The 1949 Crimson

EAST GREENWICH HIGH SCHOOL

East Greenwich, Rhode Island

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1949, wish to extend our thanks and gratitude to Mrs. Maude S. Barker for the untiring work which she has carried on for our class since we entered East Greenwich High School in 1945.

Whenever the class has been discouraged or worried about one of its many problems, Mrs. Barker has been there with a note of cheerfulness and encouragement, which has always seemed to pull us through.

The success of the class of '49 can well be attributed to our class adviser, Mrs. Barker, to whom, with great pride and pleasure we respectfully dedicate this yearbook.

IN APPRECIATION

To Mr. Donald W. MacDiarmid, our class adviser and guidance instructor, we would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for all he has done for us.

He came to East Greenwich High School with our class and has been an important figure in the progress and success of our class ever since.

As an indication of our esteem and appreciation, we hereby respectfully dedicate this page to Mr. Donald W. MarDiarmid.

CLASS HISTORY

At last the day arrived. The newly planted grass on the campus was being trampled by townspeople, gathered to witness the dedication of the new East Greenwich High School. (They never thought they'd see the day.) The class of 1949 gradually melted into one corner and gazed in awe at the tall, modern building. After the ceremonies we walked down the halls, trying to visualize the rooms of the good old E. G. H. and the memories they held for us. Our first thoughts carried us back to our Freshman year.

After our first few days of insecurity, we became established and elected class officers. Pete Clough was president; Robert Bailey, vice president; Jane Catania, secretary; and Nancy Adams, treasurer. Our first run-in with the Seniors came on initiation day, which we had long been dreading, and which, incidentally, was the last initiation held at E. G. H. After spending a long winter observing the ways and manners of the upper classmen, we were pretty confident of ourselves when it came time to putting on a successful Spring Frolic. We ended our Freshman year all piling into a truck and heading for Mishnock for a picnic which has turned into an annual event.

Starting our Sophomore year with much enthusiasm, we got right to work with the election of new officers, which were president, Ed Harris; vice president, Fred Plante; secretary, Betsy Pickells; and treasurer, Angie Amato. Planning a few ways to earn money such as serving refreshments at a football game, sponsoring a pre-victory dance, and a food sale, we tried to cushion our treasury. Anticipating the amount of work to be done on the annual Sweetheart Dance, which we were to give, we busied ourselves. The finished product was a lovely and memorable dance with Queen Drusa Romano reigning. At the end of the school year, we packed again, as usual, our lunches and headed for Mishnock.

After election of Junior Class officers which included Jeanne Strickland as president; Drusa Romano as vice-president; Jane Catania as secretary, and Nancy Adams as treasurer, we started looking at class rings. After much contemplation, we unanimously selected one. With the shadow of debt hanging over our heads, we began to plan for our Junior Prom, selecting a Mardi Gras for our theme. Though the dance caused us many a worry, it was a lovely prom. At the close of school we again packed our trusty lunches and rattled up to the old swimming hole—Lake Mishnock.

Returning to high school now as dignified seniors, but hardly believing we were, we elected our final slate of class officers: president, Pete Clough; vice-president, Phil Rowley; secretary, Jane Catania; treasurer, Nancy Adams.

We welcomed the Freshmen with a dance. At the bottom of our treasury, (as usual), we looked with a dim view at the expense of the year book. Regardless, the Crimson Board was chosen and work began under the direction of our faithful advisers, Mrs. Barker and Mr. MacDiarmid. Our senior pictures were taken and everyone was exchanging with everyone else. The date for the Christmas Dance was chosen. We got everyone to come to the dance and Christmas spirit was everywhere. As our school days began to wane, we regretfully planned our last dance—Ivy Day. The Queen and her court reigned over a glorious day and dance. Finally the Junior Prom came and the Seniors saved some money for once. Our banquet night arrived and everyone stuffed himself. The last tribute to the stately seniors was the annual moving up day. The magical and miraculous day of our graduation finally came and with diplomas tightly clutched in our hands, we marched out of high school days forever.

CLASS WILL HEAR YE:

We, the class of 1949, penitent, in our last moments of life, do hereby, being in sound state of mind for once, declare this our last will and testament.

To the Juniors, we leave our Senior Privileges.

To the Sophomores, a successful Junior Prom.

To the Freshmen, the privilege of choosing a Sweetheart Queen.

We leave to the faculty, the following:

To Mrs .Barker, as intelligent a class for the next four years as she has had for the past four years.

To Miss Byrnes, a Conover model for Sketch Club.

To Miss Cipolla, a tube of Ipana to preserve that smile of beauty.

To Miss Cooney, new plumbing for the lab.

To Miss Riley, a Harvard man.

To Mrs. Stuart, two housemaids to help her run her large apartment.

To Miss Zammitti, a loud-speaker. Joke!

To Mr. Brackley, a new super DeLuxe Buick.

To Mr. Carcieri a steak, just in case he gets another black eye during Gym Team practice.

To Mr. Genander, an auto shop to make automobiles for bus students.

To Mr. MacDiarmid, a new office, all equipped—even a secretary.

To Mr. Regini, a steering wheel for the other half of the dual-controlled car.

To Mr. Silva, a new piano with keys that really work.

To Mr. Stowell, a pair of scissors for his next haircut.

Nancy Adams wills to Alice Bristol a tube of lipstick just in case. Can you guess why?

Angie Amato wills a medal of achievement to the only male occupant of the Shorthand and Typing 2 classes, Francis Fogerty.

Robert Bailey wills to his brother, Alan, his ability to question Miss Zammitti.

Marilyn Booth wills to Mr. Brackley a picture of the 1949 American League Pennant winners.

Pris Boren leaves to her cousin, Dave Hawkinson, a box of face powder to go with those rosy cheeks.

Billy Briggs wills his laugh to Phil Wilcox. Remember, keep smiling!

Russell Burbank wills his soft voice and calm manner to Eddie Denice.

Jane Catania wills to Miss Zammitti a wheelbarrow to help her carry her books. Now all she needs is someone to help push it.

Bob Casavant wills his height and quietness to Donald Gardiner.

Pauline Cassamas leaves to Doris MacDonald a week's supply of pennies for Mr. Stowell's penny collection for gum chewers.

Pete Clough wills his ability to jump 1½ feet off the basketball floor to Jean Wilkie, his favorite cheerleader.

Marion Davis wills to Mr. Carcieri a strong right arm for use at the "horse" in Gym Team.

Ervin Dowell wills to Mike Malvinni a hand stand on the parallel bars.

Amadeo Franzone leaves to Steve Rowley a genuine pair of Tom McCann's elevated shoes.

Howard Graham wills his slow, easy way to Ray Wesson. Slow down, Ray. You'll get there!

Ed Harris wills to Bebe MacDonald a spare tire to go with that motorcycle he wants.

Kay Healy wills her English notes and a headache pill to Pat Rice.

Barbara Huling wills her collection of "jokes" to Shirley Malm.

Lillian Kenyon wills a parking permit for Kenyon's Woods to Benny Kettelle so he and Gail can make good use of it.

Lester Kettelle wills to his cousin, Benny, an empty package of cigarettes in hope that he doesn't get into the habit.

Virginia King wills to Miss Cipolla a ruler with the inscription, "To the Little One" because, as you can plainly see, Virginia doesn't need those few extra inches as does Miss Cipolla.

George Loxton wills to Richard Peterson a model airplane set, to help him toward Ace Scouts.

Melvin MacDonald bequeaths his curly hair and slim physique to Alfred Bateman.

Pat Magner leaves her Mt. St. Charles card to Sally Cheever to carry on at C. Y. O.

Ray McKone wills his ability to speak French to Johnny Leyden.

Pat Munslow wills a book of American slang to Pat Nurton.

Al Peretta wills his favorite expression of "Don't Haunt Me" to Miss Zammitti to add to her collection of famous quotations.

Betsy Pickells wills her spot on the front porch to her sister, Gyppy. We know she will make good use of it!

Fred Plante wills to Tom Storey a package of matches to keep him and whomever it may concern, warm at Paine's Pond on those cold winter nights.

Barbara Rice passes on her title of "Fatigue", willed to her by Jack Faulk, to Betty Van Olinda.

Drusa Romano wills to Jean Wilkie her cheerleader's cap in hopes she will be next year's captain: also a pair of springs, so when she jumps, she too will be able to get off the ground.

Phil Rowley wills his ability to play the piano to Tom Storey.

Gloria Scurti wills her ability to keep out of mischief to Jean Wilkie.

Ruth Smith leaves a package of band-aids to Joyce Smith. Watch out for that Razor, Joyce!

Jeanne Strickland wills to Johnny Botelho a can of Ovaltine to cure those shattered nerves.

Barbara Sweet wills to Gordon Austin a love letter in shorthand to that certain someone.

Walter Taylor wills a joke book to Walter Mather so he can amuse himself at noontime.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I, Marilyn Booth, have set my hand and seal hereunto this tenth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-nine.

Marilyn Booth

THE CLASS PROPHECY OF 1949

East Greenwich triumphs over Coventry, 39-0. Surprise bonfire bids farewell to Mr. Langley. Fred Plante, Pete Clough, Betsy Pickells, and Nancy Adams report to Detention. Junior Prom. Ivy Day. Graduation!

Yes, Graduation, the event that everyone in that senior class waited twelve years to realize. When that night finally arrived, however, the class was anything but happy. They had made true friends, friends who would soon be leaving for destinations unknown. They were sad over the parting.

Fifteen years have passed since these fellows and girls graduated. Today, they are men and women of the world; some rich, some poor, some married, som single.

In a recent alumni edition of the "Herald", were listed occupations, interests, etc., of the class of 1949. Following are some excerpts; some expected, some surprising.

"Atomic bombs were feared greatly fifteen years ago. People were praying for the atom to be harnessed for a cure of diseases. Drs. Robert E. Bailey and Jeanne Strickland have discovered a sure cure for that much dreaded disease, hiccups. For this they have received the Nobel Prize."

"Another graduate, Fred Plante, executive of the United States Woolen Company, donated fifty thousand dollars to a fund for the construction of a road around Paine's Pond, for the benefit of those who like to enjoy the moon without getting stuck in the mud."

'The Board of Directors of the world's foremost magazine, 'Lady Sumner', has elected Jane Catania and Angelina Amato editor and assistant editor respectively, of that magazine."

"Two honeymooners, Countess Drusa Romano Fairfield and Count Fairfield, staying at Niagara Falls, are suing Ed. Harris and Howard Graham, coowners of the Motorcycle Renting Company, for $150,000. The Cycle Club's motto is 'Ride a bike, you will like. If you fall, that is all!' The whole thing grew very complicated. The two lawyers are Pete Clough and Phil Rowley, who rather dislike working against each other."

"At a recent election of the East Coast Quahaugers' Union, Amadeo Franzone, Alfred Perretta, and Walter Taylor were elected President, Vice President and treasurer, respectively. They were known to be the best shell fishers in East Greenwich in the summer of 1948, with the exception of their coach, Nick Carcieri."

" 'Attention, young men, 20-35! The chance of a lifetime. Come out West and be a rancher'. This article was placed in the 'Providence Journal' by Barbara Huling and Lillian Kenyon, owners of the largest cattle ranch in the world."

"The Russell J. Burbank Brush Company, with offices all over the world, has recently come up with a slogan that has increased their business 90%. Every word in the slogan is preceded by the word 'brush'."

"Mr. William Briggs, expert critic for the 'New York Times', has proclaimed the musical 'Maharaja of Magedor', starring Katherine Healy and Barbara Sweet, the finest musical ever produced."

" 'The London Socialite', foremost gossip sheet in England, has announced the arrival of a baby girl to the Duke and Duchess of Heatherland. The former Patricia Munslow married the Duke in 1959."

"Two well known registered nurses, Pauline Cassamas and Priscilla Boren, received Distinguished Service Medals from Dr. Nancy Adams, President of Red Cross."

"The Dowell, Casavant, and Loxton Construction Company has completed a monument in honor of 'Memories', at a site overlooking Paine's Pond, financed by the McKone, King, and Associates, well known baby sitting agents."

"Mr. Melvin MacDonald, one of New York's most eligible bachelors, has purchased the famous Forge Restaurant in East Greenwich, from Miss Gloria Scurti. Mr. MacDonald is a connoisseur of fine foods."

"Speaking of fine foods,—Lester Kettelle, of Frenchtown, the finest agricultural expert in the East, has discovered a new vegetable. Mr. Kettelle is at a standstill as to what to call it."

"Two girls from the class of '49 realized their ambitions to become teachers, Barbara Congdon and Patricia Magner. Miss Congdon is now Dean at Wellesley College. Miss Magner is teaching Home Economics at East Greenwich High School. The delightful odor of food at Eastman Hall speaks well for her ability.

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders this year made their debut in the football season with new uniforms consisting of red peddle pushers and heavy white lettered sweaters. With a donation of six megaphones, under the direction of Captain Drusa Romano, they cheered their team on to a successful season. Last year's uniforms of short red skirts were used for the basketball season.
