Eastman Hall, named for a former beloved teacher, is the girls' dormitory, and stands at the south end of the front campus. Here are reception rooms, a guest room, the rooms of the Preceptress, recreation rooms, and the halls of the girls' literary societies.

The Peirce Memorial Library, directly opposite the campus, is a beautiful granite building, a gem of architecture. It is the gift to the town of Mr. D. Albert Peirce, as a memorial to his only daughter, who died in childhood. To this the students have access as freely as if it were the property of the Academy. It contains a full supply of reference books and all other works needed by students, nearly 12,000 volumes.

SUMMER SCHOOLS

A school is maintained for those from a distance who cannot conveniently return home for the summer vacation, and for any others who may wish to continue their studies during the summer.

In addition, the Rhode Island Sunday School Association and the Narragansett Assembly for years have held summer sessions at the Academy.

Clark Cottage is a boys' dormitory on the rear campus, west of the athletic field.

COURSES OF STUDY

There are two courses of study of four years each, leading to a diploma in the literary department of the Academy.

The CLASSICAL COURSE prepares for the degree of A. B. or Ph. B. in college. Latin is required for the A. B. degree.

The SCIENTIFIC COURSE prepares for the degree of Sc. B. in college or technical school.

Our certificate admits, without examination, to all colleges having the certificate system. Whenever possible, students should bring certificates of work done in other schools in order that they may be properly graded.

Class standings are marked on the basis of 100%. 70% is the passing mark, but an average of 85% is required to certificate for college.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

This department aims to present the highest musical standards. We offer a thorough three years course in technique and training in the following: Pianoforte, Vocal, and Pipe-Organ; a full course in Theory, including Harmony, History of Music, Sight Singing, Ear Training and Counterpoint, together with literary subjects from the Academy courses. A diploma is granted upon the completion of the musical course including two years of high school work.

This department has been noted for its thorough work ever since its founding by the eminent musician Dr. Eben Tourjee, the originator of The New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

Students in the Vocal Course for graduation must take one piano lesson a week the first two years.

In most cases it will be impossible to complete this course in three years without some previous elementary musical training.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

A junior department is conducted for children under fourteen. The girls live at the Eastman. The boys are on the third floor of the Winsor, in the care of a House Mother. These pupils have their own class-room in charge of a grade teacher, but at all other times they participate in the life and activities of the larger family.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

The school is Christian but not sectarian, the leading denominations being represented. Attendance is required at the daily chapel exercises, the religious meetings Sunday and Wednesday evenings and Sunday morning service in the village church of such denomination as the parents may request.

ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

A high grade course of entertainments for the students and the public will be maintained. A small fee is charged students.

LOCATION

East Greenwich is on the Shore Line Division, the direct route from New York to Boston, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, fourteen miles from Providence, with which it is connected by trolley, fifty-nine miles from Boston, and one hundred seventy-two from New York.

The Academy is beautifully situated on high ground overlooking Narragansett Bay with its blue waters and wooded islands. The school buildings command a view of Warren, Bristol, Fall River, Providence, and Newport. The attractive campus, with its shrubbery and winding paths, is shaded by tall, stately elms. Containing five acres, it provides a large athletic field and ample room for six buildings.

HISTORY

The East Greenwich Academy was founded in 1802 as the Kent Academy and has had an uninterrupted career. It was the second institution of its kind in the State. Until 1839 it was conducted by a stock company. Upon the organization of the Providence (now New England Southern) Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1841, it became the property of the Conference. It is now conducted by a Board of Trustees, elected in part by the Conference.

HISTORIC HOMES

On the same street as the Academy is the home of General James Mitchell Varnum, of Revolutionary fame. This house once sheltered Lafayette. A little to the west is the Governor Greene Homestead, built in 1680. In this house hospitality was extended to Franklin and Rochambeau. Near by is "the Windmill Cottage," the home of Professor George Washington Greene, grandson of General Nathanael Greene. Here the poet Longfellow was a frequent guest. Two miles south is the birthplace of General Nathanael Greene, next to Washington in command of the Revolutionary forces. The waters still pour over the falls near which this "Rhode Island Blacksmith" forged his anchors. The site is marked by a suitable monument.

TESTIMONIAL OF PRESIDENT FAUNCE OF BROWN UNIVERSITY

I am glad to learn of the growth of the East Greenwich Academy. It occupies a unique place in the life of New England. It is in no sense a competitor of our public high schools, but cultivates a special field, offering some things that no high school has ever attempted to offer. It has an interesting and honorable history, and I wish for it a host of strong and sympathetic friends.

W. H. P. FAUNCE.

It is the hope of those in charge of the East Greenwich Academy to maintain high Educational Standards in the atmosphere of a Christian home. Patronage is sought from those in sympathy with such an ideal and from no others.
