EAST GREENWICH RHODE ISLAND

Foreword

AT this time, during the year 1945, the thought of war is foremost in the hearts and minds of all Americans.

We feel, therefore, that the "Crimson" is now more important than ever before, as it is a tribute to those of our school who are in the armed services and those who soon will be. It is for all of us a reminder of three happy and successful years at the East Greenwich High School.

I'm going to miss my class.
Maude S. Barker.

MAUDE S. BARKER

It is with pride and gratitude that the Class of 1945 dedicates its annual, "The Crimson," to Maude S. Barker, senior faculty adviser.

We extend our thanks for her helpful guidance and sincere interest in this yearbook and in the East Greenwich High School.

In Appreciation

MR. CARCIERI

To Mr. Carcieri for his sincere interest and active participation in school activities, the Class of 1945 extends its appreciation.

Keep up the good work Bob
Mr. Carcieri

MISS CIPOLLA

To Miss Cipolla for her guidance and help in making the copy for this yearbook, the Class of 1945 wishes to express its gratefulness.

Class History

I GUESS you might call me the spirit of the Class of '45. We, that is my fellow spirits and I, live here at the school. Of course I can't tell you where, but we like to leave our haunt once in a while to come out and see what's going on. Right now, floating around the campus and along the corridors, I begin to remember my own three years here; before I became a spirit, of course.

Oh, that first day! Here we were, who only a year before had been lordly seniors, walking meekly along ye old corridors. We were now, as we had once been so aptly termed, "small potatoes". Just as we were beginning to regain a little of our previous dignity, a fatal day befell us, initiation day. This is the day when the seniors really have their fun. We came to school clad in upside down skirts, with shirts on backwards, and potatoes strung around our necks. Our "persecutors" pounced upon us with every available lipstick and jar of paint and set to work decorating every unconcealed part of our epidermis. We carried books, opened doors, and rolled peanuts with our noses and then, I suppose in consolation, were given a dance in final welcome to our new surroundings.

Our first duties involved election of our class officers. They were Clifford Davies, president; Hope Johnson, vice-president; Lena Lallo, secretary; Joe Moscatelli, treasurer. Our class advisers were Miss Margaret Walsh and Mr. Edward Gordon.

With February came our first dance, the Sweetheart Dance. Rita Desautel was chosen queen of the campus and crowned in royal fashion amidst decorations of red hearts and silver cupids.

We had a roller-skating party that year, too. The thing I remember most is the next morning when we all limped sorely into our respective homerooms and deposited our bruised bodies gingerly in our seats.

The last event of our "Soph" year was a class picnic. Along with Miss Walsh we bicycled to Goddard Park, where we spent the day swimming and eating.

The old adage, "tempus fugit", seemed literally true during that summer of '43; for in no time at all we were once again buried in text books, and were diligently constructing airplanes.

We started our junior year with election of class officers. They were: Gerald Grebstein, president; Roberta Rose, vice-president; Jean Capelli, secretary; Lena Lallo, treasurer. Our class advisers were Mrs. John Sheriden and Mr. Edward Gordon. With our junior year thus begun, we sponsored the Moonlight Dance. A romantic and fall-like atmosphere was provided by a huge orange moon and bundles of cornstalks.

In January we gave another dance, the Winter Carnival. Everyone had a good time that night.

The dance that will be remembered most by all of us, though, is the Junior Prom. We spent April and May in the tedious task of making paper flowers and streamers. June tenth, "the night," revealed Swift Gym in an indescribable array of beauty.

After concluding another school year with a class picnic, we began our summer vacation. A great many of us became busily occupied in the renovation of the school cafeteria for use as a recreation center.

"Today I am a senior. Gosh! What a wonderful feeling!" With these words we immediately settled ourselves to the task of electing class officers. Those elected were: president, Chester Merrill; vice-president, Roberta Rose; secretary, Mary Symons; treasurer, Roger Gauvin. Our class advisers were: Mrs. Maude Barker and Mr. Robert Mitchell. We officially and thoroughly initiated the freshmen on our long awaited day and then with ostensible dignity which befits a senior, we began our last year at the high school.

During that year of '45 we had the Christmas Dance, and the traditional "Movie Night."

In May, on the newly green campus, we held Ivy Day exercises. After we marched between the two chains of ivy held by underclassmen, the queen was ceremoniously crowned. An Ivy Day dance was held that night at which the queen and her court presided.

Class Night, the Junior Prom, and finally graduation, came. I remember how nervous but proud we were as we walked up to receive our diplomas. I like to remember those years but it always makes me feel rather sad; so if you don't mind I think I'll return to the—Oh! I forgot. You're not supposed to know where we spirits live. Well—so long.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1945

We the Class of 1945, after four years of diligent and noticeable work, regretfully come to the day of reckoning, and hereby leave behind us, to our underclassmen, tangible and intangible bequests hoping that they will be received with appreciation.

Milton Begin wills to Sally Pickells a recording of his voice so she won't forget him.

Getrude Bradshaw wills a package of crepe paper to Shirley Farrell and hopes she'll be continually on the job of decorating at future dances.

Margaret Browning leaves a stick of gum to Betty Masterson to help her improve her chewing technique.

Marion Corr leaves her job of school pianist to Priscilla Adams.

Elmer Daniels wills to Matthew Franzone a bar of castile soap because of his love of the showers.

Richard Ekstrom wills to Priscilla Adams his brief case since Priscilla seems to have a great deal of trouble carrying her books.

Marion Fava wills her method of keeping thin to her sister Concetta.

Yolanda Ferranti leaves to Harrison Barrows this Medal of Bravery for standing the kidding senior girls gave him in period 5 study hall.

Patricia Foster leaves her red-headed temper to anyone who knows how to control it.

Elena Giornelli wills to Sally Pickells her title of class flirt. We hope she will use it with discretion.

Roger Gauvin wills to George Bristol his ability to dim-out the lights at all the dances.

Maureen Gorman wills her even disposition to all freshmen who have not yet learned the art of making friends.

Audrey Hamilton wills to Mr. Carcieri a piece of paper because of the paper shortage, so that he may give the future seniors their weekly tests.

Robinette Hayes leaves her original rules of spelling to Jack Faulk.

Gloria Izzi wills to the freshmen boys a set of boxing gloves, to be cared for by Philip Hopp.

Gloria Johnson wills her height to Anna Grover. Here's a vitamin tablet, especially prescribed to help accomplish the feat.

Hope Johnson leaves a whistle in care of Mr. Mitchell to give to next year's Student Council president to call the meeting to order on time.

Madeline Lallo wills to George Bristol the last minute before the bell rings.

Mary Magner wills to Emily Briggs, who also seems to be a spark plug for conversation, her front seat in P. A. D. class.

Shirley Mason wills to Jacky Lambert her Sweetheart Crown in hope that she will wear it.

Leotta Matteson leaves to Wilma Briggs a map of Providence so that she won't get lost.

Gene McGiveney leaves to Fred McLauglin his bobby pins and curlers to encourage the wave in his hair.

Chester Merrill wills his little black book to Gordon Greene and hopes that he will make good use of it.

Richard Oltedale wills to George Bristol his wrist watch to help him get to school on time.

George Papadopoulos leaves all the answers to some struggling chemistry student.

Lena Riccio wills to Ronald Fetzer a pair of dancing shoes hoping that they will keep his feet in rhythm.

Roberta Rose wills a bottle of peroxide to Gertrude Essex in hope that it will do for her what she thinks it will.

Mary Symons wills her quietness to Barbara Baker, which she can maintain by using adhesive tape.

Milton Taylor wills his smile to Mr. Sykes. We hope that it will help him with the trials and tribulations of future seniors.

Kenneth Tefft leaves his ability to sell war stamps to the incoming senior class in hope that they will keep their percentage as high as ours was.

Robert Tefft leaves his ability to be on time to any person who may be in need of it.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF we have hereunto set our hands and seal in the said Town of East Greenwich this first day of April, A. D., 1945.

Elena Giornelli,
Madeline Lallo.

Secretary	Grace Catanio
Treasurer	Shirley Farrell

This year makes the third year during which the Student Council has been in existence. Although it is still immature, it has found itself connected with many of the activities of the school. Early in the year the Honor Roll was dedicated, and later the Council sponsored an informal dance and other activities. In March the Council members traveled to Cranston High School to see their Student Council in action. Many new and helpful ideas were obtained which we hope will aid in making the new Student Council next year a bigger success.

We were very proud in the fall of '44 toknow that E. G. H. was once again to have a football team. We had many an anxious moment during the several games. At the first victory of E. G. H., played against South Kingston, the old bell in the chapel was rung to tell the town of our victory. The students of E. G. H. really were happy that night. In future years there will be many more such victories, and even better ones.

BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM

Treasurer	Loretta Misch

The Dramatic Club was organized in September under the capable supervision of Miss Catherine Laughton. The club, which is largely composed of Freshmen and Sophomores, has almost doubled in its membership this year. The main event of the year was the presentation of the play, "Listen, Professor". The stage setting for this production was a great improvement over that of last year, due to the fact that the organization had better facilities. We all hope that the Dramatic Club will continue in its fine work of developing acting ability among our student body, and we wish it continued success.

The Glee Club has capably entertained the students this year in assemblies and on special occasions. The members put many long hours into the production of its operetta, "Patience". Much of the credit for the Glee Club's success goes to Miss Nardone for her untiring efforts and the time which she has spent in producing a successful operetta. We hope that the future Glee Clubs may do as well.
