THE MAIN BUILDING

Foreword

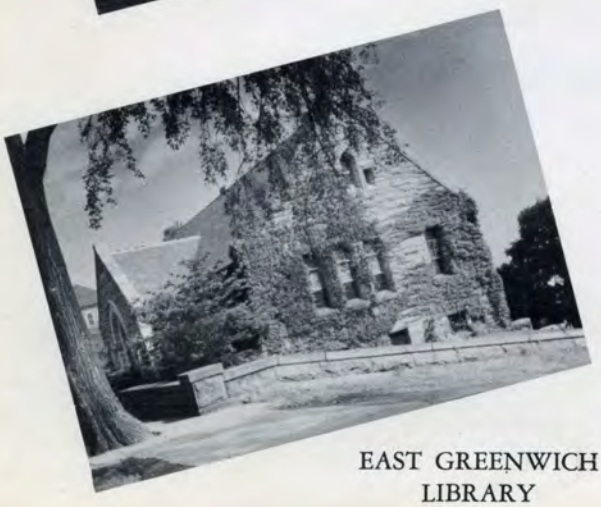

We would like you to accompany our Avenger on his handsome charger as we journey back through the pages of time. Amidst the colorful feudal setting of a medieval castle in all its splendor we would introduce to you our king surrounded by his council of noble lords, his knights of valour and their ladies fair.

Dedication

MISS RITA RILEY

To Miss Riley the Class of 1952 respectfully dedicates this yearbook.

This fair lady has shown a dauntless spirit equaled only by the warriors of olde in her guidance of us through the jousts of our four years.

Her thoughtful leadership and tireless devotion have earned for her a place deep within the hearts of us all.

We thank you most sincerely.

Appreciation

MISS ROSE COONEY

The Class of 1952 expresses its gratitude and appreciation to Miss Cooney, a gracious lady, whose helpful service and practical advice have been of such great assistance in fashioning for us the beautiful tapestry of memories that will linger for many years to come.

Class Prophecy

Close your eyes and through the mist and fog of memory and by-gone years you will slowly discern a much harrassed phantom sitting before an old dusty desk piled high with manuscripts, yellow and brittle from age. In this dim room, the only source of light is a bright crackling fire, and hovering around the fire are shadowy figures which resemble the knights and ladies of old.

I am tired. My eyes are heavy and I have an odd feeling that I am being pulled by superior beings from one era to another. I am confused. Where am I? I glance at a paper on the desk. It looks like a newspaper and yet it is not. I read of battles between feudal lords and I see scrolls announcing a tournament, but the date of this event is obliterated. Still confused I glance at another paper. The date on this one is clear enough, June 1965, and I also see that it is published in East Greenwich, Rhode Island.

One of the knights draws near me and as he approaches I see that it is — but it can't be! Paul Amato from East Greenwich! It certainly looks like him but dressed like that? Once again I glance at the pamphlet in my hand. It is an Alumni Bulletin published by East Greenwich High School and it is a special issue devoted to the Class of 1952.

The mist is lifting, the room becomes brighter and I see myself being lifted into the future. The knights and ladies change into the forms of my old classmates. What does the future hold for them? Let us see what has been happening between the years 1952 and 1965.

First of all, Paul Amato — Those who watched him devour an eight course meal at the lunch period of East Greenwich High School will be happy to know that he is now head dietician at the "School for Well Fed Yankee Fans."

Joanne Arnold recently organized a group of women to act as the ladies aid to the East Greenwich Cove Fisherman's Association, headed by Tommy Cole. Their present project is knitting argyle fishnets.

Mr. Alan Bailey was just elected president of the United States; however, he is not accepting this as official until he hears whether or not his old classmates have decided to have a re-vote.

Warner Beckman has replaced Ted Williams on the Red Sox field. He stands in the field with a typewriter at his feet and with his toes types like mad the sport editions of baseball as it happens.

Claire Bonin was recently elected full advisor of the West Warwick Canteen. Her present project is promoting better understanding between West Warwick boys and East Greenwich girls!

Judy Boteler just returned from her seven years tour of the world. As she stepped off the ship, she chuckled and said, "I planted Kentucky Blue Grass in everyone of those countries."

Miss Shirley Bourbeau was recently honored at Washington, D. C., for the commendable job she is now doing as President of "Miss Bourbeau's School for Young Ladies."

Miss Connie Cassamas, foremost Buick Convertible dealer, is in the process of installing escalators in the aisles of the Kent Theater for the purpose of saving any possible strain on the present and future usherettes.

Miss Shirley Ann Clarke is very much in demand since publishing her latest book, "The Art of Alliteration and Articulation in Artistic Antics of Speech Making." Ever since her trip to Washington with Girls State, Miss Clarke has been indespensible to our Capitol.

The Governor of Rhode Island recently honored George Coleman, successful Democratic leader in East Greenwich. Mr. Coleman has made it possible for a million dollar high school to be built and also the guarantee of sweat pants for every basketball team in years to come. When asked for a statement on his success Pud replied, "I'm Irish and I'm Democrat; there is no need for further questioning."

Miss Dotty Dean has proven to be just about the busiest of our classmates. She is the Star, Producer, and Director of the sensational television show, "Dotty Faces Life."

Germaine deLisle, treasurer of the National Association of Four-H-Clubs, recently stated, "Compared to being the treasurer for the Class of 1952, this job's a cinch."

Corruption invaded the nursery world when Myrtle Deming published the modern rendition of "Goldy Locks" based on her own actual experiences.

Leslie "Starret" Fiske has done it again! Another super-duper Big Star has been added to his huge chain. In everyone of his markets he gives away free pamphlets entitled, "Five Pointers on the Grocery Business."

Bruce Fogel, well known father of 17 children was asked, "How do you like it?" His reply was, "It's cheaper by the dozen and plus five you're actually making money on the deal!"

World famous golf pro David Foster was asked for a statement on his unusual ability. His reply was, "I owe it all to my loaded golf balls."

Robert Frazee has just designed a Supermatic, Fritze Ritz Special, 1965 Hudson with remote control. Its most amazing feature is an automatic coin collector that empties your pockets as you enter.

Miss Mary Glenn Gross recently held a national premiere celebrating the opening of her immense hotel, "Half and Half", in Mobile, Alabama. When asked for an explanation for the name, she replied, "Half's for my southern friends and the other is for my northern friends."

After many years of red tape and hard labor, Jack Holmes has at long last patented his famous expression, "Cheese and Bread." Now, before anyone can use this, they must have his permission. Jack's reply on the subject was, "Something like that must be kept under control."

Helen Jackson, modern author with a style all her own, recently published another big hit, "You, Too, Can Be Quiet", or "Keep Your Big Mouth Shut."

Vincent Lallo has recently replaced Lionel Barrymore in his famous role of Scrooge in the "Christmas Carol". When asked for a comment, Vinnie replied, "Bah, Humbug."

Shirley Malm is fast becoming one of the richest women in the world. She has her own business in the coldest part of Alaska turning out mass productions of Jello and shipping them to the jolly and mello students of East Greenwich High School.

Walter Mather, famous historian, has replaced Nicholas Stowell in the history department at East Greenwich High School. His motto is "Let them make history, not learn it!"

After years of hard labor Karl Nagy has constructed a mechanical mouse. He stated, "He's not much, but he's all mine."

Howard Nyman has just published that sought after book with original cartoons, "You, Too, Can Crack the Right Joke at the Wrong Moment."

Miss Gyppy Pickells has just opened up her own gum manufacturing company. She takes great pride in having created the only gum in the world that harmonizes while it is being chewed.

Howard Rice, famous time efficiency expert, reported that his present project is investigating the best possible way to eat lunch in 3½ minutes. His employers are the School Committee of East Greenwich.

After working steadily, ever since his graduation in 1952, Vincent Rosano has finally completed and published his very own arrangement of "Whispering."

Harold Schertell has topped all other leading manufacturing companies in his drive to produce the greatest amount of paper airplanes in the shortest amount of time. He has named his planes the "Classroom Teasers." This new invention proves to be a threat to modern education.

Miss Phyllis Shogren recently attained the honor of winning the National Piano Endurance Championship. At her recent concert in Carnegie Hall she played chop-sticks steadily for three and one-half hours.

Tom Storey, who has tested out every branch of our Armed Forces, has finally settled down to a very contented five star general in the Foreign Legion.

The grand opening of "Louie's Community Center" was the event of the year. Mr. Tortolano stated that the main reason for going into a business of his own was so free hot dogs will be supplied for every Senior Hot Dog Roast at East Greenwich High School.

A best seller is now on the market written by Flight Commander Albert Tibbetts. The title is "Gail is my Co-Pilot."

A famous ballet was recently shown at Carnegie Hall. As the final curtain fell, the star of the show, June Warburton, came racing down the aisle. When asked for an explanation, she stated that she was still making up time on the detention list at East Greenwich High School.

On a recent return visit to Mexico City, Senorita Riley went to the bull fight and much to her surprise the chief attraction of the day was the Lady Matador, Anne Wilcox, a former student. When asked why she chose this odd and exciting occupation, Anne replied, "Just for kicks."

Mr. Bob Wilcox has the world in a turmoil over his latest invention. They use them in Spain for wheels on trains — they use them in France for doughnuts, perchance, but here in the United States they're just plain old "Bobbie's Little Liver Pills."

Edgar Wood has spent the last fifteen years just sitting and writing in the town library. When asked when his book was to be published, he replied, "Book! I'm still copying English IV Literature notes!"

That completes the list. Yes, the knights and ladies have done well by their Alma Mater. What did I say the date was on the pamphlet, 1965? — or was it 1695? I am becoming confused again. Which of my masters is beckoning to me now, the past or the future? The old saying "no man can serve two masters," applies to phantoms too, so I think I'll just fade away into oblivion — no more feudal castles, no mor high schools. All I want is rest — rest — rest —

Marguerite Pickells

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1952

We, the Class of 1952 of the East Greenwich High School, having faithfully served our time within these hallowed halls of learning and having gained our capacity of worldly knowledge, and furthermore now being in a confused state of mind do hereby or otherwise, leave, give, remit, bestow, bequeath, thrust upon, and will the following to the following;

Miss Zammitti, we leave a special "Oscar" for her efforts in guiding the E. G. H. S. Dramatic Club.

Mr. Stowell, we leave a medal inscribed as follows: "For action and bravery above and beyond the call of duty in being able to live through a year as eighth grade advisor and teacher."

Miss Riley, we leave the only thing she ever really wanted, "Peace and Quiet."

Mr. Regini, we leave a rubber automobile and a paper telephone post. In this way you'll be safe from any injuries that may be inflicted upon you by inexperienced drivers in your driver training program. To this we add a piece of steel which sure symbolizes the kind of nerves you need and have.

Mr. Iannazzi, we leave a megaphone. This is to keep you competing for the honor of having the loudest voice in the school. The competition is rugged! Right, Miss Zammitti? ? ?

Mr, Hermance, we leave a season ticket to the weekly broadcasts of Paul Laval's Band of America. This is so you'll feel at home when the E. G. H. band takes over.

Mr. Ferri, we leave an outline of next year's assembly program and a list of available speakers. We know the difficulties of putting on assemblies, and hope that this will lessen your burden.

Mrs. Curtis, our school secretary, and Mr. Brackley's star pencil saleswoman, we leave the hope that you will be able to receive a full penny commission on every pencil you sell.

Miss Cooney, we leave our best wishes for good luck in advising the Class of 1957.

Miss Cipolla, we leave a bag of peanuts. Remember, the best things always come in small packages.

Mr. Carcieri, we leave the greatest respect and admiration of every senior.

Miss Byrnes, we leave a bright star. This is so everyone can see how you rate with us, and how you shine when it comes to helping out on dance decorations.

Mr. Brackley, our principal, we leave a bottle of aspirin and a well deserved vacation, after enduring the trials and tribulations of coping with the "Class of '52."

Mrs. Bentsen, we leave a box of cookies, in appreciation for your efforts to make culinary experts out of our senior girls.

Mrs. Barker, we leave a four leaf clover to use next year. As senior class advisor, we know that you will always be able to use a little extra luck.

Mr. Andersen, we hate to leave, for he has been with us only a short time and we will always remember his kindness and cooperation towards our senior activities.

Paul Amato leaves his coffee cup to Norma Keeler with the hope that if she drinks enough coffee at lunch time, she will be able to stay awake during any further readings of novels like the "Mayor of Casterbridge."

Jo Anne Arnold leaves her calm and quiet manner to Judy Anderson. Hope this slows you down a bit, Judy.

Alan Bailey leaves his habit of making puns and cracking corny jokes in class to Fred Springfield. Try to improve upon them, will you, Fred?

Warner Beckman leaves his size thirteen baseball shoes to Jimmy Trainer. "Think you can fill them, "Pie?"

Claire Bonin leaves a tube of Ipana to Margie Siiro so she can keep that "Smile of Beauty."

Judy Boteler leaves her ability to speak the "King's English" to Alfred Warhurst. Now you'll surely pass English I, A1.

Shirley Bourbeau leaves her "Levis" to Katie Batton. (whistle, long and low).

Connie Cassamas leaves her magnetic attraction for snaring fair-haired lads with Buick convertibles to Shirley Davenport.

Shirley Anne Clarke leaves her memories of her trip to Washington, D. C. to the E. G. H. S. for posterity.

George Coleman leaves his big, beautiful, vivacious, nile green eyes, and his motto, "I came, I saw, I conquered," to John Giornelli.

Dottie Dean leaves to Barbara Shadeck a pair of scissors so that she too will be able to have short hair and be scissor happy.

Germaine DeLisle leaves a small sum of money to the Junior Class Treasury. This is to start them on their way toward financing the "1953 Crimson."

Myrtle Deming leaves a bottle of black hair dye, to Yvonne Baber with the hope that she will have enough courage to use it and not be called a "Bottled Blonde."

Leslie Fiske leaves his class ring to Frannie Scholfield. Guess we're a bit late with the announcement, aren't we, Let?

Bruce Fogel, leaves to Milton Abrams a well-developed knack of agreeing to disagree, along with a definite ability to create an argument over nothing.

David Foster leaves to his sister, Natalie a ball of string to keep the "Foster Line" going. Keep it rolling, Nat.

Robert Frazee leaves his title as the "Hot Rod Kid" to Robert Anderson; also a model of Frazee's most modern and up to date hot rod.

Mary Glenn Gross leaves — for Alabama. It's been good to know you, Mary.

Jack Holmes leaves a large economy size jar of peanut butter to the lunch program. Although there was always a good assortment of sandwiches, Jack thought that peanut butter should be added to the list.

Helen Jackson leaves her love for horses and a hot tip on a sure winner to Charlotte White. Hope you pick a winner.

Vincent Lallo leaves an upholstered arm-chair to the detention room. Vinnie sat through many an uncomfortable hour there and figures that something should be done about the seating facilities.

Shirley Malm leaves to Shirley Kettelle her contagious giggle. You know, it's supposed to have a magic charm over Coventry boys with Fords.

Walter Mather leaves his football pants to Bill Mather and any other three players who wish to play a starring role in Walt's pants.

Karl Nagy leaves his full time job of being disgusted with school to Jackie Proulx. It really isn't bad after the first four years.

Howard Nyman leaves his two working speeds, slow and stop, to Jimmy Van Baalen. Think you can beat his record, Jimmy?

Gyppy Pickells as cheer-leader captain, leaves to Joyce Tibbetts her inspiring; "O.K.! Run out there, now!," so that in the coming years the cheerleaders will know just how to approach that line-up.

Howard Rice leaves his immense height to his cousin, Donald Rice. Howard tells us that his secret of staying small was that when he was a child he used to stay up until midnight to watch Dagmar.

Vincent Rosano leaves his way with the opposite sex to Bob Zubee. We wish you as much success as Vinnie had, Bob.

Harold Schertell leaves his "A-1" driving habits to Owen Earnshaw. Here's hoping they don't catch you, Owie.

Phyllis Shogren leaves her speed in typing to Joan Hart. It's easy, Joan. Just close you eyes and move your fingers.

Tom Storey leaves his fuzzy-wuzzy brush cut to Henry Lemoine. A haircut like that is most helpful when playing football, Henry.

Louis Tortolano leaves his little black book to Vance Huling, but do watch out for these Greenwich girls.

Gail Trudell leaves her job as Art Editor of the yearbook to Robert Briggs. We know you'll do a grand job, Bob.

June Warburton leaves her position as official Jell-o maker to anyone in the Junior Class who would like to have the honor of making it.

Anne Wilcox leaves her ability and success in digging up someone else's gym clothes to Joy Mather.

Robert Wilcox leaves his shy and retiring way to Benny Malvinni. We know that Benny is very shy also.

Edgar Wood leaves his title of "Li'l Abner" to Robert Novo. Watch out for those Daisey Mae's, Bob.

We, the Class of 1952, are now leaving this school and its faculty, and we would like to leave our underclassmen with the hope that they, too, will have as much fun and trouble, as we have had.

In witness whereof, we, the undersigned, have set our hand and seal to the Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1952, on this twenty-ninth day of May in the year of Our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and fifty two.

Class History

When we the knights and ladies fair,
First came to E. G., from here and there,
Our hopes were high, our dreams were gay,
Of work and fun, both night and day.

We picked our leaders for that year,
Bruce Fogel was the highest peer.
On Gyppy Pickells, our hopes were placed,
The job of aide she proudly faced.

Shirley Bourbeau was our scribe,
Steve Rowley treasurer of our tribe.
They led us here, they led us there,
In fact they led us everywhere.

That serfdom year we had a ball,
A good time was had by all.
The ball renowned as the Harvest Hop,
To the budget was a flop.

Through fall and winter into spring,
Our days were filled with many things,
Homework, sports, fun, and noise,
All but studies were great joys.

Vacation time soon came in view,
Days left in school were very few.
Those days we spent in joyous fuss,
At the fun that summer would bring to us.

The second year when we returned,
The whole school quickly learned;
A new class had come to old E. G.,
Little eighth graders as all could see.

Little eighth graders turned out swell,
Our mighty sophomore ideas fell.
As we discovered on being deflated,
That the little eighth graders really rated.

We picked those to guide us on the way,
We picked Bruce Fogel — his advice did pay.
We elected Alan Bailey as his aide,
What a combination they made!

With Shirley still scribe for our group,
And Steve Rowley to collect the loot.
That year we worked, and worked my friend,
Oh, how we worked from beginning to end.

The big event, the Sweetheart Dance,
Where gallant knight and lady pranced.
'Mid decorations red and white,
It truly was a heavenly sight.

Gyppy Pickells was Sweetheart Queen,
A more winsome one has ne'er been seen.
She ruled the dance with charm and grace,
From a throne of hearts and dainty lace.

When June rolled 'round our sophomore year,
We jumped in cars and all did steer.
To a place known the world around,
No, it wasn't Mishnock picnic ground.

We wended our way to Scarborough Beach,
For a day by the sea, it was a peach.
The swimming was swell, the water grand,
And, Oh! what a time we had in the sand.

Our sophomore summer we all had fun,
Yes, you and I, why everyone!
We worked and played, but mostly played,
And 'round East Greenwich, most did stay.

September began our Junior year,
And (of course) without any fear.
Of the things we'd do at old E. G.,
For upper classmen now were we.

To lead us on our merry way,
We chose officers one bright day.
With Bruce and Gyppy, pres and aide,
Our year was fun, but really payed.

Yes, Shirley again was our scribe,
And Ge deLisle treasurer for the tribe.
We planned a year of work and pleasure,
All crammed and fulled to utmost measure.

The first big job we had to do,
Was pick class rings and what a stew!
The fights we had were fierce and plenty,
And re-votes were one to twenty.

At long last we chose a ring,
And of its merits, we did sing.
As the smoke blew 'way we settled down,
To being highschoolers in our little town.

At Christmas time at the Senior Ball,
Walt Mather was king and ruled over all.
"King Jolly" his title, so jolly his ways,
Everyone remembered him for days and days.

Basketball season came into view,
Soon the games left were few.
All the games were played real well,
Even the games we lost were swell.

Winter soon gave way to spring,
Our Junior Prom was the coming thing.
The big night came, we'd picked our theme,
And all walked into a lovely dream.

Over the bridge spanning the pool,
And into a garden delightful and cool.
An oriental garden was our theme,
With lanterns and trees, it was a dream.

We danced thru the night and into the morn,
And reached home at the break of dawn!
We'll always remember our Junior Prom,
With an oriental garden full of charm.

We said goodbye to our Junior year,
With two class parties full of cheer.
A Rocky Point trip, a picnic, too,
Our gay Junior year now was through.

Summer came and went,
With happy memories it was spent.
Now September has rolled around,
As stately seniors we were found.

Officers that year, we chose with pride,
Alan Bailey pres, took it in stride.
Puddy Coleman aide, Shirley scribe,
Ge again took the loot for the tribe.

Welcome were freshmen, eighth graders, too,
A field day and dance, a how-de-do.
We settled down to work and play,
So went the school term, day after day.

Our "Crimson" was started, it spread its fame,
Over the land. It became
A book composed 'mid sweat and tears,
To be treasured down through the years.

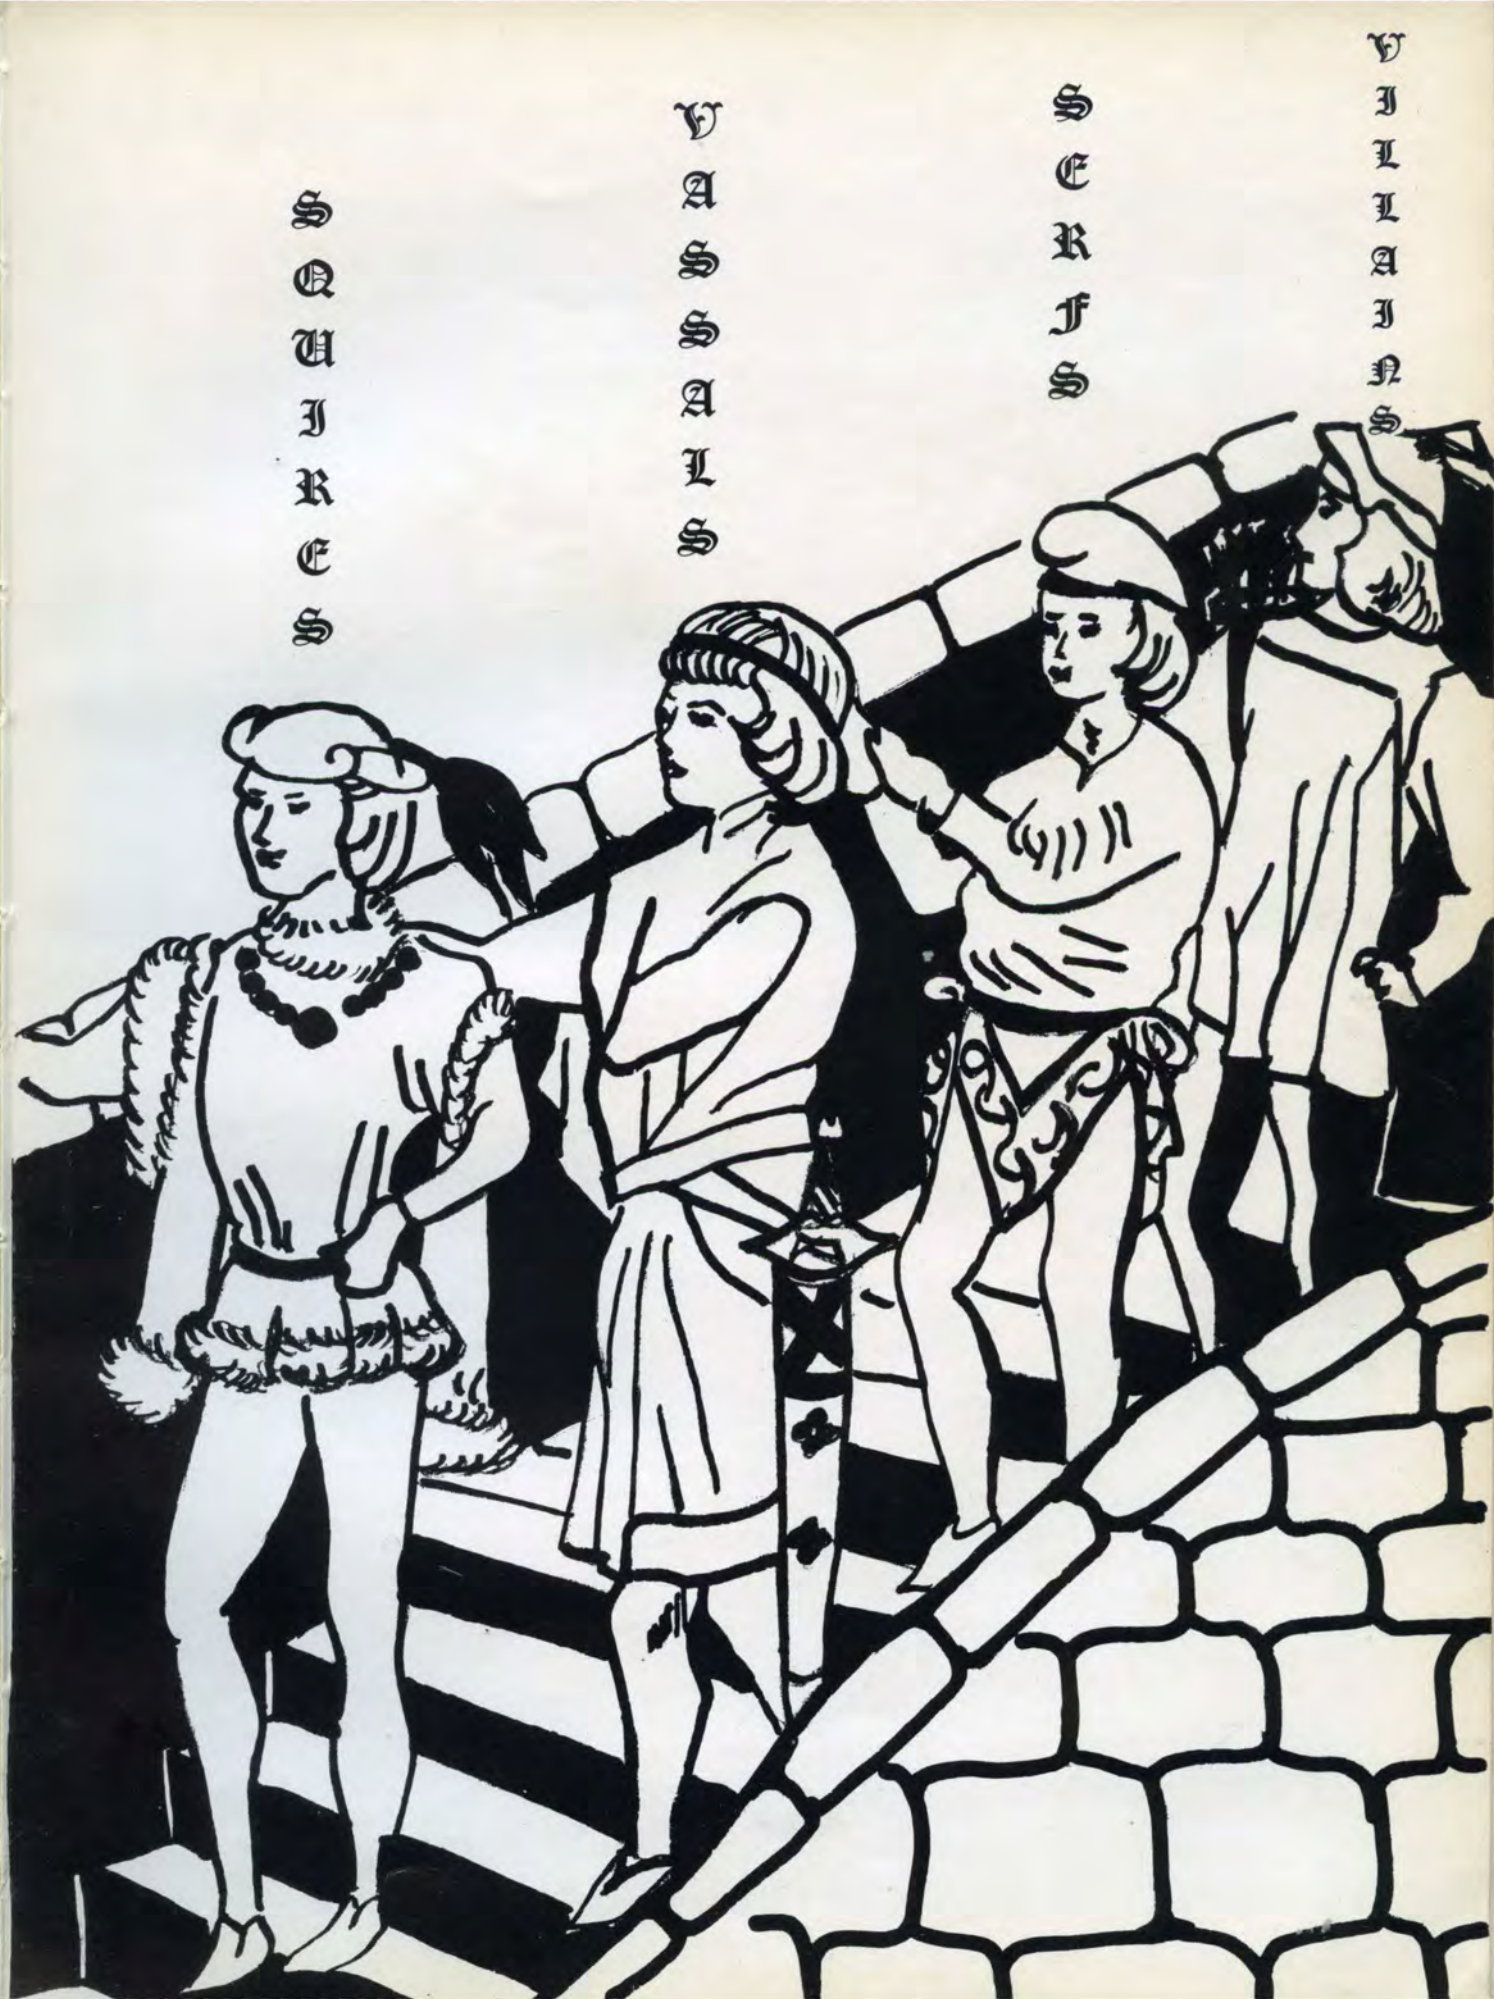

Our Christmas Dance was lots of fun,
And made us think of the joys to come.
The holidays came, the holidays went,
Thus at E. G. our school days were spent.

Days swiftly passed, they faded away,
Before we knew it, 'twas near that day.
The day when we would leave at last,
And EGH would be in our past.

Ivy Day so lovely, Class Day so grand,
Banquet and picnic the best in the land.
The four years such fun, our teachers the best,
Old EGH gave us much happiness.

When Graduation Day at last was here,
We left EG High with a smile and a tear.
A smile for the future, whatever it sends,
A tear for the past, for high school must end.

To Carol
Best of luck to a swell gal. Hope your future years at C.H.S. are full of fun. Somebody would be here, but I'll be in St Vincents (Conv.)
