were in the parlor the teachers always came in—to see if we were behaving, I s'pose! Miss Martel often came in a few minutes to chat with us. She had those qualities of being sympathetic and understanding, so necessary for a Dean of Girls. What a charming personality she had. Miss Ash would usually come into the midst of our fun those nights, too."

"Miss Ash . . . she liked to travel. 'Member those adorable shell bracelets that she brought us from her Cuban trip? Miss Ash often did little favors for us."

"Yes, and Miss Smith and Miss Coppen would come strolling in to be greeted joyously. Miss Smith won all our hearts by her charming friendliness and understanding."

"Miss Coppen was swell, too. She was almost like one of us. Didn't she make a nifty basketball coach? Although she taught only French and German, she had other language interests, as I remember."

"Then there was Miss Brookings," I mused, "who sometimes entertained us with fascinating stories of life in Africa. She was very hospitable as she occasionally served coffee to whomever might visit her in the afternoon."

"How busy Miss Williams kept the mails!" my friend exclaimed. "She had a grand sense of humor, and how much we all admired her. Glee clubs, orchestra, and operetta certainly kept her occupied."

"While we were in the parlor we'd hear a girl's voice calling, 'Does anyone know where I left my books?' and Dot Leach would dash in. She didn't really live in the dorm, but she was there so much that we thought of her as belonging there."

"Then the seven-ten bell would ring and we'd scatter to our room for study hour."

For a few minutes my friend and I were silent, reliving some scenes of life in Eastman. They were pleasant memories of girlish joys, and, sometimes, woes; memories that won't be forgotten.

Riding Club

The Riding Club was organized last fall, with eight members, under the direction of Mr. Swanson. The officers elected were:

President ..... ROSALIND RAAB
Vice-President ..... KATHERINE PERRY
Secretary-Treasurer ..... JANICE HARRED

After the girls had been riding a few weeks, the boys organized a riding club, which is the first time this has been done at East Greenwich Academy. The members are Robert Nichols, Edward Haire, Irving Silverman, Arthur Sylvia, Robert Burkett, Preston Bent, and King Gorman.

Although little riding was done during the winter, both clubs started again early in March. Several more joined the girls' club and the members now are: Miss Smith, Janice Harred, Norma Warren, Katherine Perry, Ruth Parmalee, Ruth Talcott, Doris Sylvia, Nancy Barrett, Dorothy Leach, Doris Masterson, Audrey Smith, Constance Winsor, Phyllis Parker, and Rosalind Raab.

Everyone is trying to perfect their riding for the annual Interscholastic Horsemanship Show, in which the Academy will compete with several other schools, some time in June. Last June this show was held for the first time, and winners in the East Greenwich Academy class were: First, Rosalind Raab; second, Phoebe Browning; third, Katherine Perry. The first place winners of each school class competed in a final class for the interscholastic championship and a gold trophy, and East Greenwich Academy won. This trophy will become the property of the first school to win it for three years, and everyone is working hard to keep it at E.G.A.

Boys' Basketball

In 1941 E.G.A. entered the hardest basketball schedule in years. This schedule included some of the best basketball teams in New England—teams that went to the New England and Glen Falls tournaments.

E.G.A. started their schedule with Aldrich High School. This class B team led through the first half of the game. During the second half the traditional Academy ball playing showed itself to be superior. The Academy ended the game on the long end of the score of 46 to 39.

On December 17, E.G.A. met the same opponent, but this time we came out on the short side of the score in a hard-fought game which went into an over-time period. However, this loss was attributed to a mistake in the score keeping, therefore making it a moral victory for the Crimson.

On the night of December 20 the Academy forces invaded Connecticut to play Windham High School of Willimantic. This time the Academy succumbed to the powerful quintet of Windham in a rough game. During the second period, our co-captain, Al Denice, was injured, which made a difference in the score. Windham rolled in 51 points which the Academy valiantly tried to equal, but they could get no more than 23 points.

To start the new year off, the Academy was host to New Bedford High. The loss of our six foot eight center made a great difference to the Academy cagers. The Massachusetts ball handling and greater reserve power defeated the Crimson for the first time on its home floor since 1939. The final score was 49 to 27.

Next, the Academy met the Army team from Fort Getty. This time the boys in red showed their true smoothness in hanging up a 62 to 32 victory.

On Friday, January 17, the East Greenwich Academy sent their blitz into action to defeat Fairhaven by the score of 73 to 40. In this game big Pep Spencer scored 27 points. On the defense the Academy felt the loss of their guard, Long John Anderson.

Resuming an old rivalry, the Academy visited Country Day School. In this game E.G.A. nosed out Country Day, 37 to 29.

E.G.A. started their campaign in Massachusetts with a return game with Fairhaven ending in a thriller with the results, 54 to 43, which showed the power of the Crimson to come through in a pinch.

The old Grads came back to their Alma Mater on February 7. They were surprised to have the under-grads defeat them by the overwhelming score of 56 to 25. Andy Spencer was not to be denied when, from guard position, he scored 18 points while brother Pep tossed in 27.

February 12 the Crimson was host to Admiral Billard, which came from Connecticut with a powerful force that proved too much for the boys in red. The final count was 47 to 70.

On February 15 the Academy courtmen invaded Massachusetts once again. This time they were turned back by the New Bedford team; the score was 68 to 18.

Host: the Academy. Place: Swift Memorial Gym. Opponent: Windham High. Time: February 18. By this time Willimantic had won fifteen consecutive games and were well on their way to the New England high school tournament. The Academy showed plenty of fight and spirit; in fact, they had the Connecticut rooters worried. The score at the final time was 41-55 in their favor.

On February 22 the presence of Bright-Eyes Bryant was missed when the boys took it on the chin by a 41-79 score from Dean Academy. That top team of New England Prep schools ran their total points to over one thousand during their basketball season.

The Alumni asked for defeat a second time in the same year when they stepped on the same court with the under-grads. This time the score was 35-62.

The last game of the year was on February 28, and was a chance to win or lose a majority of games for the year. The Academy tossers journeyed to Norwich, Connecticut, and played a hard close game, but were defeated by the narrow margin of 37-38.

So ends the 1941 basketball season: seven won and eight lost.

Girls' Basketball

When the winter winds started to whistle around the vine-clad walls of E.G.A., the long awaited call came at last. Coach Ruth Coppen made her first call for every sports-minded, energetic, and ambitious girl to shape up the girls' basketball sextet. Six veterans and about twenty others answered the call for basketball practice, and the season got under way.

During the following weeks, the girls elected Olga Giornelli as their captain. Slowly, but surely, the squad worked harder in order to land a starting position on the first team. The first team, in the final test, consisted of Aldea Dowell, Gloria D'Attore, and Olga Giornelli, as forwards, and Dorothy Leach, Doris Sylvia, and Constance Winsor, as guards.

In our first game with the R. I. School of the Deaf, Lady Luck decided to play no favorites. The game ended with a tie score of 22-22.

Our first game with Coventry showed that the E.G.A. girls really had some fighting spirit in them. The score was very close throughout the game, and it was only in the last few minutes that Coventry slipped ahead of us.

For our next game, the E.G.A. sextet traveled down to North Kingstown. The floor was smaller than our home floor and thus confused our girls, but the North Kingstown girls knew every inch of their floor and proved it to us. Still they had a hard time doing it, for the E.G.A. girls were close behind them all the time. The game ended with a score of 10-8.

In our games with South Kingstown, the team proved too strong for us, though our team tried their best to win. In the first game with South Kingstown the score was 24-18, and in the return game, 36-23.

In our game with North Kingstown on our home floor, the E.G.A. sextet emerged victorious once more with a score of 21-10.

This year, for the first time, we met the North Providence team in a non-league game. The North Providence girls were rather sure of themselves, but we showed them that we knew a little about basketball and claimed another victory for E.G.A.

Our last game of the season was Coventry. On a cloudy day, Coventry, last year's champions, ventured down to our Swift Gym prepared to beat us. But we fooled them completely and took the game with a score of 25-11.

Miss Coppen, our patient and faithful coach, deserves a great deal of credit for her guidance throughout the season.

Football

In the first game of the year at E.G.A. field, a powerful and well-coached Colt Memorial football team ran roughshod over a fighting and game, but light, Academy eleven. Running almost at will, the large and fast Colt backs crossed the Crimson goal line for thirty-nine points because the Academy attack was not functioning.

Journeying to Burr's Hill Park the next week to play Warren, the scarlet warriors were a different crew, and, for the first half, the two forces battled at even odds up and down the gridiron; but an intercepted pass gave Warren the break of the game, and the ultimate winners pushed across seven points. With fighting determination the Academy eleven came back to even the score, but too soon the final whistle blew and once more the Academy boys were on the short end of the score.

At Freebody Stadium in Newport, the E.G.A. gridiron forces lost twelve to six to De La Salle, but in doing so, they earned the well-deserved praise of every onlooker. For completely outplayed in the first quarter when a smoothworking Crusader eleven pushed across two touchdowns, the Academy eleven came back to completely outplay their opponents and score six points in the third period Then in the final quarter the Academy backs put on a running exhibition and were headed for "pay-dirt" when the final whistle blew.

A fighting team once more playing before home admirers was not to be denied. This time the scarlet clad warriors started off on the sixty-five yard march to a first-period touchdown against Barrington on a pass from Denice to Johnson which proved to be the winning tally. It was a well-earned victory for the Academy stalwart, for consistently the line held on crucial moments, while the Acadmy backs carried the leather well.

Resuming their old rivalry with Country Day, E.G.A. lost a heart-breaking game 2-0 by virtue of a safety.

Starting out with a spurt, E.G.A. pushed across seven points for an early lead against their rivals from North Providence. North Providence, however, gained the second period break and evened the score with pass interception. E.G.A. with its ever-fighting spirit held the large North Providence boys scoreless in the third period, but the heavier team's reserve strength proved too much for the tired Academy eleven and the North Providence boys scored again in the last period.

In their final game of the year, E.G.A. was not to be denied the joy of victory. Traveling to Central Falls, the Academy eleven took the measure of a fast and tricky Sacred Heart team on a first period touchdown. For the next two quarters the teams battled at mid-field, while in the fourth quarter Sacred Heart scored, but their attempted conversion was blocked by center Olson, giving a final score of 7 to 6.

Although winning only two games, the indomitable spirit of the Academy boys made every game at least a moral victory in the eyes of the fans.

Gym Team

Once more the year rolled around to April and along with the many signs of spring came the Annual Home Exhibition of the East Greenwich Academy Gymnastic Teams. The gym teams started work back in the fall of '40, and at last the time had come when they would exhibit their accomplishments after long hours of untiring practice. With such able and inspiring captains as Mary DeRestie, for the girls, and Russell Kettelle, for the boys, the group settled down to hard work under the patient and unfailing coachings of Muriel B. Smith and Thomas J. Carey. Both Miss Smith and Mr. Carey were new to the job, but they proved themselves most capable and efficient.

During our practice period, Coach Carey was forced to give up coaching our gym team along with his teaching because of illness. To the teams this was a tragic event and the coach was missed by all. Mr. Rudolph Swanson, former director of gym classes, stepped into Coach Carey's place very obligingly and helped to carry on the show.

At last the night of the big event arrived. The gym was the scene of an excited crowd anxiously looking for their seats and waiting expectantly for the performance to begin. At last—8:30 o'clock—the lights were dimmed, the music started, a whistle blew, and the 1941 gym teams marched in with perfect poise and quick martial step. After group marching, the team went into formation for calisthenics led by Mary DeRestie, captain of the girls' team.

Next, the spotlight centered on a group working on the horse. Constance Winsor led a group of four boys in a difficult series of vaults on the horse.

And then came the horizontal bar, another difficult piece of apparatus. The group working on this piece of apparatus came through with flying colors and the audience held its breath as Harold Maddalena and Russell Kettelle performed the much talked about giant swing, a very dangerous feat consisting of a complete turn of the body around the bar.

At this point in the program came "The Congo", a rhythmical dance interpreted by the modern dance group to the jungle chants of the public speaking class and the boom of a mysterious jungle drum.

This was followed by some new, interesting, and picturesque pyramid building by both boys and girls of the gym team.

The parallel bars came next with a skilled group performing spectacular feats with form and ability. It was on this piece of apparatus that "Rus" Kettelle won the New England Schoolboy Championship last year, and he again showed his ability with great skill.

All gym work came to a pause for a few moments while the audience gazed on the antics of the two clowns of the gym team, John Anderson and Preston Bent, dressed in absurd costumes and wearing grotesque rubber masks.

Tumbling was next on the program and the gym team doing forward rolls, backward rolls, wave rolls, and headstands in unison was a magnificent sight to behold.

To the tune of "Turkey in the Straw" eight farmers marched in and performed the "Farmers' Clog", an amusing and entertaining dance.

The time had now come for the rings, a very risky piece of apparatus, and the audience was reminded of the graceful "man on the flying trapeze" as they watched "Rus" Kettelle, Dot Leach, Tony Ferranti, Celina Begin, and "Pete" Perry perform with ease. Another outstanding feature on the rings is the stationary rings in which "Rus" Kettelle and Preston Bent showed ability.

The featured guests of the evening were Miss Eileen Gilmore and Mr. Cappe from Mystic, Connecticut, who performed on roller skates with much ease and grace as the audience speculated on how she kept on her feet so long.

An event that was looked forward to every year came next on the program. The boys, wearing shorts and caps and covered with bronze paint, presented several symbolic statuary groups. The first was the well-known "Wheel of Cooperation" which has become a tradition with the Academy; others were Youth of America and Europe, Supplication, Track and Field, and the last, Football, was dedicated to Thomas J. Carey, football coach.

As a very effective finale, a military tap was put on by a group of twelve girls. The dance seemed to fit in with world conditions and national defense programs for the girls wore white military costumes with brass buttons and all, and white capes that were lined with the American Flag, which produced a very effective picture when the girls held them up. With the playing of the Star Spangled Banner and the tap dancers holding up their capes giving a flag effect, the exhibition came to a close for another year.
